Where Dragon Veins Meet Stephen H. Whiteman, 2020-01-09. Winner of the 2023 On the Brinck Book Award presented by the University of New Mexico School of Architecture Planning. An auspicious political landscape represented in image and text. In 1702 the second emperor of the Qing dynasty ordered construction of a new summer palace in Rehe, now Chengde, Hebei, to support his annual tours north among the court's Inner Mongolian allies. The Mountain Estate to Escape the Heat, Bishu Shanzhuang, was strategically located at the node of mountain veins through which the Qing empire's geomantic energy was said to flow. At this site, from late spring through early autumn, the Kangxi emperor presided over rituals of intimacy and exchange that celebrated his rule, garden tours, banquets, entertainments and gift giving. Stephen Whiteman draws on resources and methods from art and architectural history, garden and landscape history, early modern global history and historical geography to reconstruct the Mountain Estate as it evolved under Kangxi, illustrating the importance of landscape as a medium for ideological expression during the early Qing and in the early modern world more broadly. Examination of paintings, prints, historical maps, newly created maps informed by GIS-based research and personal accounts reveals the significance of geographic space and its representation in the negotiation of Qing imperial ideology. The first monograph in any language to focus solely on the art and architecture of the Kangxi court, Where Dragon Veins Meet illuminates the court's production and deployment of landscape as a reflection of contemporary concerns and offers new insight into the sources and forms of Qing power through material expressions. Visions of the Human Tom Slevin, 2015-05-28. In what ways do the artistic avant-garde's representations of the human body reflect the catastrophe of World War I? The European modernists were inspired by developments in the nineteenth century, yielding new forms of knowledge about the nature of reality and repositioning the human body as the new object of knowledge. New visions of the human subject were created within this transformation. However, modernity's reactionary political climate for which World War I provided a catalyst transformed a once liberal ideal between humanity environment and technology into a tool of disciplinary rationalisation Visions of the Human considers the consequences of this historical moment for the twentieth and twenty first centuries It explores the ways in which the technologies of the self that inspired the avant garde were increasingly instrumentalised by conservative politics urbanism consumer capitalism and the society of the spectacle This is an engaging and powerful study which challenges prior ideas and explores new ways of thinking about modern visual culture
