Portrait Of A Burger As A Young Calf:

Portrait of a Burger as a Young Calf Peter Lovenheim, 2010-04-14 Four years ago journalist Peter Lovenheim was standing in a long line at McDonald's to buy a Happy Meal for his little daughter which would come with a much desired Teenie Beanie Baby either a black and white cow named Daisy or an adorable red bull named Snort Finding it rather strange that young children were being offered cuddly toy cows one minute and eating the grilled remains of real ones the next Lovenheim suddenly saw clearly the great disconnect between what we eat and our knowledge of where it comes from Determined to understand the process by which living animals become food Lovenheim did the only thing he could think of He bought a calf make that twin calves number 7 and number 8 from the dairy farm where they were born and asked for permission to spend as much time as necessary hanging around and observing everything that happened in the lives of these farm animals Portrait of a Burger as a Young Calf is the provocative true story of Peter Lovenheim's hands on journey into the dairy and beef industries as he follows his calves from conception to possible consumption In the process he gets to know the good hard working people who raise our cattle and make milk products beef and veal available to consumers like you and me He supplies us with a fly on the wall view of how these animals are used to put food on America's very abundant tables Constantly vigilant about wanting to be an observer who never interferes Lovenheim allows the reader to see every aspect of a cow's life without passing judgment Reading this book will forever change the way you think about food and the people and animals who provide it for us From the Hardcover edition

The Pig Who Sang to the Moon Jeffrey Moussaieff Masson, 2007-12-18 Jeffrey Moussaieff Masson's groundbreaking bestseller When Elephants Weep was the first book since Darwin's time to explore emotions in the animal kingdom particularly from animals in the wild Now he focuses exclusively on the contained world of the farm animal revealing startling irrefutable evidence that barnyard creatures have feelings too even consciousness Weaving history literature anecdotes scientific studies and Masson's own vivid experiences observing pigs cows sheep goats and chickens over the course of five years this important book at last gives voice meaning and dignity to these gentle beasts that are bred to be milked shorn butchered and eaten Can we ever know what makes an animal happy Many animal behaviorists say no But Jeffrey Masson has a different view An animal is happy if it can live according to its own nature Farm animals suffer greatly in this regard Chickens for instance like to perch in trees at night to avoid predators and to nestle with friends The obvious conclusion They cannot be happy when confined twenty to a cage From field and barn to pen and coop Masson bears witness to the emotions and intelligence of these remarkable farm animals each unique with distinct qualities Curious intelligent self reliant many will find it hard to believe that these attributes describe a pig In fact there is much that humans share with pigs They dream know their names and can see colors Mother cows mourn the loss of their calves when their babies are taken away to slaughter Given a choice between food that is nutritious or lacking in minerals sheep will select the former balancing their diet and correcting the deficiency Goats display quite a sense of humor

dignity and fearlessness Indian goats have been known to kill leopards Chickens are naturally sociable they will gather around a human companion and stand there serenely preening themselves or sit quietly on the ground beside someone they trust For far too long farm animals have been denigrated and treated merely as creatures of instinct rather than as sentient beings Shattering the abhorrent myth of the dumb animal without feelings Jeffrey Masson has written a revolutionary book that is sure to stir human emotions far and wide

Should We Eat Meat? Vaclav Smil, 2013-03-18 Meat eating is often a contentious subject whether considering the technical ethical environmental political or health related aspects of production and consumption This book is a wide ranging and interdisciplinary examination and critique of meat consumption by humans throughout their evolution and around the world Setting the scene with a chapter on meat's role in human evolution and its growing influence during the development of agricultural practices the book goes on to examine modern production systems their efficiencies outputs and impacts The major global trends of meat consumption are described in order to find out what part its consumption plays in changing modern diets in countries around the world The heart of the book addresses the consequences of the massive carnivory of western diets looking at the inefficiencies of production and at the huge impacts on land water and the atmosphere Health impacts are also covered both positive and negative In conclusion the author looks forward at his vision of rational meat eating where environmental and health impacts are reduced animals are treated more humanely and alternative sources of protein make a higher contribution Should We Eat Meat is not an ideological tract for or against carnivorousness but rather a careful evaluation of meat's roles in human diets and the environmental and health consequences of its production and consumption It will be of interest to a wide readership including professionals and academics in food and agricultural production human health and nutrition environmental science and regulatory and policy making bodies around the world

Seafood Shingo Hamada,Richard Wilk,2018-09-03 Seafood draws on controversial themes in the interdisciplinary field of food studies with case studies from different eras and geographic regions Using familiar commodities this accessible book will help students understand cutting edge issues in sustainability and ask readers to think about the future of an industry that has lain waste to its own resources Examining the practical aspects of fisheries and seafood leads the reader through discussions of the core elements of anthropological method and theory and the book concludes with discussions of sustainable seafood and current efforts to save what is left of marine ecosystems Students will be encouraged to think about their own seafood consumption through project assignments that challenge them to trace the commodity chains of the seafood on their own plates Seafood is an ideal book for courses on food and culture economic anthropology and the environment

Human Minds and Animal Stories Wojciech Małecki,Piotr Sorokowski,Bogusław Pawłowski,Marcin Cieński,2019-02-07 The power of stories to raise our concern for animals has been postulated throughout history by countless scholars activists and writers including such greats as Thomas Hardy and Leo Tolstoy This is the first book to investigate that power and explain the psychological and cultural mechanisms behind it It does so by presenting the results of an experimental project that involved thousands of participants texts representing various genres and national literatures and the cooperation of an internationally acclaimed bestselling author Combining psychological research with insights from animal studies ecocriticism and other fields in the environmental humanities the book not only provides evidence that animal stories can make us care for other species but also shows that their effects are more complex and fascinating than we have ever thought In this way the book makes a groundbreaking contribution to the study of relations between literature and the nonhuman world as well as to the study of how literature changes our minds and society As witnessed by novels like Black Beauty and Uncle Tom's Cabin a good story can move public opinion on contentious social issues In Human Minds and Animal Stories a team of specialists in psychology biology and literature tells how they discovered the power of narratives to shift our views about the treatment of other species Beautifully written and based on dozens of experiments with thousands of subjects this book will appeal to animal advocates researchers and general readers looking for a compelling real life detective story Hal Herzog author of Some We Love Some We Hate Some We Eat Why It's So Hard To Think Straight About Animals

Farm Sanctuary Gene Baur,2008-03-04 Leading animal rights activist Gene Baur examines the real cost of the meat on our plates for both humans and animals alike in this provocative and thorough examination of the modern farm industry Many people picture cows sheep pigs and chickens as friendly creatures who live happily within the confines of a peaceful family farm arriving as food for humans only at the end of their sun drenched lives

That's what Gene Baur had been told but when he first visited a stockyard he realized that this rosy depiction couldn't be more inaccurate. Amid the stench, noise, and filth, his attention was drawn in particular to one sheep who had been cast aside for dead. But as Baur walked by, the sheep raised her head and looked right at him. She was still alive, and the one thing Baur knew for sure that day was that he had to get her to safety. Hilda, as she was later named, was nursed back to health and soon became the first resident of Farm Sanctuary, an organization dedicated to the rescue, care, and protection of farm animals. The truth is that farm production does not depend on the family farmer with a small herd of animals but instead resembles a large assembly-line factory. Animals raised for human consumption are confined for the entirety of their lives and often live without companionship, fresh air, or even adequate food and water. Viewed as production units rather than living beings with feelings, ten billion farm animals are exploited specifically for food in the United States every year. In Farm Sanctuary, Baur provides a thought-provoking investigation of the ethical questions involved in the production of beef, poultry, pork, milk, and eggs and what each of us can do to stop the mistreatment of farm animals and promote compassion. He details the triumphs and the disappointments of more than twenty years on the front lines of the animal protection movement. And he introduces sanctuary us to some of the special creatures who live at Farm Sanctuary, from Maya the cow to Marmalade the chicken, all of whom escaped horrible circumstances to live happier, more peaceful lives. Farm Sanctuary shows how all of us have an opportunity and a responsibility to consume a kinder plate, making a better life for ourselves and animals as well. You will certainly never think of a hamburger or chicken breast the same way after reading this book.

Animal Pragmatism Erin McKenna, Andrew Light, 2004-09-07. What does American pragmatism contribute to contemporary debates about human-animal relationships? Does it acknowledge our connections to all living things? Does it bring us closer to an ethical treatment of all animals? What about hunting, vegetarianism, animal experimentation, and the welfare of farm animals? While questions about human relations with animals have been with us for millennia, there has been a marked rise in public awareness about animal issues even McDonald's advertises that they use humanely treated animals as food sources. In Animal Pragmatism, 12 lively and provocative essays address concerns at the intersection of pragmatist philosophy and animal welfare. Topics cover a broad range of issues including moral consideration of animals, the ethics of animal experimentation, institutional animal care, environmental protection of animal habitat, farm animal welfare, animal communication, and animal morals. Readers who interact with animals, whether as pets or on a plate, will find a robust and fascinating exploration of human-nonhuman relationships. Contributors are James M. Albrecht, Douglas R. Anderson, Steven Fesmire, Glenn Kuehn, Todd Lekan, Andrew Light, John J. McDermott, Erin McKenna, Phillip McReynolds, Ben Minteer, Matthew Pament, Paul Thompson, and Jennifer Welchman.
