Harvey Francis HARVEY (Bookseller and Printseller.), 1876      Portraits of the L2 User Vivian Cook, 2002-08-06 Portraits of the L2 User treats second language users in their own right rather than as failed native speakers It describes a range of psychological and linguistic approaches to diverse topics about L2 users It thus provides an innovative overview of current second language acquisition theories results and methods seen from a common perspective      The Stranger's Guide to Hampton Court Palace and Gardens William WILLSHIRE, 1866      The stranger's guide to Hampton-court palace and gardens John Grundy (of Hampton Court.), 1843      The Stranger's Guide to Hampton Court Palace and Gardens John Grundy, 1853      The stranger's guide to Hampton-court palace and gardens. revised by W. Grundy John Grundy (of Hampton Court.), 1856      The ambulator; or, The stranger's companion in a tour round London, collected by a gentleman [J. Bew?]. John Bew, 1820      Confounding Images Susan S. Williams, 2016-11-11 Susan Williams recovers the literary and cultural significance of early photography in an important rereading of American fiction in the decades preceding the Civil War The rise of photography occurred simultaneously with the rapid expansion of magazine publication in America and Williams analyzes the particular role that periodicals such as Godey's Lady's Book, Burton's Gentleman's Magazine and Atkinson's Casket played in defining how photography was received. At the center of the book are readings of a stunning array of fiction by forgotten and canonical writers alike including Edgar Allan Poe, Louisa May Alcott and Sarah Hale as well as extended interpretations of Nathaniel Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables and The Marble Faun and Herman Melville's Pierre. In a concluding section Williams offers a view of the fictional portrait in the later nineteenth century when the proliferation of illustrated books once again transformed the relation between word and image in American culture.

The Stranger's Guide Through the University and City of Oxford, Etc, 1839      Portrait of a Stranger Rose Brookins and Mina Petkova, 2019-06-27 Three chance encounters. Two boys. First love. CHARLIE is lost in his own life. At twenty years old his single act of rebellion has been to convince his parents to let him go to art school. Everything else though is a bit of a mess. He is good at art but doesn't know what he wants from it. He's not at all good at having a girlfriend and he definitely doesn't know what she wants from him. Now it's only a week until the summer holidays and he's not even begun sketching for his final assignment. Instead he's moping through central London so distracted that he ends up shoplifting. It's a miserable day in the making until he meets his Stranger. PIP thinks about his Good Looking Thief for days after they meet. Daydreams tinged with wistfulness more suited to the memory of a summer long ago. But he soon lets it go. Even in his own fantasies he can't bring himself to ask for the bloke's number because the truth is he's no good at befriending people. Certainly not posh artistic types with girlfriends. It's all right. He's used to not having his way when you live in the kind of area he does. You learn to put your head down and keep going especially when you've been out since you were twelve. With a light touch that does not shy away from exploring complex issues of self discovery and desire Portrait of a Stranger delivers a mesmerizing story of friendship and first love. Readers will be cheering for Charlie and Pip from their first chance encounter to the final page and beyond. Those who fell in love Simon vs the Homo Sapiens Agenda Love Simon and Aristotle and Dante Discover the Secrets of the Universe will enjoy Portrait of a Stranger      Birmingham illustrated. BROTHERS., 1849      The stranger's guide through the university and city of Oxford. To which is added, a description of Blenheim, 1847      Donahoe's Magazine, 1893      [The Camera and the Press Marcy J. Dinius, 2012-03-15 Before most Americans ever saw an actual daguerreotype they encountered this visual form through written descriptions published and rapidly reprinted in newspapers throughout the land. In The Camera and the Press Marcy J. Dinius examines how the first written and published responses to the daguerreotype set the terms for how we now understand the representational accuracy and objectivity associated with the photograph as well as the democratization of portraiture that photography enabled. Dinius's archival research ranges from essays in popular nineteenth century periodicals to daguerreotypes of Americans, Liberians, slaves and even fictional characters. Examples of these portraits are among the dozens of illustrations featured in the book The Camera and the Press presents new dimensions of Nathaniel Hawthorne's The House of the Seven Gables, Herman Melville's Pierre, Harriet Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin, and Frederick Douglass's The Heroic Slave. Dinius shows how these authors strategically incorporated aspects of daguerreian representation to advance their aesthetic, political, and social agendas. By recognizing print and visual culture as one, Dinius redefines such terms as art, objectivity, sympathy, representation, race, and nationalism and their interrelations in nineteenth-century America.
