Careers after Congress Matthew S. Dabros,2017-05-18 Citizens journalists and watchdog organizations claim that U S Congress members serve special interest groups in return for lucrative jobs in industry once they leave office and that these legislators become lax in their final term of office as they are no longer compelled by elections to provide quality representation to citizens This book investigates the veracity of these claims The established consensus among scholars and citizens groups is that democracy suffers when U S Congress members prepare to leave office that legislators are quick to satisfy pressure groups requests in part because they anticipate being rewarded with financially compelling positions in those organizations once they leave office But is this actually true Focusing on 346 of the senators and representatives who left office during the 107th through 111th Congresses January 2001 to January 2011 this book makes a counterintuitive argument that job seeking legislators provide stalwart service to citizens during their final term of office for fear of damaging their reputations and imperiling their post Congressional career prospects After an introductory chapter author Matthew S Dabros summarizes past research on political opportunism before discussing how nonelectoral constraints imposed by special interests namely diminished post Congressional employment opportunities actually encourage job seeking legislators to provide quality representation to citizens even in their final term in office The book also describes the nature and identifies the determinants of post Congressional careers The chapters use numerous contemporary examples and draw parallels to topics familiar to general readers to ensure that the book is highly accessible and interesting to nonspecialists The Advocate ,1995-08-22 The Advocate is a lesbian gay bisexual transgender LGBT monthly newsmagazine Established in 1967 it is the oldest continuing LGBT publication in the United States Computerworld ,1992-12-07 For more than 40 years Computerworld has been the leading source of technology news and information for IT influencers worldwide Computerworld s award winning Web site Computerworld com twice monthly publication focused conference series and custom research form the hub of the world s largest global IT media network Ski ,2002-11
