telling Mark McKenna A graceful unostentatiously scholarly wise and highly readable book on a subject of overwhelming and enduring significance for all Australians Robert Manne The tale of a town and a nation Returning after fifty years to the frontier town where he lived as a boy Dean Ashenden finds Tennant Creek transformed but its silence about the past still mostly intact Provoked by a half hidden account Ashenden sets out to understand how the story of relations between two racial groups within a single field of life has been told and not told in this town and across the nation In a riveting combination of memoir reportage and political and intellectual history Ashenden traces the strange career of the great Australian silence from its beginnings in the first encounters of black and white through the work of the early anthropologists the historians and the courts in landmark cases about land rights and the Stolen Generations to still continuing controversy In a moving finale Ashenden goes back to Tennant Creek once more to meet for the first time some of his Aboriginal contemporaries and to ask how the truths of Australia s story can best be told      The Routledge Companion to Cultural History in the Western World Alessandro Arcangeli,Jörg Rogge,Hannu Salmi,2020-09-01 The Routledge Companion to Cultural History in the Western World is a comprehensive examination of recent discussions and findings in the exciting field of cultural history A synthesis of how the new cultural history has transformed the study of history the volume is divided into three parts medieval early modern and modern that emphasize the way people made sense of the world around them Contributions cover such themes as material cultures of living mobility and transport cultural exchange and transfer power and conflict emotion and communication and the history of the senses The focus is on the Western world but the notion of the West is a flexible one In bringing together 36 authors from 15 countries the book takes a wide geographical coverage devoting continuous attention to global connections and the emerging trend of globalization It builds a panorama of the transformation of Western identities and the critical ramifications of that evolution from the Middle Ages to the twenty first century that offers the reader a wide ranging illustration of the potentials of cultural history as a way of studying the past in a variety of times spaces and aspects of human experience Engaging with historiographical debate and covering a vast range of themes periods and places The Routledge Companion to Cultural History in the Western World is the ideal resource for cultural history students and scholars to understand and advance this dynamic field      Racial Crossings Damon Ieremia Salesa,2011-05-19 The Victorians were fascinated with intersections between different races Whether in sexual or domestic partnerships in interracial children racially diverse communities or societies these racial crossings were a lasting Victorian concern But in an era of imperial expansion when slavery was abolished colonial wars were fought and Britain itself was reformed these concerns were more than academic In both the British empire and imperial Britain racial crossings shaped what people thought about race the future the past and the conduct and possibilities of empire Victorian fears of miscegenation and degeneration are well known this study turns to apparently opposite ideas where racial crossing was seen as a means of improvement a way of creating new societies or a mode for furthering the rule of law and the kingdom of Heaven Salesa explores how and why the preoccupation with racial crossings came to be so important so varied and so widely shared through the writings and experiences of a raft of participants from Victorian politicians and writers to philanthropists and scientists to those at the razor's edge of empire from soldiers missionaries and settlers to natives half castes and other colonized people Anchored in the striking history of colonial New Zealand where the colonial policy of racial amalgamation sought to incorporate and intermarry settlers and New Zealand Maori Racial Crossings examines colonial encounters working closely with indigenous ideas and experiences to put Victorian racial practice and thought into sharp critical relief

Breaking the Silence Alison Holland, 2019-11-19 Breaking the Silence recovers the conflicted politics of Aboriginal affairs in the first decades of the twentieth century From 1905 when the report of the controversial Roth Royal Commission in Western Australia was made known to the public to the eve of World War II the condition status and treatment of Aboriginal Australians were leading social questions that generated much discontent and underscored the awakening of a national conscience Styled the new public defenders lobbied governments to develop policies to ensure viable Aboriginal futures In charting aspects of this politics Alison Holland uncovers the defenders programs for reform and the responses of governments to them She shows how the consternation of the defenders was disproportionate to political will Governments didn't listen or hear They viewed the issues and solutions in different ways Where defenders saw a humanitarian crisis governments identified a colour problem in White Australia and developed policies to eradicate it Breaking the Silence shows that there was no great Australian silence on this question in the first half of the twentieth century While the history books may have been silent the politics on the ground in the press the auditorium parliament university church and mission were anything but Holland asks why this was so What form did this politics take what was at stake and what were the outcomes In answering these questions the book provides important historical context for the consternation and debates still being had in the Australian polity over Aboriginal affairs

'We are a farming class' Peter Woodley, 2025-04-03 Notions of an arcadian farming life permeate settler Australian understandings of themselves and their nation Qualities of hard work perseverance resourcefulness and a steady devotion to family and community the historian John Hirst's Pioneer Legend are idealised in this nation But the people from whom the legend is derived have rarely been studied in depth They are more the stuff of myth and fond imagining than of concerted examination To what extent is the legend built on lived experience How have farming people thought of themselves and their contribution to a wider national mythos We are a farming class examines the lives of people in the farmlands surrounding Dubbo in the New South Wales central west between the 1870s and the 1950s from free selection and the establishment of agriculture to the dawning of postwar prosperity and change What emerges is a closely documented

ethnographically rich portrait of a way of life and culture at once distinctive and surprising recognisable and unknown

King-O'Riain, Stephen Small, Minelle Mahtani, Miri Song, Paul Spickard, 2014-03-14 Patterns of migration and the forces of globalization have brought the issues of mixed race to the public in far more visible far more dramatic ways than ever before Global Mixed Race examines the contemporary experiences of people of mixed descent in nations around the world moving beyond US borders to explore the dynamics of racial mixing and multiple descent in Zambia Trinidad and Tobago Mexico Brazil Kazakhstan Germany the United Kingdom Canada Okinawa Australia and New Zealand In particular the volume s editors ask how have new global flows of ideas goods and people affected the lives and social placements of people of mixed descent Thirteen original chapters address the ways mixed race individuals defy bolster speak and live racial categorization paying attention to the ways that these experiences help us think through how we see and engage with social differences The contributors also highlight how mixed race people can sometimes be used as emblems of multiculturalism and how these identities are commodified within global capitalism while still considered by some as not pure or inauthentic A strikingly original study Global Mixed Race carefully and comprehensively considers the many different meanings of racial mixedness

Indigenous Digital Life Bronwyn Carlson, Ryan Frazer, 2021-10-04 Settler societies habitually frame Indigenous people as a people of the past their culture somehow frozen in time their identities tied to static notions of authenticity and their communities understood as in decline But this narrative erases the many ways that Indigenous people are actively engaged in future orientated practice including through new technologies Indigenous Digital Life offers a broad wide ranging account of how social media has become embedded in the lives of Indigenous Australians Centring on ten core themes including identity community hate desire and death we seek to understand both the practice and broader politics of being Indigenous on social media Rather than reproducing settler narratives of Indigenous deficiency we approach Indigenous social media as a space of Indigenous action production and creativity we see Indigenous social media users as powerful agents who interact with and shape their immediate worlds with skill flair and nous and instead of being a people of the past we show that Indigenous digital life is often future orientated working towards building better relations communities and worlds This book offers new ideas insights and provocations for both students and scholars of Indigenous studies media and communication studies and cultural studies

Taming Cannibals Patrick Brantlinger, 2011-09-16 In Taming Cannibals Patrick Brantlinger unravels contradictions embedded in the racist and imperialist ideology of the British Empire For many Victorians the idea of taming cannibals or civilizing savages was oxymoronic civilization was a goal that the nonwhite peoples of the world could not attain or at best could only approximate yet the civilizing mission was viewed as the ultimate justification for imperialism Similarly the supposedly unshakeable certainty of Anglo Saxon racial superiority was routinely undercut by widespread fears about racial degeneration through contact with lesser races or concerns that Anglo Saxons might be superseded by something superior an even fitter or higher race or species Brantlinger traces the development of those fears through close readings of a wide range of texts including Robinson Crusoe by Daniel Defoe Fiji and the Fijians by Thomas Williams Daily Life and Origin of the Tasmanians by James Bonwick The Descent of Man by Charles Darwin Heart of Darkness by Joseph Conrad Culture and Anarchy by Matthew Arnold She by H Rider Haggard and The War of the Worlds by H G Wells Throughout the wide ranging capacious and rich Taming Cannibals Brantlinger combines the study of literature with sociopolitical history and postcolonial theory in novel ways together and legitimised a trinity of beliefs that lay at the heart of his nonconformist faith and character God England and Empire Despite the enormous appeal of his many published works which during the first half of the twentieth century saw him become a household name and a major publishing brand Mee has remained an ethereal figure In Arthur Mee the first full length account of Mee s life since 1946 Crawford draws upon a range of Mee s correspondence to offer for the first time a realistic picture of the man at work and at home as an antidote to the overly romanticised image attached to his name The book places Mee s work within the wider cultural political and social context of an England undergoing unparalleled societal change and technological advancement Scholars of the history of education children s literature and beyond will find much of interest in these pages and childhood devotees to Mee s publications may well find themselves transported back to a time of wonder imagination and hope Journal of Australian Colonial History ,2008 Colonial Contexts and Postcolonial

Research and practice shows that many vulnerable children and families face more than one challenge and require more than one intervention However our service system has evolved historically to deal with one thing at a time or to provide services from multiple sources This lack of integration can have a devastating effect on some families where key information or warning signs are missed Coronial and judicial inquiries constantly stress the negative impact of a siloed approach to service
