Nuclear Navy 1946 196:

Origins of the Maritime Strategy Michael A. Palmer,1988      Trillions for Military Technology J. Alic,2007-09-03
Trillions for Military Technology explains why the weapons purchased by the U S Department of Defense cost so much why it takes decades to get them into production even as innovation in the civilian economy becomes ever more frenetic and why some of those weapons don t work very well despite expenditures of many billions of dollars It also explains what do about these problems The author argues that the internal politics of the armed services make weapons acquisition almost unmanageable Solutions require empowering civilian officials and reforms that will bring choice of weapons into the sunshine of public debate      Major Events of the Nuclear Age Erik V. Nordheim,1967      Nuclear Power National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems,Energy Engineering Board,Committee on Future Nuclear Power Development,1992-02-01 The construction of nuclear power plants in the United States is stopping as regulators reactor manufacturers and operators sort out a host of technical and institutional problems This volume summarizes the status of nuclear power analyzes the obstacles to resumption of construction of nuclear plants and describes and evaluates the technological alternatives for safer more economical reactors Topics covered include Institutional issues including regulatory practices at the federal and state levels the growing trends toward greater competition in the generation of electricity and nuclear and nonnuclear generation options Critical evaluation of advanced reactors covering attributes such as cost construction time safety development status and fuel cycles Finally three alternative federal research and development programs are presented      The Naval Air War in Korea Richard Hallion,2011-03-25 In The Naval Air War in Korea Dr Hallion has captured the fact feel ing and fancy of a very important conflict in aviation history in cluding the highly significant facets of the transition from piston to jet propelled combat aircraft Norman Polmar author of Naval Institute Guide to the Ships and Aircraft of the U S Fleet 18th Edition      Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1947-04 The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security Founded by Manhattan Project Scientists the Bulletin s iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world      The Nuclear Barons Peter Pringle,James Jacob Spigelman,1983
    Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1974-12      Nature Talks Back Robert Nadeau,1984      The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean: Volume 1, The Pacific Ocean to 1800 Ryan Tucker Jones,Matt K. Matsuda,2023-01-05 Volume I of The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean provides a wide ranging survey of Pacific history to 1800 It focuses on varied concepts of the Pacific environment and its impact on human history as well as tracing the early exploration and colonization of the Pacific the evolution of Indigenous maritime cultures after colonization and the disruptive arrival of Europeans Bringing together a diversity of subjects and viewpoints this volume introduces a broad variety of topics engaging fully with emerging environmental and political conflicts over Pacific Ocean spaces These essays emphasize the impact of the deep history of interactions on and across the Pacific to the present day      Nuclear Navy, 1946-1962 Richard G. Hewlett, Francis Duncan, 1974-01-01      Anti-nuclear Movements Wolfgang Rüdig, 1990      Speak No Evil Louis Gwin, 1990-11-09 Are the nuclear industry's efforts to prepare the public during emergency situations adequate This study critiques risk communication programs and questions whether these programs have convinced residents close to nuclear power plants to follow instructions in an emergency The government invests the responsibility of nuclear risk communication essentially with the utilities that operate the plants with little supervision by either federal or state officials The study demonstrates that such programs do not communicate critical safety information that people living near plants will make decisions in an emergency contrary to those recommended and that disparity exists between technical and lay perceptions of risk A unique investigation of non governmental public communication the book analyzes the persuasive efforts of corporate advocacy and risk management Risk communication is seen as a substitute for the more stringent regulatory measures necessary to protect public health and safety in a technological age Speak No Evil begins with a discussion of issues surrounding risk communication then describes how the narrative of the promotional history of nuclear power developed and eventually contaminated modern nuclear risk communication messages Students of organizational communication rhetoric political communication and public relations issue management will find this book illuminating      Reader's Guide to Military History Charles Messenger, 2013-10-31 This book contains some 600 entries on a range of topics from ancient Chinese warfare to late 20th century intervention operations Designed for a wide variety of users it encompasses general reviews of aspects of military organization and science as well as specific wars and conflicts The book examines naval and air warfare as well as significant individuals including commanders theorists and war leaders Each entry includes a listing of additional publications on the topic accompanied by an article discussing these publications with reference to their particular emphases strengths and limitations      Nuclear Power Goes On-Line William Beaver, 1990-05-23 On May 26 1958 the Shippingport Pennsylvania nuclear power station ushered in the age of the peaceful atom when it became the first nuclear power plant to go on line Throughout its more than three decades of operation Shippingport encountered many of the crucial problems and issues that still confront nuclear power policy formation the role of government in technological innovation technological management environmental issues breeder reactors and the decommissioning of a nuclear plant In an objective and nonprejudiced way this book provides an accurate account of the important events in Shippingport's history and the role that they played in the future course of nuclear power Unlike other general treatments of nuclear power this volume presents a specific case history of one plant with the major issues that influenced nuclear power analyzed in the context of both Shippingport and the nuclear industry as a whole It draws on technical reports filed with the government Congressional testimony by project head Hyman Rickover interviews with participants in the Shippingport project and relevant secondary sources to detail the history of one of the few successful government attempts to innovate energy technologies following

World War II The chapters trace the story of Shippingport from its beginnings through construction training and management to its final decommissioning Other issues and influences such as the AEC s reactor development policy and the plant s role in the adoption of the light water reactor are also addressed The book concludes with a general bibliography This important new work will be a valuable resource for courses in the history of technology public policy technology and society and technological management It will also be an important addition to college university and public libraries
