Nuclearization Of South Asia:

The Politics of Nuclear Weapons in South Asia Bhumitra Chakma, 2016-02-24 An important and critical re evaluation of South Asia's post tests nuclear politics in contrast to other books this volume emphasises the political dimension of South Asia's nuclear weapons explains how the bombs are used as politico strategic assets rather than pure battlefield weapons and how India and Pakistan utilise them for politico strategic purposes in an extremely complex and competitive South Asian strategic landscape Written by a group of perceptive observers of South Asia this volume evaluates the current state of Indo Pakistani nuclear deterrents the challenges that the two countries confront in building their nuclear forces the post test nuclear doctrines of the two strategic rivals the implications of Indo Pakistani politics for regional cooperation the role of two systemic actors USA and China in the region's nuclear politics and the critical issues of confidence building and nuclear arms control

The Nuclearization of South Asia Kamal Matinuddin, 2002 Tracing the nuclear and missile programs of India and Pakistan from their inception this book places an important focus on their present state It highlights security models shedding light on the role of outside powers in promoting or retarding nuclear weapon status It also discusses theories of nuclear deterrence and suggests that the likelihood of their failure is strongest in South Asia

South Asia's Nuclear Security Bhumitra Chakma, 2014-12-17 South Asia is often viewed as a potential nuclear flashpoint and a probable source of nuclear terrorism But how valid are such perceptions This book seeks to address this question and assesses the region's nuclear security from two principal standpoints First it evaluates the robustness of the Indo Pakistani mutual deterrence by analysing the strength and weaknesses of the competing arguments regarding the issue It also analyses the causes and consequences of nuclear arms race between India and Pakistan the nature of deterrence structure in the region and the challenges of confidence building and arms control between the two countries in order to assess the robustness of South Asia's nuclear deterrence Second it assesses the safety and security of the nuclear assets and nuclear infrastructure of India and Pakistan The author holds that the debate on South Asia's nuclear security is largely misplaced because the optimists tend to overemphasise the stabilising effects of nuclear weapons and the pessimists are too alarmists It is argued that while the risks of nuclear weapons are significant it is unlikely that India and Pakistan will give up their nuclear arsenals in the foreseeable future Therefore what needs to happen is that while nuclear elimination should be the long term goal in the interim years the two countries need to pursue minimum deterrence policies to reduce the likelihood of deterrence failure and the possibility of obtaining fissile materials by non state actors

Inside Nuclear South Asia Scott Douglas Sagan, 2009-08-17 This book presents an analytical account of the causes and dangerous consequences of nuclear proliferation in South Asia

Dangerous Deterrent S. Paul Kapur, 2007 Does the proliferation of nuclear weapons cause ongoing conflicts to diminish or to intensify The spread of nuclear weapons to South Asia offers an opportunity to investigate this crucial question Optimistic scholars argue that by threatening to raise the cost of war astronomically nuclear weapons make armed conflict in South Asia extremely unlikely Pessimistic scholars maintain that nuclear weapons make the subcontinent war prone because of technological political and organizational problems This book argues that nuclear weapons have destabilized the subcontinent principally because of their interaction with India and Pakistan's territorial preferences and relative military capabilities These findings challenge both optimistic and pessimistic conventional wisdom and have implications beyond South Asia

Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia Sumit Ganguly, S. Paul Kapur, 2008-08-06 This edited volume explores competing perspectives on the impact of nuclear weapons proliferation on the South Asian security environment The spread of nuclear weapons is one of the world's foremost security concerns The effect of nuclear weapons on the behaviour of newly nuclear states and the potential for future international crises are of particular concern As a region of burgeoning economic and political importance South Asia offers a crucial test of proliferation's effects on the crisis behaviour of newly nuclear states This volume creates a dialogue between scholars who believe that nuclear weapons have stabilized the subcontinent and those who believe that nuclear weapons have made South Asia more conflict prone It does so by pairing competing analyses of four major regional crises the 1987 Brasstacks crisis the Indo Pakistani crisis of 1990 the 1999 Kargil war which occurred after the nuclear tests and the 2001-2 Indo Pakistani militarized standoff In addition the volume explores the implications of the South Asian nuclear experience for potential new nuclear states such as North Korea and Iran

Second Strike Rajesh Rajagopalan, 2005 In May 1998 India tested a series of nuclear devices in Pokharan Two weeks later Pakistan announced a matching series of its own tests A year later when the two countries had a bitter confrontation in Kargil the worst fears of proliferation pessimists appeared to be coming true The alarm bells have never really stopped ringing since then In Second Strike Rajesh Rajagopalan challenges much of the conventional wisdom on the perceived nuclear danger in the region and suggests that the nuclear situation in South Asia is far less dangerous and much more stable than it is generally given credit for Presenting a threefold case the author focuses on the impact of nuclear doctrines on stability a hitherto neglected aspect of the nuclear debate and argues that Indian and Pakistani doctrines reduce the pressures on the two nuclear forces Next he presents the view that the doctrines of the two countries lessen the likelihood of accidents and other dangers such as terrorists stealing nuclear weapons the crucial role played by political leaders and contends that political leaders tighten control over nuclear weapons in critical situations

The Consequences of Nuclear Proliferation Devin T. Hagerty, 1998 Hagerty analyzes how India and Pakistan interacted in diplomatic and military crises before their 1998 nuclear tests He presents detailed studies of the January 1987 Indo Pakistani crisis precipitated by India's Brasstacks military exercises and the 1990 confrontation over Kashmir Hagerty concludes that relations between India and Pakistan in recent years support the argument that nuclear proliferation does not necessarily destabilize international relations and may even reduce the risk of war

The Nuclear Shadow over South Asia, 1947 to the Present Kaushik Roy, 2017-03-02 This collection of seminal articles illustrates the reasons for the spiraling nuclear race in the Asian subcontinent and introduces the principal debates in the field. Authors discuss whether the acquisition of nuclear weapons by the South Asian powers has raised the likelihood of a nuclear war in the subcontinent or reduced the chance of a conventional war breaking out. They examine whether a small nuclear arsenal or a nuclear triad as declared by India is suitable for bringing stability to the region as well as the risk of an accidental nuclear conflagration. The first section charts the evolution of nuclear programmes on the basis of realpolitik and the second section analyses nuclear policies on the basis of religious and cultural ethos. A few essays turn the spotlight on the role of external powers in accelerating, decelerating and mediating the ongoing nuclear tension between India and Pakistan.

Strategic Consequences of Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia Neil Joeck, 2025-04-01. Strategic Consequences of Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia 1986 examines the consequences for particular states should India and Pakistan decide to deploy nuclear weapons. It looks in detail at the positions of both India and Pakistan and the responses of the United States, the Soviet Union and China and their respective strategic positions. This book includes contributions on the larger question of how nuclear pariah states pose a separate problem of nuclear proliferation as well as on the broader challenges to the nuclear non-proliferation regime.

Nuclear Weapons and Arms Control in South Asia After the Test Ban Eric H. Arnett, 1998. As the nuclear weapon states continue to reduce their nuclear arsenals and international efforts to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons are reinvigorated, South Asia remains a unique region almost entirely unencumbered by nuclear arms control. Despite the recent popularity of the notion that nuclear deterrence is stabilizing the Indo-Pakistani conflict, there is good reason to believe that the risks of war and the use of nuclear weapons are not fully appreciated. Nevertheless, the prospects for negotiated measures to improve the situation are not good because of the domestic politics on both sides.

Nuclear Weapons and Arms Control in South Asia after the Test Ban sheds new light on the risks of the current stand-off, the hidden costs of the nuclear options and the domestic sources of the region's inertia. Bringing together Indian, Pakistani and Chinese perspectives.

Nuclear Risk Reduction in South Asia Michael Krepon, 2004-11-26. The essays in this collection explore and analyze how to reduce the risk of nuclear war in South Asia. Contributors work to introduce the theory and methodology of nuclear risk reduction to provide specific measures that might work best in the region and to consider the consequences of missile defense options for stability in Asia. Much work is needed to reduce nuclear dangers between India and Pakistan. While the fact that both countries possess nuclear weapons may prevent a full-blown conventional or nuclear war, the presence of these weapons in the region may also encourage the use of violence at lower levels, expecting escalation to be contained by a mutual desire to avoid the nuclear threshold. One only needs to look at the Kashmir conflict for confirmation of this paradox, with serious crises coming more frequently with more severity since the nuclear tests of 1998. Sustained efforts along the line suggested by the contributors of this volume are a crucial step toward reducing nuclear risk on the Subcontinent.

Nuclear Deterrence in South Asia Rizwana Abbasi, Zafar Khan, 2019-06-25. This book explores evolving patterns of nuclear deterrence, the impact of new technologies and changing deterrent force postures in the South Asian region to assess future challenges for sustainable peace and stability Under the core principles of the security dilemma this book analyzes the prevailing security environment in South Asia and offers unilateral bilateral and multilateral frameworks to stabilize peace and ensure deterrence stability in the South Asian region Moreover contending patterns of deterrence dynamics in the South Asian region are further elaborated as becoming inextricably interlinked with the broader security dynamics of the Asia Pacific region and the interactions with the United States and China's Belt and Road Initiative As India and Pakistan are increasingly becoming part of the competing strategies exercised by the United States and China the authors analyze how strategic uncertainty and fear faced by these rival states cause the introduction of new technologies which could gradually drift these competing states into more serious crises and military conflicts Presenting innovative solutions to emerging South Asian challenges and offering new security mechanisms for sustainable peace and stability this book will be of interest to academics and policymakers working on Asian Security studies

Nuclear Strategy and International Relations The Causes and Consequences of South Asia's Nuclear Tests Hilary Synnott, 2020-11-25 Why did India and Pakistan carry out nuclear tests in 1998 and what are the consequences of their actions This paper examines the complex domestic and international factors that persuaded each country to drop its long standing nuclear ambiguity It also unravels the repercussions of the tests both for regional stability and for global non proliferation regimes and argues that the West needs a new approach if it is to deal with the nuclear dangers on the subcontinent

Nuclear Proliferation Rodney W. Jones, 1981 Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia Manas Chatterji, Padmanabh M. Kamath, 2020-11-24 The book explains the Bharatiya Janata Party's BJP compulsions to commit its government in the election manifesto of 2014 to study the Indian Nuclear Doctrine IND and revise and update it to make it relevant to contemporary geostrategic realities Contributors to this volume have cited Pakistan's deployment of tactical nuclear weapons TNWs and use of international terrorism IT as the main reasons for the BJP advocating a review of the IND It is suggested that the addition of use of TNWs or IT by state or non state actors in the existing IND is a sufficient cause for India to ensure massive retaliation with a second strike To make the threat of a second strike realistic it is necessary to acquire sufficient second strike capabilities in particular submarine launched ballistic missiles What is the relevance of IND in the absence of India not having a declared national security doctrine Nuclear know how is necessary for generating nuclear energy various issues relating to it are analysed The IND also claims nuclear disarmament as its inseparable goal and this book highlights the Indian commitment to achieve it Issues raised here have a global reach Students of international relations diplomats policy makers and those attentive to public debate will find the book interesting and immensely useful

Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia Sumit Ganguly, S. Paul Kapur, 2008-08-06 This edited volume explores competing perspectives on the impact of nuclear weapons proliferation on the South Asian security environment The spread of nuclear weapons is one of the world's foremost security concerns The effect of nuclear weapons on the behaviour of newly nuclear states and the potential for future international crises are of pa Nuclear Proliferation in South Asia ,1988 Evolving Dynamics of Nuclear South Asia ,2014-03-15 India and Pakistan have both never really accepted each other's existence Their ties have been characterised by a lingering hostility and a pronounced qualitative and quantitative military imbalance in favour of India Additionally India took the lead in developing nuclear weapons while Pakistan only seriously embarked on this endeavour after India had already conducted its peaceful nuclear explosion in 1974 Having lost half of their country in 1971 and realising that they could never really hope to match India in conventional military might Pakistan embarked on nuclear weapons development in the early 1970s more as a necessity rather than as a need Despite adopting the more difficult route of uranium enrichment Pakistan proved virtually unstoppable While China provided some assistance to Pakistan the United States maintained a marked ambivalence towards her quest for nuclear weapons it sometimes applied sanctions against Pakistan while at other times it opted to ignore what was happening by turning a blind eye The weaponisation of their nuclear capability in 1998 led India and Pakistan to venture into the realm of doctrinal rethinking Commencing with a revision of the conventional military doctrines this led to India publishing its draft nuclear doctrine whereas Pakistan preferred ambiguity The essential consideration herein was on how the conventional military thinking of both the countries has been influenced by the availability of nuclear weapons in their respective inventories Along with this process of doctrinal evolution both countries were required to establish viable and internationally acceptable nuclear weapon control systems The doctrinal evolution was responsible for inducing several systemic changes in their armed forces and their entire military system had to undergo significant changes Simultaneously these led to a fresh assessment of the comparative nuclear military potential of the two countries and how this could possibly be employed in a future conflict Nuclear South Asia Rajesh Rajagopalan,2015-08-12 This dictionary provides a comprehensive and ready guide to the key concepts issues persons and technologies related to the nuclear programmes of India and Pakistan and other South Asian states This will serve as a useful reference especially as the nuclear issue continues to be an important domestic and international policy concern
