Philosophy of Islam Dr. Shiv Sharma, 2002 Islamic Philosophy of War and Peace Mirza Iqbal Ashraf, 2008 Islam means peace and submission to God With its ethical system of instruction for a balanced life based on faith and reason how did this religion of peace come to be feared After the 9 11 tragedy Islam was judged by many in the West to be a hub of terrorism and a threat to world peace People everywhere voiced concern over its concepts of war and Jihad Ashraf traces these and related concepts from their inception in Qur anic injunctions and the Prophet s precepts to their current interpretation evaluating them in their spiritual moral juridical and cultural contexts Misunderstandings about Islam lie at the core of much bitterness and violence With no central authority to definitively interpret its teachings misconceptions regarding Islam s ideology of war and peace abound To label Islam as militant is to misinterpret jihad as simply a call to war and to ignore its laws governing warfare which emphasize restraint as far as possible Islamic Philosophy of War and Peace explains the spirit of Islam its mandate for peace and what the pluralistic notion of jihad stands for in the hope that clearing up ambiguities will foster peaceful relations between Muslims and the rest of the world Islam, the Ebook William E. Shepard, 2009 A college etextbook for religion courses Philosophies of Peace and Just War in Greek Philosophy and Religions of Abraham Mehdi Faridzadeh, 2004 Textual Sources for the Study of Islam Andrew Rippin, Jan Knappert, 1990-10-15 This collection is distinguished by its wide range and the care which has clearly gone into the selection of texts for inclusion Attention has understandably been focused on what might be called the religious aspects of Islam such as scripture theology sects law ritual and mysticism but within those limits the texts chosen are marked by substantially of content by geographical chronological and social diversity and by an intelligent use of less well known authors An excellent starting point for a systematic and analytical examination of Islam G R Hawting Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies Modernist Islam, 1840-1940 Charles Kurzman, 2002 A major intellectual current in the Muslim world during the 19th and 20th centuries proponents of modernist Islam typically believed that it was imperative to show how modern values and institutions could be reconciled with authentically Islamic ideals This text collects their writings Muslim Philosophy Hamid Naseem,2001 Muslims Have Been Provided By Allah A Complete Code Of Conduct In The Form Of Holy Quran In Quran There Are Two Types Of Verses I E Allegorical Mutashabihat And Categorical Mukhammat The Mutashabihat Verses Of Quran Are Mostly Pertaining To The Essence Of Allah And His Attributes Predestination Soul And Life Here After Death Etc Etc Since These Verses Are Outside The Purview Of Human Reasoning Much Hair Splitting And Question Begging Has Not Been Encouraged In This Regard Yet Many Of The Muslim Thinkers And Philosophers Have Ventured To Enter Into Detailed Discussions In These Matters Course Syllabi in Faculties of Education André Elias Mazawi,Michelle Stack,2020-06-11 Course Syllabi in Faculties of Education problematizes one of the least researched phenomena in teacher education the design of course syllabi using critical and decolonial approaches This book looks at the struggles that scholars policy makers and educators from a diverse range of countries including Australia Canada India Iran Palestine Qatar Saudi Arabia the USA and Zambia face as they design course syllabi in higher education settings The chapter authors argue that course syllabi are political constructions representing intense sites of struggles over visions of teacher education and visions of society As such they are deeply immersed in what Walter Mignolo calls the geopolitics of knowledge Authors also show how syllabi have become akin to contractual documents that define relations between instructors and students Based on a set of empirically grounded studies that are compared and contrasted the chapters offer a clearer picture of how course syllabi function within distinct socio political economic and historical contexts of practice and teacher education Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress,Library of Congress. Office for Subject Cataloging Policy,1996 Muslim Philosophy Saiyed Abdul Hai,1964 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress. Cataloging Policy and Support Office,1996 Islamic Philosophy Reza Akbarian,Seyed Safavi,2009 The nature and significance of the philosophy of Mulla Sadra cannot be fully understood by those who approach it as if there had been nothing before it When he himself began to teach philosophy Mulla Sadra was well aware of the general context i e Islamic philosophy in which his own work was necessarily going to be done To attempt to bring out the meaning of this philosophy would be to commit oneself to the production of some proof of its existence or to the admission that it never existed Here however I found myself face to face with the same kind of difficulty although on another plane for if the existence of a philosophy in the Islamic world has been denied the very idea of an Islamic philosophy has been held to be impossible It will be found then this book converges to this conclusion that Islamic civilization produced besides Islamic literature and art as everyone admits this very Islamic philosophy which is a matter of dispute No one of course maintains that Islamic philosophy was created out of nothing nor yet that all philosophy in Islamic world was Islamic just as no one maintains that Islamic literature and art were created out of nothing or were wholly Islamic The word Islamic philosophy does not belong to the philosophy of Mulla Sadra but it is the name under which in his Asfar Mulla Sadra designated the doctrine of the Common Doctor of revealed teachings in Qur'an and Hadith. Such as it is described in this text, Islamic philosophy is that way of philosophizing in which the Islamic faith and the human intellect join forces in a common investigation of philosophical truth. The study and the teaching of Islamic philosophy are both beset with many difficulties. First of all, in the form it has been given by Mulla Sadra, it presupposes for its understanding an elementary knowledge of the philosophy of Aristotle. The study of the Philosopher takes time, and when the moment comes for the student to tackle the doctrine of Mulla Sadra himself, he still needs to be trained in the art of uniting the light of faith and the light of the intellect. Another difficulty arises from the philosophical method followed by Mulla Sadra in those very works in which his own philosophical views are found in their purity, namely Asfar and the long series As a philosopher. Mulla Sadra felt perfectly free to draw arguments from many and diverse philosophies and to confirm his conclusions by means of all sorts of reasons, whose very multiplicity is liable to embarrass beginners. This complex situation is the problem to which the present book seeks to bring, if not a solution, at least a working introduction. Such is first and foremost the specific nature of the way in which we use philosophy according to the view of Mulla Sadra; second, the notion of being, including the consequences it entails for the doctrine of the transcendental; last, not least, the impact of this same notion on the many philosophical problems in whose data it is included: God, substance, efficient causality, creation, the structure of finite being, the nature and unity of man, the soul, the human intellect and its object. These and other key notions are so many basic doctrines that need to be correctly understood before the student attempts to face the colossal array of particular questions and answers, objections and replies that make up the body of the Islamic philosophy of Mulla Sadra. To a man of the third century in the Islamic world, what did the term philosopher mean? A philosopher was a man who, born before Islam, could not have been informed of the truth of Islamic Revelation. Such was the situation of Alfarabi, Avicenna, Suhrawardi, and Mulla Sadra. Wisdom and knowledge are here directed primarily towards knowing divine things and employed to teach them. It is however our intention to prove Islamic philosophy's existence by showing in what it consists, leaving to those who would like to undertake it the task of demonstrating it.

Philosophers and Religious Leaders Christian von Dehsen, 2013-09-13

Philosophers and Religious Leaders provides a synopsis of the lives and legacies of 200 men and women from the areas of religion and philosophy who have changed the world. These individuals have developed, extended, or exemplified ideas fundamental to the way human beings perceive the meaning and purpose of their own lives and of their societies. Some have challenged prevailing convictions and worked for immediate change during their lifetimes; others have proposed new modes of thinking that have flourished only after their passing.
