Persons, 2018-04-24 Contradictory forces are at play at the close of the twentieth century There is a growing closeness of peoples fueled by old and new technologies of modern aviation digital based communications new patterns of trade and commerce and growing affluence of significant portions of the world's population Television permits individuals around the world to learn about the cultures and lifestyles of peoples of physically distant lands These developments give real meaning to the notion of a global village Peoples of the world are growing closer in new and increasingly important ways Nonetheless there are disturbing signs of a growing awareness of ethnic differences in all parts of the world the United States included and a concomitant rise in ethnic based conflicts many of them extraordinarily violent in nature Fear resentment intolerance and mistreatment of the other abound in world news accounts Not only does this phenomenon pose an interesting juxtaposition to the concept of the emergent global village but its emergence in the post cold war era internationally and the post civil rights era in the United States raises significant and compelling questions Why are such conflicts occurring now How do analysts explain these developments The essays in Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective lucidly explore some of the complexities of the persistence and re emergence of race and ethnicity as major lines of divisiveness around the world Contributors analyze manifestations of race based movements for political empowerment in Europe and Latin America as well as racial intolerance in these same settings Attention is also given to the conceptual complexities of multidimensional and shared cultural roots of the overlapping phenomena of ethnicity nationalism identity and ideology The book greatly informs discussions of race and ethnicity in the international context and provides an interesting perspective against which to view America's changing problem of race Race and Ethnicity in Comparative Perspective is a timely thought provoking volume that will be of immense value to ethnic studies specialists African American studies scholars political scientists historians and sociologists Race and Ethnicity: The Key Concepts Amy Ansell, 2013-02-15 Situating the study of race and ethnicity within its historical and intellectual context this much needed guide exposes students to the broad diversity of scholarship within the field It provides a clear and succinct explanation of more than 70 key terms their conceptual evolution over time and the differing ways in which the concepts are deployed or remain pertinent in current debates Concepts covered include apartheid colonialism constructivism critical race theory eugenics hybridity Islamophobia new modern racism reparations transnationalism Fully

Race, Nation, and Refuge Doug Coulson, 2017-01-01 Explores the role of rhetoric and the racial classification of Asian American immigrants in the early twentieth century From 1870 to 1940 racial eligibility for naturalization in the United States was limited to free white persons and aliens of African nativity and persons of African descent and many interpreted these restrictions to reflect a policy of Asian exclusion based on the conclusion that Asians were neither white nor African Because the distinction between white and Asian was considerably unstable however those charged with the interpretation and implementation of the naturalization act faced difficult racial classification questions Through archival research and a close reading of the arguments contained in the documents of the US Bureau of Naturalization especially those documents that discussed challenges to racial eligibility for naturalization Doug Coulson demonstrates that the strategy of foregrounding shared external threats to the nation as a means of transcending perceived racial divisions was often more important to racial classification than legal doctrine He argues that this was due to the rapid shifts in the nation's enmities and alliances during the early twentieth century and the close relationship between race nation and sovereignty

Who Do We Think We Are? Philip Yale Nicholson, 1999 In this timely and well argued book author Philip Nicholson offers a provocative explanation of the force and place of race in modern history showing that race and nation have a linked history Using the deliberately ironic metaphor of the double helix the author shows the close historical connection of race and nation as each interrelates with the other in shaping and carrying social and institutional practices over many centuries Five themes recur throughout the work modernity is built on the twin pillars of race and nation national instability rivalry and imperial conquest outside of dynastic religious or feudal disputes evoke differential i.e. racial human social categories loyalties and mythologies racial vilification emerges out of material and cultural expropriation racial degradation is typically the inverse projection of dominant national normative values beliefs or ideals and race and nation share in the twists and turns of modern history and are inseparably linked and interdependent

Race, Ethnicity, And Nationality In The United States Paul Wong, 2021-09-02 This book is intended for use in advanced undergraduate and graduate level courses on race and ethnicity and on diversity in America It was first conceived as a collective project of the Research and Resident Scholar Program in Comparative Race Relations at Washington State University which was established in 1994 with support from the Rockefeller Foundation A number of the participating authors are established scholars in racial ethnic studies and several have published award winning bestsellers Others are relative newcomers to the field who were invited to join the project because they were doing important work on less well covered topics such as relations between African Americans and Chicano Latino Americans

Transnational Blackness M. Marable, 2008-09-29 Black intellectuals in the US have long thought of racism as a global phenomenon This book presents for the first time a full

overview of the history critical analysis and theoretical perspectives of key black scholars and activists on the transnational dynamics of modern race and racism throughout the world The African American Urban Experience J. Trotter, E. Lewis, T. Hunter, 2004-03-17 From the early years of the African slave trade to America blacks have lived and laboured in urban environments Yet the transformation of rural blacks into a predominantly urban people is a relatively recent phenomenon only during World War One did African Americans move into cities in large numbers and only during World War Two did more blacks reside in cities than in the countryside By the early 1970s blacks had not only made the transition from rural to urban settings but were almost evenly distributed between the cities of the North and the West on the one hand and the South on the other In their quest for full citizenship rights economic democracy and release from an oppressive rural past black southerners turned to urban migration and employment in the nation s industrial sector as a new Promised Land or Flight from Egypt In order to illuminate these transformations in African American urban life this book brings together urban history contemporary social cultural and policy research and comparative perspectives on race ethnicity and nationality within and across national boundaries The New Dynamics of Identity Politics in the Americas Olaf Kaltmeier, 2017-07-05 Multiculturalism has shaped identity politics in the Americas over the past decades as illustrated by politics of recognition affirmative action and increasing numbers of internationally recognized cultural productions by members of ethnic minorities Hinting at postcolonial legacies in political rhetoric and practice multiculturalism has also served as a driving force behind social movements in the Americas Nevertheless in current academic discussions and public debates on migration globalization and identity politics concepts like new ethnicities ethnic groupism creolization hybridity mestizaje diasporas and post ethnicity articulate positionings that are profoundly changing our understanding of multiculturalism Combining theoretical reflections with case studies the aim of this book is to demonstrate the current dynamics of post multicultural politics in the Americas This book was based on a special issue of Latin American and Caribbean Ethnic Studies Race and Ethnicity in Latin America Peter Wade, 2010-05-12 For over ten years Race and Ethnicity in Latin America has been an essential text for students studying the region This second edition adds new material and brings the analysis up to date Race and ethnic identities are increasingly salient in Latin America Peter Wade examines changing perspectives on Black and Indian populations in the region tracing similarities and differences in the way these peoples have been seen by academics and national elites Race and ethnicity as analytical concepts are re examined in order to assess their usefulness This book should be the first port of call for anthropologists and sociologists studying identity in Latin America Race and Ideology Arthur Kean Spears, 1999 Race and Ideology proposes an understanding of racism as a divide and conquer mechanism Race and Ideology reveals how various strands of racial thinking and behavior are crucial for maintaining the unequal distribution of wealth that is more pronounced in the U S than in any other advanced industrial country Though primarily concerned with the U S this collection contains chapters on other societies in order to highlight commonalties and the global nature of the race color problem This book proposes a new understanding of racism by examining a variety of issues that show how racism and colorism along with other forms of oppression are interconnected and maintained by language symbolism and popular culture It includes such topics as how blackness is the symbolic bottom of the U S social structure how the teaching of language and culture can be a tool for understanding inequality and how the media contribute to the dissemination of stereotypes of people of color Race and Ideology offers provocative ideas that must be confronted if we are to construct an understanding of racism that can be useful for social change Race, Markets, and Social Outcomes Patrick L. Mason, Rhonda M. Williams, 2012-12-06 THE JANUS FACE OF RACE REFLECTIONS ON ECONOMIC THEORY Patrick L Mason and Rhonda Williams Many economists are willing to accept that race is a significant factor in US economic and social affairs Yet the professional literature displays a peculiar schizophrenia when faced with the task of actually formulating what race means and how race works in our political economy On the one hand race matters when the discussion is focused on anti social behavior social choices and undesired market outcomes Inexplicably African Americans are more likely to prefer welfare lower labor force participation and unemployment On the other hand race does not matter when the subject of discussion is economically productive or socially acceptable activities and legal market choices for example wages and employment This Janus faced construction of race is maintained by economists stubborn adherence to the market power hypothesis The market power hypothesis asserts that racial discrimination and market competition are inversely correlated Discriminatory behavior will persist only in those sectors of society where the competitive forces of the market are least operative When applied to the labor market the market power hypothesis suggests that pre and post labor market decisions represent disjoint sets On average members of a disadvantaged social group may accumulate a lower amount of or a lower quality of productive attributes because of discrimination in marital residential or school choice or because of substantial animosity in day to day interpersonal relations with members of a privileged group

The Bubbling Cauldron ,1995 Racing to Justice John A. Powell, 2024-11-19 In Racing to Justice renowned social justice advocate John A. Powell persuasively argues that we have yet to achieve a truly post racial society and that there is much work to be done to redeem the American promise of inclusive democracy Gathered from a decade of writing about social justice and spirituality these meditations on race identity and social policy provide an outline for laying claim to our shared humanity and a way toward healing ourselves and securing our future With an updated foreword and a new chapter on polarization this new edition continues to challenge us to replace the attitudes and institutions that promote and perpetuate social suffering with those that foster relationships and a way of being that transcends disconnection and separation Racing to Justice is a thought provoking book that offers readers a look into the issues that continue to plague our society It is a reminder that we have yet to address and reckon with the challenges we face in providing equal opportunities for all people in this country and the world The Nation and Its Peoples John Park, Shannon Gleeson, 2014-02-03 With this volume The University of California Center for New Racial Studies inaugurates a new book series with Routledge Focusing on the shifting and contradictory meaning of race The Nation and Its Peoples underscores the persistence of structural discrimination and the ways in which race has formally disappeared in the law and yet remains one of the most powerful underlying unacknowledged and often unspoken aspects of debates about citizenship about membership and national belonging within immigration politics and policy This collection of original essays also emphasizes the need for race scholars to be more attentive to the processes and consequences of migration across multiple boundaries as surely there is no place that can stay fixed racially or otherwise when so many people have been moving This book is ideal as required reading in courses as well as a vital new resource for researchers throughout the social sciences Race in the Making Lawrence A. Hirschfeld, 1996 Race in the Making provides a new understanding of how people conceptualize social categories and shows why this knowledge is so readily recruited to create and maintain systems of unequal power Hirschfeld argues that knowledge of race is not derived from observations of physical difference nor does it develop in the same way as knowledge of other social categories Instead his central claim is that racial thinking is the product of a special purpose cognitive competence for understanding and representing human kinds The book also challenges the conventional wisdom that race is purely a social construction by demonstrating that a common set of abstract principles underlies all systems of racial thinking whatever other historical and cultural specificities may be associated with them Starting from the commonplace observation that race is a category of both power and the mind Race in the Making directly tackles this issue Through a sustained exploration of continuity and change in the child's notion of race and across historical variations in the race concept Hirschfeld shows that a singular commonsense theory about human kinds constrains the way racial thinking changes whether in historical time or during childhood After surveying the literature on the development of a cultural psychology of race Hirschfeld presents original studies that examine children's and occasionally adults' representations of race He sketches how a jointly cultural and psychological approach to race might proceed showing how this approach yields new insights into the emergence and elaboration of racial thinking Learning Race, Learning Place Erin N. Winkler, 2012-11-15 In an American society both increasingly diverse and increasingly segregated the signals children receive about race are more confusing than ever In this context how do children negotiate and make meaning of multiple and conflicting messages to develop their own ideas about race Learning Race, Learning Place engages this question using in depth interviews with an economically diverse group of African American children and their mothers Through these rich narratives Erin N Winkler seeks to reorient the way we look at how children develop their ideas about race through the introduction of a new framework comprehensive racial learning that shows the importance of considering this process from children's points of view and listening to their interpretations of their experiences which are often quite different from what the adults around them expect or intend At the children's prompting Winkler examines the roles of multiple actors and influences including gender skin tone colorblind rhetoric peers family media school and especially place She brings to the fore the complex and understudied power of place positing that while children s racial identities and experiences are shaped by a national construction of race they are also specific to a particular place that exerts both direct and indirect influence on their racial identities and ideas
