Humphreys, Julio Raffo, Giulia Valacchi, 2022-04-21 People have been digging in the ground for useful minerals for thousands of years. Mineral materials are the foundation of modern industrial society. As the global population grows and standards of living in emerging and developing countries rise, the demand for mineral products is increasing. Mining ensures that we have an adequate supply of the raw materials to produce all the components of modern life and at competitive prices. Innovation is central to meeting the diverse challenges faced by the mining industry. It is critical for developing techniques for finding new deposits of minerals, enabling us to recover increasing amounts of minerals from the ground in a cost-effective manner and ensuring it is done in a way that is as environmentally responsible. This book provides the first in-depth global analysis of the innovation ecosystem in the mining sector. This book is Open Access. Outsourcing Success Alpesh B.

Patel, Hemendra Aran, 2005-09-23 Outsourcing of business processes has been a major and growing trend. Many major corporations have outsourced overseas and the next wave will include many SMEs moving outsourcing operations. The changes and implications for business are substantial. Based on the latest research and data with extensive case studies, diagrams and interviews with major corporations, this book provides a comprehensive analysis and highlights the best practice and pitfalls to avoid. Innovation in the Mining Sector and Cycles in Commodity Prices Giulia Valacchi, Julio

Raffo, Alica Daly, David Humphreys, World Intellectual Property Organization, 2019-05-09 This paper analyses the evolution of innovation in the mining sector and how this innovation responds to the economic environment, in particular to changes in commodity prices. For this purpose, we combine commodity price data with innovation data as proxied by patent filings extracted from a novel unit record database containing comprehensive patent and firm-level data for the mining sector from

1970 to 2015 We include patents registered both by mining companies and mining equipment technology and service METS firms With a multi country panel analysis we find that innovation in the mining sector is cyclical Innovation increases in periods of high commodity prices while decreasing during commodity price recessions Our results suggest that innovation increases mostly with long price cycle variations while mostly unaffected by medium and short cycles METS related innovation seem the driving force of this mechanism In contrast countries specializing in mining industries are found to be slower in reacting to price changes

Marini, 2018-02-23 This second volume of the Handbook includes original contribution by experts in the field It provides up to date surveys of the most relevant applications of game theory to industrial organization The book covers both classical as well as new IO topics such as mergers in markets with homogeneous and differentiated goods leniency and coordinated effects in cartels and mergers static and dynamic contests consumer search and product safety strategic delegation platforms and network effects auctions environmental and resource economics intellectual property healthcare corruption experimental industrial organization and empirical models of R D The Innovation Imperative for Developing East Asia Xavier Cirera, Andrew D.

Mason, Francesca de Nicola, Smita Kuriakose, Davide S. Mare, Trang Thu Tran, 2021-05-07 After a half century of transformative economic progress that moved hundreds of millions of people out of poverty countries in developing East Asia are facing an array of challenges to their future development Slowed productivity growth increased fragility of the global trading system and rapid changes in technology are all threatening export oriented labor intensive manufacturing the region s engine of growth Significant global challenges such as climate change and the COVID 19 pandemic are exacerbating economic vulnerability These developments raise questions about whether the region s past model of development can continue to deliver rapid growth and poverty reduction Against this background The Innovation Imperative in Developing East Asia aims to deepen understanding of the role of innovation in future development The report examines the state of innovation in the region and analyzes the main constraints that firms and countries face to innovating It assesses current policies and institutions and lays out an agenda for action to spur more innovation led growth A key finding of the report is that countries current innovation policies are not aligned with their capabilities and needs Policies need to strengthen the capacity of firms to innovate and support technological diffusion rather than just invention Policy makers also need to eliminate policy biases against innovation in services a sector that is growing in economic importance Moreover countries need to strengthen key complementary factors for innovation including firms managerial quality workers skills and finance for innovation Countries in developing East Asia would also do well to deepen their tradition of international openness which could foster openness in other parts of the world Doing so would help sustain the flows of ideas trade investment and people that facilitate the creation and diffusion of knowledge for innovation
