Critical Qualitative Research in Second Language Studies Kathryn A. Davis, 2011-03-01 This volume begins by locating critical inquiry within the epistemological and methodological history of second language study. Subsequent chapters portray researcher participant exploration of identity and agency while challenging inequitable policies and practices. Research on internationalization, Englishization and/or transborder migration address language policies and knowledge production at universities in Hong Kong. Standard English and Singlish controversies in Singapore media portrayals of the English as an Official Language movement in South Korea. Transnational advocacy in Japan and Nicaraguan Costa Rican South to South migration. Transnational locations of identity and agency are foregrounded in narrative descriptions of Korean heritage language learners, a discursive journey from East Timor to Hawaii and a reclaimed life history by a Chinese peasant woman. Labor union and GLBT legal work illustrate discourses that can hinder or facilitate agency and change. Hawaiian educators advocate for indigenous self-determination through revealing the political and social meanings of research. California educators describe struggles at the front lines of resistance to policies and practices harmful to marginalized children. A Participatory Action Research (PAR) project portrays how Latina youth in the U.S. resist wounding inscriptions of the intersecting emotional and physical violence of homes, communities and anti-immigrant policies and attitudes. Promoting agency through drawing on diversity resources is modeled in a bilingual undergraduate PAR project. The volume as a whole provides a model for critical research that explores the multifaceted and evolving nature of language identities while placing those traditionally known as participants at the center of agency and advocacy.

Social Innovation Sarah Lai-Yin Cheah, 2019-06-04. In the world of creating new ventures with the single goal of achieving financial profitability, it is well known that nine of ten startups are likely to fail. For new social ventures that have the twin goals of financial profitability and social inclusiveness, the chances of failures are even higher. This book provides insight into the common struggles of social activists and the strategic responses necessary to not only overcome their organizational issues but also address the world's pressing social challenges. The book not only traces the journey of the social activists in growing their social ventures to flesh out real-life issues but also introduces the latest management thinking on social innovation in daily business decision. This book makes a useful contribution in furthering the concepts of social innovation and entrepreneurship and inspiring more change agents to create and implement effective, scalable and sustainable solutions to address social issues and meet the needs of the disadvantaged groups in the society.
