Philosophy of Sex and Love Patricia Marino, 2019-03-13 Writing for non specialists and students as well as for fellow philosophers this book explores some basic issues surrounding sex and love in today s world among them consent objectification non monogamy racial stereotyping and the need to reconcile contemporary expectations about gender equality with our beliefs about how love works Author Patricia Marino argues that we cannot fully understand these issues by focusing only on individual desires and choices. Instead, we need to examine the social contexts within which choices are made and acquire their meanings. That perspective she argues is especially needed today when the values of individualism, self-expression, and self-interest permeate our lives. Marino asks how we can fit these values, which govern so many areas of contemporary life, with the generosity, caring, and selflessness we expect in love and sex.

Advertising Disability Ella Houston, 2024-06-03

Advertising Disability invites Cultural Disability Studies to consider how advertising as one of the most ubiquitous forms of popular culture shapes attitudes towards disability. The research presented in the book provides a much-needed examination of the ways in which disability and mental health issues are depicted in different types of advertising, including charity advertisements, direct-to-consumer pharmaceutical advertisements, and pro-diversity brand campaigns. Textual analyses of advertisements from the eighteenth century onwards reveal how advertising reinforces barriers facing disabled people, such as stigmatising attitudes, ableist beauty ideals, inclusionism, and the unstable crutch of charity. As well as investigating how socio-cultural meanings associated with disability are influenced by multimodal forms of communication, the book provides insights from empirical research conducted with disabled women in the United Kingdom and the United States. Moving beyond traditional textual approaches to analysing cultural representations, the book emphasises how disabled people and activists develop counternarratives informed by their personal experiences of disability, challenging ableist messages promoted by advertisements. From start to finish, activist concepts developed by the Disabled People's Movement and individuals' embodied knowledge surrounding disability impairments and mental health issues inform critiques of advertisements. Its critically informed approach to analysing portrayals of disability is relevant to advertisers, scholars, and students in advertising studies and media studies who are interested in portraying diversity in marketing and promotional materials, as well as scholars and students of disability studies and sociology more broadly.
