Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China Stevan Harrell, 2012-11-20 Drawing on extensive fieldwork conducted in the 1980s and 1990s in southern Sichuan this pathbreaking study examines the nature of ethnic consciousness and ethnic relations among local communities focusing on the Nuosu classified as Yi by the Chinese government Prmi Naze and Han It argues that even within the same regional social system ethnic identity is formulated perceived and promoted differently by different communities at different times Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China exemplifies a model in which ethnic consciousness and ethnic relations consist of drawing boundaries between one's own group and others crossing those boundaries and promoting internal unity within a group. Leaders and members of ethnic groups use commonalities and differences in history, culture and kinship to promote internal unity and to strengthen or cross external boundaries. Superimposed on the structure of competing and cooperating local groups is a state system of ethnic classification and administration. Members and leaders of local groups incorporate this system into their own ethnic consciousness, co-opting or resisting it situationally. The heart of the book consists of detailed case studies of three Nuosu village communities along with studies of Prmi and Naze communities, smaller groups such as the Yala and Nasu and Han Chinese who live in minority areas. These are followed by a synthesis that compares different configurations of ethnic identity in different communities and discusses the implications of these examples for our understanding of ethnicity and for the near future of China. This lively description and analysis of the region's complex ethnic identities and relationships constitutes an original and important contribution to the study of ethnic identity. Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China will be of interest to social scientists concerned with issues of ethnicity and state building. Handbook on Ethnic Minorities in China Xiaowei Zang, 2016-11-25

This much needed volume explains who ethnic minorities are and how well they do in China. In addition to offering general information about ethnic minority groups in China, it discusses some important issues around ethnicity including ethnic inequality, minority rights and multiculturalism. Drawing on insights and perspectives from scholars in different continents, the contributions provide critical reflections on where the field has been and where it is going, offering readers possible directions for future research on minority ethnicity in China. The Handbook reviews research and addresses key conceptual, theoretical and methodological issues in the study of ethnicity in China. Perspectives on the Yi of Southwest China Stevan Harrell, 2001-03

This is a varied and wide-ranging collection of essays by Yi and foreign scholars on the history, traditional society and modern social changes among the 7 million Yi people of Southwest China. Reshaping the Frontier Landscape: Dongchuan in Eighteenth-century Southwest China Fei HUANG, 2018-04-03

In Reshaping the Frontier Landscape: Dongchuan in Eighteenth-century Southwest China, Fei HUANG examines the process of reshaping the landscape of Dongchuan, a remote frontier city in Southwest China, in the eighteenth century. Rich copper deposits transformed Dongchuan into one of the key outposts of the Qing dynasty, a nexus of encounters between various groups competing for power and space. The frontier landscape bears silent witness to the changes in its people's daily lives and in their memories and imaginations. The literati, officials, itinerant merchants, commoners and the indigenous people who lived there shaped and reshaped the local landscape by their physical efforts and cultural representations. This book demonstrates how multiple landscape experiences developed among various people in dependencies, conflicts and negotiations in the imperial frontier.

Faiths on Display Tim Oakes, Donald S. Sutton, 2010-10-16. By providing a unique perspective on China's changing relationship with religion this groundbreaking book explores the role the Chinese state continues to play in religious revival today. Over the past several decades China has experienced a rapid expansion of religious spaces and activities. More recently a growing middle class urban society has fueled an upsurge in Chinese domestic tourism. Faiths on Display challenges the common separation of religious and tourist activities showing how these practices overlap and blend together. A group of leading scholars explores the unlikely interaction between these exuberant phenomena finding a surprisingly clear lens through which to view a rapidly transforming society. Even the most casual observer is struck by the Chinese rediscovery of traditional culture particularly at revived religious festivals and pilgrimages in suburbs rural areas and at China's margins where religious practices of ethnic minorities attract particular tourist attention. A set of fascinating case studies shows how state organizations are helping revive sacred spaces as exploitable sites for tourism development and revenue generation. While this may appear to be a straightforward collision of Chinese tradition with modernization the contributors argue that the results of combining religion and tourism offer important insights not only into the practice of religion and the rise of leisure culture in contemporary China but also into the changing and contested nature of state governance. The policies of an authoritarian modernizing state obviously influence both religion and tourism but religious practices the book clearly illustrates tend to slip out of state control and tourist tastes push development into directions not anticipated or welcomed by the state
