On Line Cognition In Person Perception:

On-line Cognition in Person Perception John N. Bassili, 2013-02-01 The contributors to this collection focus on the cognitive processes that take place during the initial acquisition of information about others on line processes rather than later when memory processes begin playing a dominant role memory based processes Utilizing the methods and concepts of social cognition the book illustrates how the study of on line cognition can further our understanding of person perception On Line Cognition in Person Perception also examines the special cognitive dynamics that are associated with such processes within the domain of social perception

On-line Cognition in Person Perception John N. Bassili, 1989 First Published in 1989 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Stereotypes and Stereotyping C. Neil Macrae, Charles Stangor, Miles Hewstone, 1996-03-01 Following a broad overview that defines stereotypes the book addresses how they are formed and developed in chapters that cover the social psychology of stereotypes the impact of physical appearance on their formation and methods of assessing their accuracy Internationally renowned authors consider the function and use of stereotypes exploring their complex interrelationship with linguistic biases prejudice and discrimination and intergroup and interpersonal perception Chapters then discuss how stereotypes can be undermined detailing social psychological interventions to improve intergroup relations and examining ways that individual targets of stereotyping might motivate others to change A concluding chapter takes a historical view of stereotype research tracing the evolution of the field and evaluating current theories and methodologies

The Rationalizing Voter Milton Lodge, Charles S. Taber, 2013 Political behavior is the result of innumerable unnoticed forces and conscious deliberation is often a rationalization of automatically triggered feelings and thoughts Citizens are very sensitive to environmental contextual factors such as the title President preceding Obama in a newspaper headline upbeat music or patriotic symbols accompanying a campaign ad or question wording and order in a survey all of which have their greatest influence when citizens are unaware This book develops and tests a dual process theory of political beliefs attitudes and behavior claiming that all thinking feeling reasoning and doing have an automatic component as well as a conscious deliberative component The authors are especially interested in the impact of automatic feelings on political judgments and evaluations This research is based on laboratory experiments which allow the testing of five basic hypotheses hot cognition automaticity affect transfer affect contagion and motivated reasoning

Everyday Thinking Stanley Woll, 2001-07-01 Appropriate as a textbook for courses in cognitive psychology or social cognition Everyday Thinking reviews the rapidly growing literature on cognition in naturalistic settings It differs from other textbooks in that where possible it focuses on thinking in real world settings rather than in controlled laboratory settings and provides detailed treatments of each of the following topics how we form impressions of and represent persons in memory how we recognize and represent faces how we reason in our day to day lives and go about solving everyday problems how we make judgments and decisions how we encode memories of events both for future action and for our own life histories and what are some of the implications of everyday knowledge and cognition for education and instruction This book presents the theoretical positions and research evidence on each of these topics and examines the generally unexplored connections among them As a result this book presents the study of cognition in a more relevant form and in a context that readers can more readily apply to their own lives

Political Judgment Milton Lodge, Kathleen M. McGraw, 1995 How are impressions about political candidates organized in memory What is the nature of political group stereotypes How do citizens make voting decisions How do citizens formulate opinions about key issues and politics The contributors to Political Judgment Structure and Process reach answers to these questions that will substantially influence how the next generation of scholars working at the intersection of political science and sociology and public opinion researchers more generally go about their work

The Feeling, Thinking Citizen Howard Lavine, Charles S. Taber, 2018-03-13 This book is an appreciation of the long and illustrious career of Milton Lodge Having begun his academic life as a Kremlinologist in the 1960s Milton Lodge radically shifted gears to become one of the most influential scholars of the past half century working at the intersection of psychology and political science In borrowing and refashioning concepts from cognitive psychology social cognition and neuroscience his work has led to wholesale transformations in the way political scientists understand the mass political mind as well as the nature and quality of democratic citizenship In this collection Lodge s collaborators and colleagues describe how his work has influenced their own careers and how his insights have been synthesized into the bloodstream of contemporary political psychology The volume includes personal reflections from Lodge s longstanding collaborators as well as original research papers from leading figures in political psychology who have drawn inspiration from the Lodgean oeuvre Reflecting on his multi faceted contribution to the study of political psychology The Feeling Thinking Citizen illustrates the centrality of Lodge s work in constructing a psychologically plausible model of the democratic citizen

On Deaf Ears George C. Edwards III,2008-10-01 American presidents often engage in intensive campaigns to obtain public support for their policy initiatives This core strategy for governing is based on the premise that if presidents are skilled enough to exploit the bully pulpit they can successfully persuade or even mobilize public opinion on behalf of their legislative goals In this book George Edwards analyzes the results of hundreds of public opinion polls from recent presidencies to assess the success of these efforts Surprisingly he finds that presidents typically are not able to change public opinion even great communicators usually fail to obtain the public s support for their high priority initiatives Focusing on presidents personae their messages and the American public he explains why presidents are often unable to move public opinion and suggests that their efforts to do so may be counterproductive Edwards argues that shoring up previously existing support is the principal benefit of going public and that staying private negotiating quietly with elites may often be more conducive to a president s legislative success

Persuasive Communication Richard O. Young,2016-07-15 This updated and expanded edition of Persuasive Communication offers a comprehensive introduction to persuasion and real world decision making Drawing on empirical research from social psychology neuroscience business communication research cognitive science and behavioral economics Young reveals the thought processes of many different audiences from investors to CEOs to help students better understand why audiences make the decisions they make and how to influence them The book covers a broad range of communication techniques richly illustrated with compelling examples including resumes speeches and slide presentations to help students recognize persuasive methods that do and do not work A detailed analysis of the emotions and biases that go into decision making arms students with perceptive insights into human behavior and helps them apply this understanding with various decision making aids Students will learn how to impact potential employers clients and other audiences essential to their success This book will prove fascinating to many and especially useful for students of persuasion rhetoric and business communication

Personality Cary L. Cooper, Lawrence A. Pervin,1998

This volume brings together classical papers on the critical theories of personality as well as more contemporary work on cross cultural and social approaches. With an emphasis throughout on looking at major issues in personality work, key topics covered include how personality is defined, how personality can be measured, how personalities interact, how personality work should be conducted, and how personality is applied in education, business, and clinical settings. Why We Evaluate Gregory R. Maio, James M. Olson, 1999-11-01. As the first book to examine the psychological motivations underlying people's attitudes as well as why people form attitudes, this volume presents empirical research describing theoretical perspectives and practical applications. The editors assembled the leaders in the field to examine the topics of attitude function, persuasion, individual differences, approaches, and the role of motivation within a variety of psychological disciplines, including social, personality, consumer, and environmental.

Leadership and Information Processing Robert G. Lord, Karen J. Maher, 2002-09-26. Executive leadership is critically important to understanding the workings and performance of organizations, yet it is a topic that is usually ignored by mainstream leadership research. Leadership and Information Processing provides a much needed analysis of this crucial element of organizational behaviour. Robert G. Lord and Karen J. Maher examine how executives make decisions and how decision acceptance is constrained by the leadership perceptions of others. Focussing in particular on leadership and social perceptions, perceptions of female leaders, organizational culture, and the effects of executive succession, Leadership and Information Processing offers crucial information for students, researchers, and teachers of management, business, organizational behavior, and organizational social psychology.
