Race And The News Media:

Media & Minorities Stephanie Greco Larson, 2006 Media Minorities looks at the media's racial tendencies with an eye to identifying the system's supportive messages conveyed and offering challenges to them. The book covers all major media including television, film, newspapers, radio, magazines, and the Internet and systematically analyzes their representation of the four largest minority groups in the U.S.: African Americans, Native Americans, Latinos, and Asian Americans. Entertainment media are compared and contrasted with news media, and special attention is devoted to coverage of social movements for racial justice and politicians of color.

News for All the People: The Epic Story of Race and the American Media Juan González, Joseph Torres, 2011-10-31 A landmark narrative history of American media that puts race at the center of the story. Here is a new sweeping narrative history of American news media that puts race at the center of the story. From the earliest colonial newspapers to the Internet age, America's racial divisions have played a central role in the creation of the country's media system, just as the media has contributed to and every so often combated racial oppression. News for All the People reveals how racial segregation distorted the information Americans received from the mainstream media. It unearths numerous examples of how publishers and broadcasters actually fomented racial violence and discrimination through their coverage. And it chronicles the influence federal media policies exerted in such conflicts. It depicts the struggle of Black, Latino, Asian, and Native American journalists who fought to create a vibrant yet little-known alternative democratic press, and then, beginning in the 1970s, forced open the doors of the major media companies. The writing is fast-paced, story-driven, and replete with memorable portraits of individual journalists and media executives, both famous and obscure, heroes and villains. It weaves back and forth between the corporate and government leaders who built our segregated media system, such as Herbert Hoover, whose Federal Radio Commission eagerly awarded a license to a notorious Ku Klux Klan organization in the nation's capital, and those who rebelled against that system, like Pittsburgh Courier publisher Robert L. Vann, who led a remarkable national campaign to get the blackface comedy Amos 'n' Andy off the air. Based on years of original archival research and up-to-the-minute reporting, and written by two veteran journalists and leading advocates for a more inclusive and democratic media system, News for All the People should become the standard history of American media.

Reporting on Race in a Digital Era Carolyn Nielsen, 2020-02-19 This book explores U.S. news media's 21st-century reckoning with race from the election of President Barack Obama through the birth and growth of the Black Lives Matter movement to the tense weeks after a white police officer killed an unarmed African American teenager in Ferguson, Missouri. While legacy newsrooms struggled to interpret complex events, a diverse group of digital storytellers used emerging technologies. Veteran journalist and media scholar Carolyn Nielsen examines how the first two decades of this century produced new models for journalists to explore the complexity of racism, amplify the voices of lived experience, and understand their audiences. Using critical analysis of news coverage and interviews with reporters who cover racial issues, the book shows how new models of journalism break with legacy journalism's conceptions of objectivity expertise and news judgment to provide deeper understanding of systems of power

Race-Baiter: How the Media Wields Dangerous Words to Divide a Nation Eric

Deggans, 2012-10-30 Gone is the era of Edward R Murrow and Walter Cronkite when news programs fought to gain the trust and respect of a wide spectrum of American viewers Today the fastest growing news programs and media platforms are fighting hard for increasingly narrow segments of the public and playing on old prejudices and deep rooted fears coloring the conversation in the blogosphere and the cable news chatter to distract from the true issues at stake Using the same tactics once used to mobilize political parties and committed voters they send their fans coded messages and demonize opposing groups in the process securing valuable audience share and website traffic Race baiter is a term born out of this tumultuous climate coined by the conservative media to describe a person who uses racial tensions to arouse the passion and ire of a particular demographic Even as the election of the first black president forces us all to reevaluate how we think about race gender culture and class lines some areas of modern media are working hard to push the same old buttons of conflict and division for new purposes In Race Baiter veteran journalist and media critic Eric Deggans dissects the powerful ways modern media feeds fears prejudices and hate while also tracing the history of the word and its consequences intended or otherwise

African American Women in the News Marian Meyers, 2013-07-24 African American Women in the News offers the first in depth examination of the varied representations of Black women in American journalism from analyses of coverage of domestic abuse and crack mothers to exploration of new media coverage of Michelle Obama on Youtube Marian Meyers interrogates the complex and often contradictory images of African American women in news media through detailed studies of national and local news the mainstream and Black press and traditional news outlets as well as newer digital platforms

She argues that previous studies of African Americans and the news have largely ignored the representations of women as distinct from men and the ways in which socioeconomic class can be a determining factor in how Black women are portrayed in the news Meyers also proposes that a pattern of paternalistic racism as distinct from the modern racism found in previous studies of news coverage of African Americans is more likely to characterize the media's treatment of African American women Drawing on critical cultural studies and black feminist theory concerning representation and the intersectionality of gender race and class Meyers goes beyond the cultural myths and stereotypes of African American women to provide an updated portrayal of Black women today African American Women in the News is ideal for courses on African American studies American studies journalism studies media studies sociology studies women's studies and for professional journalists and students of journalism who seek to improve the diversity and sensitivity of their journalistic practice

Race and News Christopher P. Campbell, Kim M. LeDuff, Cheryl D. Jenkins, Rockell A. Brown, 2013-07-03 The history of American journalism is marked by disturbing representations of people and communities of color from the disgraceful stereotypes of pre civil rights America to the more subtle myths that are reflected in routine coverage by journalists all over the country Race and News Critical Perspectives aims to examine these journalistic representations of race and in doing so to question whether or not we are living in a post racial world By looking at national coverage of stories like the Don Imus controversy Hurricane Katrina Barak Obama s presidential candidacy and even the Virginia Tech shootings readers are given an opportunity to gain insight into both subtle and overt forms of racism in the newsroom and in national dialogue The book itself is divided into two sections with the first examining the journalistic routine and the decisions that go into covering a story with or without relation to race The second section comprised of case studies explores the coverage of national stories and how they have impacted the dialogue on race and racism in the United States As a whole the collection of essays and studies also reflects a variety of research approaches With a goal of contributing to the discussion about race and its place in American journalism this broad examination makes Race and News an ideal text for courses on cultural diversity and the media as well as making it valuable to professional journalists and journalism students who seek to improve their approach to coverage of diverse communities

Race, Crime, and Justice Shaun L. Gabbidon, Helen Taylor Greene, 2005 Scholars have been writing on the relationship between race and crime for over a century This anthology presents a collection of the most important current and classic works covering all of the major topics and issues from policing courts drugs urban violence inequality racial profiling and capital punishment The papers clearly demonstrate the long standing difficulties minorities have faced with the justice system

The Race Card Tali Mendelberg, 2017-10-09 Did George Bush s use of the Willie Horton story during the 1988 presidential campaign communicate most effectively when no one noticed its racial meaning Do politicians routinely evoke racial stereotypes fears and resentments without voters awareness This controversial rigorously researched book argues that they do Tali Mendelberg examines how and when politicians play the race card and then manage to plausibly deny doing so In the age of equality politicians cannot prime race with impunity due to a norm of racial equality that prohibits racist speech Yet incentives to appeal to white voters remain strong As a result politicians often resort to more subtle uses of race to win elections Mendelberg documents the development of this implicit communication across time and measures its impact on society Drawing on a wide variety of research including simulated television news experiments national surveys a comprehensive content analysis of campaign coverage and historical inquiry she analyzes the causes dynamics and consequences of racially loaded political communication She also identifies similarities and differences among communication about race gender and sexual orientation in the United States and between communication about race in the United States and ethnicity in Europe thereby contributing to a more general theory of politics Mendelberg's conclusion is that politicians including many current state governors continue to play the race card using terms like welfare and crime to manipulate white voters' sentiments without overtly violating egalitarian norms. But she offers some good news: implicitly racial messages lose their appeal even among their target audience when their content is exposed.

Critical Race Theory in the Academy Vernon Lee Farmer, Evelyn Shepherd W. Farmer, 2020-09-01

Critical Race Theory in the Academy explores the deep implications of race and its effects on the expanse of the American social fabric and its fragile democratic process. This volume contributes to a more effective, powerful, and insightful theorization of racism across the social spectrum while furthering the movement for greater equity in higher education and beyond. The audience for this book is broad and should be of great interest and value to all Americans who fight against racism, which is focused on the destruction of Black people and other people of color. Ideally, educators, scholars, and practitioners will be compelled to engage the ideas within this volume to break down the color line and challenge the problematic master narrative in education and other aspects of society.

Critical Race Theory in the Academy offers current applications, debates, theories, strategies, and evolutions about critical race theory (CRT) with particular attention to CRT's intersections with the field of higher education and beyond. As a part of the CRT corpus, this volume details some of the most relevant and current topics deployed in varied disciplines of the academy, confronting the complex interplay of race, racism, education, and social justice in the twenty-first century. Specifically, the authors explore topics from health disparities, politics, religion, literature, music, social work, psychology, sports, distance learning, media bias, affirmative action, to education policies, practices, and scholarship. The chapters in this volume should help navigate the tensions in the academy and beyond to work toward alleviating institutionalized racism.

Aileen Moreton Robinson, Queens and University of Technology, Australia, Author of The White Possessive: Property, Power, and Indigenous Sovereignty

Vernon Lee Farmer has done it again, and for the final time. He has pulled together a star-studded cast of academics of color to address an essential concern of the academy. Throughout his career, Farmer has demonstrated the uncanny ability to identify matters that require attention and attacked them with vigor.
