Police Power and Race Riots Cathy Lisa Schneider, 2014-07-17 Three weeks after Lyndon Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 a New York City police officer shot and killed a fifteen year old black youth inciting the first of almost a decade of black and Latino riots throughout the United States In October 2005 French police chased three black and Arab teenagers into an electrical substation outside Paris culminating in the fatal electrocution of two of them Fires blazed in Parisian suburbs and housing projects throughout France for three consecutive weeks Cathy Lisa Schneider explores the political legal and economic conditions that led to violent confrontations in neighborhoods on opposite sides of the Atlantic half a century apart Police Power and Race Riots traces the history of urban upheaval in New York and greater Paris focusing on the interaction between police and minority youth Schneider shows that riots erupted when elites activated racial boundaries police engaged in racialized violence and racial minorities lacked alternative avenues of redress She also demonstrates how local activists who cut their teeth on the American race riots painstakingly constructed social movement organizations with standard nonviolent repertoires for dealing with police violence These efforts along with the opening of access to courts of law for ethnic and racial minorities have made riots a far less common response to police violence in the United States today Rich in historical and ethnographic detail Police Power and Race Riots offers a compelling account of the processes that fan the flames of urban unrest and the dynamics that subsequently quell the fires

The Changing Environment for Policing, 1985-2008 David H. Bayley, 2010 Our thesis is that policing in the mid 1980s was perceived to be in crisis and there was a strong sense that fundamental changes were needed in the way it was delivered In contrast police are considered to be performing well 20 years later by both practitioners and outside observers Crime has been falling for almost 18 years and any new challenges including terrorism appear to be manageable without the invention of new strategies for the delivery of police services Past experience contains the lessons needed for the future In our view this assessment may be mistaken not because existing policies are defective in controlling crime but because the institutions that provide public safety are changing in profound ways that are not being recognized

Suspect Race Jack Glaser, 2014-11-07 Until now most discussion of racial profiling has given only fleeting consideration of its causes Those causes are overwhelmingly psychological In Suspect Race social psychologist and public policy expert Jack Glaser leverages a century's worth of social psychological research to provide a clear understanding of how stereotypes even those operating outside of conscious awareness or control can cause police to make discriminatory judgments and decisions about who to suspect stop question search use force on and arrest Glaser argues that stereotyping even nonconscious stereotyping is a completely normal human mental process but that it leads to undesirable discriminatory outcomes Police officers are normal human beings with normal cognition They are therefore influenced by racial stereotypes that have long connected minorities with aggression and crime Efforts to merely prohibit racial profiling are inadequate Additionally Glaser finds evidence that racial profiling can actually increase crime and he considers the implications for racial profiling in counterterrorism finding some similarities and some interesting differences with drug war profiling Finally he examines the policy landscape on which racial profiling resides and calls for improved data collection and supervision reduced discretion and increased accountability Drawing on criminology history psychological science and legal and policy analysis Glaser offers a broad and deep assessment of the causes and consequence of racial profiling Suspect Race brings to bear the vast scientific literature on intergroup stereotyping to offer the first in depth and accessible understanding of the primary cause of racial profiling and to explore implications for policy
