Wherever relevant the chapters connect theory and research to policy and practice pointing to recommendations and challenges for the future including alternative approaches for research policy and practice.

Disability Classification in Education Lani Florian, Margaret J. McLaughlin, 2008-04-03. Makes a strong contribution to the field illuminating many issues and significant concerns. Mary Carlson, Special Education Teacher, Park Hill K 8 School, Denver, CO. A unique timeless collection that raises interesting questions about disability classification internationally. Wendy Dallman, Special Education Teacher, New London High School, WI. Promote equal educational opportunity through improved classification practices. The identification of children for special educational services has long been a topic of debate. Are students classified accurately? Do current classification systems produce adequate education services? Have systems designed to ensure equity instead resulted in discrimination? Disability Classification in Education offers a comprehensive analysis of current classification systems and categorical labels in the United States, the United Kingdom, and other countries. Covering specific national policies from historical, sociological, and legal perspectives, this collection of articles from a group of esteemed educational researchers identifies the disparities between different classification systems and suggests changes based on recent requirements, challenges, and trends. Aligned with NCLB and the reauthorization of IDEA 2004, this edited volume examines the evolution of special education classification policies, the relevance of existing disability classification systems, dilemmas educators face in using current classification procedures, alternatives for serving learners with special needs, approaches to developing a standardized or universal classification policy. Intended to stimulate discussion and spark change, this guide helps school or district administrators and university faculty improve the professional practice of those entrusted with the development and well-being of children with disabilities.

Disability Decision Making, 2001. On Your Own without a Net D. Wayne Osgood, E. Michael Foster, Constance Flanagan, Gretchen R. Ruth, 2008-09-15. In the decade after high school, young people continue to rely on their families in many ways, sometimes for financial support, sometimes for help with childcare, and sometimes for continued shelter. But what about those young people who confront special difficulties during this period, many of whom can count on little help from their families? On Your Own Without a Net documents the special challenges facing seven vulnerable populations during the transition to adulthood: former foster care youth, youth formerly involved in the juvenile justice system, youth in the criminal justice system, runaway and homeless youth, former
