Sesame Street I Can Draw It Myself:

I Can Read It All by Myself Paul V. Allen, 2021-05-28 In the late 1950s Ted Geisel took on the challenge of creating a book using only 250 unique first grade words something that aspiring readers would have both the ability and the desire to read The result was an unlikely children s classic The Cat in the Hat But Geisel didn t stop there Using The Cat in the Hat as a template he teamed with Helen Geisel and Phyllis Cerf to create Beginner Books a whole new category of readers that combined research based literacy practices with the logical insanity of Dr Seuss The books were an enormous success giving the world such authors and illustrators as P D Eastman Roy McKie and Stan and Jan Berenstain and beloved bestsellers such as Are You My Mother Go Dog Go Put Me in the Zoo and Green Eggs and Ham The story of Beginner Books and Ted Geisel s role as president policymaker and editor of the line for thirty years has been told briefly in various biographies of Dr Seuss but I Can Read It All by Myself The Beginner Books Story presents it in full detail for the first time Drawn from archival research and dozens of brand new interviews I Can Read It All by Myself explores the origins philosophies and operations of Beginner Books from The Cat in the Hat in 1957 to 2019 s A Skunk in My Bunk and reveals the often fascinating lives of the writers and illustrators who created them

About What Was Lost Jessica Berger Gross, 2006-12-26 In this intimate anthology twenty writers explore the grief and sadness and hope that living through a miscarriage can bring Featuring such notable writers as Pam Houston Joyce Maynard Caroline Leavitt Susanna Sonnenberg and Julianna Baggott among many others About What Was Lost is the only book that uses honest eloquent and deeply moving narrative to provide much needed solace and support on the subject of pregnancy loss Today as many as one in four pregnancies ends in miscarriage And yet many women are surprised to find that instead of simply grieving the end of a pregnancy they feel as if they are mourning the loss of a child Taken aback by their sorrow they seek solace in similar perspectives only to find that a silence and lingering stigma surrounds the topic Revealing a wide spectrum of experiences and perspectives this powerful collection offers comfort and community for the millions of women and their loved ones who experience this all too common kind of loss every year

Identity Formation within Historically Black Colleges and Universities Anthony B. Pinn, 2025-09-18 Drawing from institutional research this book advocates for the ongoing importance of HBCUs and shows how their curriculum programming and self understanding all point to education as a strategy for enhancing the whole person Over the years historically Black colleges and universities HBCUs have played a significant role in the formation of Black identity in a society that struggles to appreciate difference Bringing the vitality of these institutions to a larger public high profile donors and advocates have served to safeguard the ongoing necessity of what HBCUs represent Drawing on scholars from various disciplinary backgrounds Anthony B Pinn and the contributors explore the intersections of race and higher education through the lens of self awareness and community awareness The chapters tackle areas such as how HBCUs have handled focusing on or not focusing on Black history and Black cultural production in their courses identity formation of international students at HBCUs HBCUs contribution to identity formation in a global context promoting Pan Africanism and how HBCUs promote healthy identity formation for Black students Through institutional research this book provides a uniquely layered and historical sensitive discussion of how HBCUs developed and their relationship to issues of Blackness and personhood

The Second Self, Twentieth Anniversary Edition Sherry Turkle, 2005-09-30 A new edition of the classic primer in the psychology of computation with a new introduction a new epilogue and extensive notes added to the original text In The Second Self Sherry Turkle looks at the computer not as a tool but as part of our social and psychological lives she looks beyond how we use computer games and spreadsheets to explore how the computer affects our awareness of ourselves of one another and of our relationship with the world Technology she writes catalyzes changes not only in what we do but in how we think First published in 1984 The Second Self is still essential reading as a primer in the psychology of computation This twentieth anniversary edition allows us to reconsider two decades of computer culture to re experience what was and is most novel in our new media culture and to view our own contemporary relationship with technology with fresh eyes Turkle frames this classic work with a new introduction a new epilogue and extensive notes added to the original text Turkle talks to children college students engineers AI scientists hackers and personal computer owners people confronting machines that seem to think and at the same time suggest a new way for us to think about human thought emotion memory and understanding Her interviews reveal that we experience computers as being on the border between inanimate and animate as both an extension of the self and part of the external world Their special place betwixt and between traditional categories is part of what makes them compelling and evocative In the introduction to this edition Turkle quotes a PDA user as saying When my Palm crashed it was like a death I thought I had lost my mind Why we think of the workings of a machine in psychological terms how this happens and what it means for all of us is the ever more timely subject of The Second Self

The Autobiographical Self in Time and Culture Qi Wang, 2013-07-26 In this volume Qi Wang traces the developmental social cultural and historical origins of the autobiographical self the self that is made of memories of the personal past and of the family and the community Wang combines rigorous research sensitive survey of real memories and memory conversations and fascinating personal anecdotes into a state of the art book As a marginal woman who grew up in the East and works and lives in the West Wang's analysis is unique insightful and approachable Her accounts of her own family stories extraordinarily careful and thorough documentation of research findings and compelling theoretical insights together convey an unequivocal message The autobiographical self is conditioned by one's time and culture Beginning with a perceptive examination of the form content and function of parent child conversations of personal and family stories Wang undertakes to show how the autobiographical self is formed in and shaped by the process of family storytelling situated in specific cultural contexts By contrasting the development of autobiographical writings in Western and Chinese literatures Wang seeks to demonstrate the cultural stance of the autobiographical self in historical time She examines the autobiographical self in personal time thoughtfully analyzing the form structure and content of everyday memories to reveal the role of culture in modulating information processing and determining how the autobiographical self is remembered Focusing on memories of early childhood Wang seeks to answer the question of when the autobiographical self begins from a cross cultural perspective She sets out further to explore some of the most controversial issues in current psychological research of autobiographical memory focusing particularly on issues of memory representations versus memory narratives and silence versus voice in the construction of the autobiographical self appropriate to one's cultural assumptions She concludes with historical analyses of the influences of the larger social political and economic forces on the autobiographical self and takes a forward look at the autobiographical self as a product of modern technology
