Mrozek,2001 This book probes various groups of Americans as they come to grips with the consequences of the Vietnam War Dr Mrozek examines several areas of concern facing the United States Air Force and the other services in varying degrees in the years after Vietnam Chemical Warfare during the Vietnam War D. Hank Ellison,2011-04-06 Chemical Warfare during the Vietnam War documents the use of antipersonnel chemical weapons throughout the Vietnam War and explores their effectiveness under the wide variety of circumstances in which they were employed The short readable account follows the US program as it progressed from a focus on the humanitarian aspects of non lethal weapons to their use as a means of augmenting and enhancing the lethality of traditional munitions It also presents the efforts of the North Vietnamese to both counter US chemical operations and to develop a chemical capability of their own Chemical Warfare during the Vietnam War is a comprehensive and thoroughly fascinating examination of riot control agents during the Vietnam War Air Power And The Ground War In Vietnam, Ideas And Actions Dr Donald J. Mrozek,2015-11-06 Ultimately this study is about a smaller Vietnam War than that which is commonly recalled It focuses on expectations concerning the impact of air power on the ground war and on some of its actual effects but it avoids major treatment of some of the most dramatic air actions of the war such as the bombing of Hanoi To many who fought the war and believe it ought to have been conducted on a still larger scale or with fewer restraints this study may seem almost perverse emphasizing as it does the utility of air power in conducting the conflict as a ground war and without total exploitation of our most awe inspiring technology Although the chapters in this study are intended to form a coherent and unified argument each also offers discrete messages The chapters are not meant to be definitive They do not exhaust available documentary material and they often rely heavily on published accounts Nor do they provide a complete chronological picture of the uses of air power even with respect to the ground war Nor is coverage of areas in which air power was employed South Vietnam Laos Cambodia and North Vietnam evenly distributed nor necessarily proportionate to the effort expended in each place during the war Lastly some may find one or another form of air power either slightly or insufficiently treated Such criticisms are beside the point for the objectives of this study are to explore a comparatively neglected theme the impact of air power on the ground and to encourage further utilization of lessons drawn from the Vietnam experience Our Time in Vietnam

Caldwell,2018-11-09 This groundbreaking book provides the first systematic comparison of America's modern wars and why they were won or lost John D Caldwell uses the World War II victory as the historical benchmark for evaluating the success and failure of later conflicts Unlike WWII the Korean Vietnam and Iraqi Wars were limited but they required enormous national commitments produced no lasting victories and generated bitter political controversies Caldwell comprehensively examines these four wars through the lens of a strategic architecture to explain how and why their outcomes were so dramatically different He defines a strategic architecture as an interlinked set of continually evolving policies strategies and operations by which combatant states work toward a desired end Policy defines the high level goals a nation seeks to achieve once it initiates a conflict or finds itself drawn into one Policy makers direct a broad course of action and strive to control the initiative When they make decisions they have to respond to unforeseen conditions to guide and determine future decisions Effective leaders are skilled at organizing constituencies they need to succeed and communicating to them convincingly Strategy means employing whatever resources are available to achieve policy goals in situations that are dynamic as conflicts change quickly over time Operations are the actions that occur when politicians soldiers and diplomats execute plans A strategic architecture Caldwell argues is thus not a static blueprint but a dynamic vision of how a state can succeed or fail in a conflict

Alliances & Armor Jim Pomeroy,2025-07-10 Jim Pomeroy's Alliances Armor bridges the gaps between Cold War diplomacy and military operational history With a firm grasp of multi archival and secondary sources Pomeroy provides a comprehensive look at the international issues that influenced Hanoi's decisions in the Second Indochina War in a concise and deftly written narrative This is a strong addition to the voluminous literature of the war in Vietnam Kelly Crager Vietnam Center and Sam Johnson Vietnam Archive The People's Army of Vietnam's decision to utilize armor as part of its warfighting strategy was a product of various geopolitical factors that surrounded Hanoi during various parts of the Vietnam War During the First Indochina War the People's Republic of China PRC emerged as the foremost communist benefactor of North Vietnam The Soviet Union however largely stood by While worried by the PRC's and Soviet Union's actions during the Geneva Conference of 1954 Hanoi still felt the need to maintain good relations with both countries This was reinforced when the Sino Soviet split occurred in 1956 and Hanoi was forced to walk a tight rope between Beijing and Moscow As the United States escalated its war in Vietnam Moscow now under new leadership sought to increase its material support for Hanoi As the war progressed Hanoi sought to fight larger battles against the Americans and their South Vietnamese allies In order to fight larger battles the PAVN needed more modern military equipment that only the Soviet Union could provide This paired with the chaos of the ongoing Cultural Revolution in China led Hanoi to lean more towards Moscow in the latter years of the Vietnam War As part of this newly blossomed relationship Moscow began to furnish the PAVN with more modern weapons including Soviet armor Initially the PAVN's use of armor at Lang Vei 1968 and Laos 1971 was met with some success However in 1972 Hanoi panicked as the United States began to reach détente with Beijing and Moscow This led to fears of another Geneva and thus led Hanoi to pursue a rushed Easter Offensive in March 1972 which saw ill trained PAVN tank crews fall prey to poor planning and bad strategy This changed in 1975 when following the Paris Peace Accords and subsequent combined arms training in the Soviet Union the PAVN victoriously drove its Soviet armor into Saigon
