Written and published in the 1840s this book sees John Ruskin set out his architectural beliefs. A man of deep religiosity, Ruskin was convinced that Gothic architecture was at the very height of beauty and achievement in building design. Even during his prime, Ruskin had opponents who felt his staunch traditionalist take on structural architecture confining. Despite Ruskin's now outdated views, this book acts as a detailed history of architecture as it stood in the mid 19th century. The Seven Lamps of the title describe seven principles which Ruskin viewed should be reflected in a building: Sacrifice, Truth, Power, Beauty, Life, Memory, and Obedience. We find within this edition illustrations of the structures and flourishes which Ruskin admires most. His opinions on certain newer designs of the industrial era and the painstaking restoration of ancient artworks may be summed up in a single word: desecration. Despite the author's stark views and ornate style for its context, The Seven Lamps of Architecture is a worthy edition to the library of architects and enthusiasts of design. A particular strength from a historic viewpoint is Ruskin's discussions of the material contrasts and conflict between traditional design and newer forms, together with his sometimes apt phrasing: "Architecture is the art which so disposes and adorns the edifices raised by man that the sight of them may contribute to his mental health, power, and pleasure."

Excerpt from The Seven Lamps of Architecture: "So far however as their coarseness and rudeness admit, the plates are valuable, being either copies of memoranda made upon the spot, or plates IX and XI enlarged and adapted from Daguerreotypes taken under my own superintendence. Unfortunately the great distance from the ground of the window which is the subject of Plate IX renders even the Daguerreotype indistinct, and I cannot answer for the accuracy of any of the mosaic details, more especially of those which surround the window and which I rather imagine in the original to be sculptured in relief. The general proportions are however studiously preserved, the spirals of the shafts are counted, and the effect of the whole is as near that of the thing itself as is necessary for the purposes of illustration for which the plate is given. For the accuracy of the rest I can answer even to the cracks in the stones and the number of them, and though the looseness of the drawing and the picturesque character which is necessarily given by an endeavor to draw old buildings as they actually appear may perhaps diminish their credit for architectural veracity, they will do so unjustly.
