Bollywood Cinema Vijay Mishra, 2013-08-21 India is home to Bollywood the largest film industry in the world Movie theaters are said to be the temples of modern India with Bombay producing nearly 800 films per year that are viewed by roughly 11 million people per day In Bollywood Cinema Vijay Mishra argues that Indian film production and reception is shaped by the desire for national community and a pan Indian popular culture Seeking to understand Bollywood according to its own narrative and aesthetic principles and in relation to a global film industry he views Indian cinema through the dual methodologies of postcolonial studies and film theory Mishra discusses classics such as Mother India 1957 and Devdas 1935 and recent films including Ram Lakhan 1989 and Khalnayak 1993 linking their form and content to broader issues of national identity epic tradition popular culture history and the implications of diaspora

Desert Island Discs: 70 Years of Castaways Sean Magee, 2012-09-13 For seventy years now Desert Island Discs has managed that rare feat to be both enduring and relevant By casting away the biggest names of the day in science business politics showbiz sport and the arts it presents a cross sectional snapshot of the times in which we live As the decades have passed the programme has kept pace never frozen in time yet always somehow comfortingly the same Kirsty Young BBC Radio 4's Desert Island Discs celebrates its seventieth birthday in 2012 Since the programme's deviser Roy Plomley interviewed comedian Vic Oliver in January 1942 nearly 3 000 distinguished people from all walks of life have been stranded on the mythical island accompanied by only eight records one book and a luxury Here the story of one of BBC Radio 4's favourite programmes is chronicled through a special selection of castaways Roy Plomley inventor of the programme as well as its presenter for over forty years quizzes the young Cliff Richard about these rather frenzied movements the 1960s pop sensation makes on the stage Robert Maxwell tells Plomley's successor Michael Parkinson that I will have left the world a slightly better place by having lived in it Diana Mosley assures Sue Lawley that Adolf Hitler was extraordinarily fascinating and had mesmeric blue eyes And Johnny Vegas tugs Kirsty Young's heart strings with his account of a childhood so impoverished that family pets were fair game My dad had always claimed that rabbits were livestock but we'd never eaten one before Desert Island Discs is much more than a radio programme It is a unique and enduringly popular take on our lives and times and this extensively illustrated book tells in rich detail the colourful and absorbing story of an extraordinary institution 70 Years of Indian Cinema, 1913-1983 T. M. Ramachandran, S. Rukmini, 1985 Cinema's Original Sin Paul McEwan, 2022-12-13 For over a century cinephiles and film scholars have had to grapple with an ugly artifact that sits at the beginnings of film history D W Griffith's profoundly racist epic The Birth of a Nation inspired controversy and protest at its 1915 release and was defended as both a true history of Reconstruction although it was based on fiction and a new achievement in cinematic art Paul McEwan examines the long and shifting history of its reception revealing how the film became not just a cinematic landmark but also an influential force in American aesthetics and intellectual life In every decade since 1915 filmmakers museums academics programmers and film fans have had to figure out how to deal with this troublesome object and their choices have profoundly influenced both film culture and the notion that films can be works of art Some critics tried to set aside the film's racism and concentrate on the form while others tried to relegate that racism safely to the past McEwan argues that from the earliest film retrospectives in the 1920s to the rise of remix culture in the present day controversies about this film and its meaning have profoundly shaped our understandings of film race and art Guidebook to Film Ronald Gottesman, Harry M. Geduld, 1972 French National Cinema Susan Hayward, 2006-09-07 This examination of France's national cinema takes its primary artefact the feature film and discusses both popular cinema and the avant garde cinema that contests it Susan Hayward argues that writing on French national cinema has tended to focus on either great film makers or on specific movements addressing moments of exception rather than the global picture Her work offers a thorough and much needed historical textualisation of those moments and relocates them in their wider political and cultural context Beginning with an ecohistory of the French film industry she then traces the various movements in French cinema and the directors associated with them including the avant garde Poetic Realist New Wave and today's postmodern cinema Her analysis includes amongst other considerations the social and political concerns these cinemas reflect Torn Sprockets Gerald Pratley, 1987 The history of Canadian filmmaking is a fascinating topic and in this book the author takes the reader through the early years of the twentieth century when Hollywood monopolized the industry Edison's Kinetoscope enthralled the public and motion picture exhibitions swept across Canada She Animates Lora Mjolsness, Michele Leigh, 2021-02-02 She Animates examines the work of twelve female animation directors in the Soviet Union and Russia who have long been overlooked by film scholars and historians Our approach examines these directors within history culture and industrial practice in animation In addition to making a case for including these women and their work in the annals of film and animation history this volume also makes an argument for why their work should be considered part of the tradition of women's cinema. We offer textual analysis that focuses on the changing attitudes towards both the woman question and feminism by examining the films in light of the emergence and evolution of a Soviet female subjectivity that still informs women's cinema in Russia today.

Shadow Economies of Cinema Ramon Lobato, 2019-07-25 How do people access movies today? What are the most popular and powerful channels for media distribution on a global scale? How are film industries changing in the face of media convergence and digitisation? To answer questions such as these, argues Ramon Lobato, we must shift our gaze away from the legal film business and toward cinema's shadow economies. All around the world, films are bought from roadside stalls, local markets, and grocery stores; they are illegally downloaded and streamed; they are watched in makeshift video clubs on street corners and in restaurants, shops, and bars. International film culture in its actually existing forms is a messy affair, and it relies to a great extent on black and grey media markets. Examining the industrial dynamics of these subterranean film networks across a number of different sites, from Los Angeles to Lagos, Melbourne to Mexico City, this book shows how they constitute a central rather than marginal part of audiovisual culture and commerce. Combining film industry analysis with cultural theory, Shadow Economies of Cinema opens up a new area of inquiry for cinema studies, putting industry research into dialogue with wider debates about economic informality and commodity circulation. Written in an accessible style, this book offers an original bottom-up perspective on the global cinema industry for researchers and students in film studies, cultural studies, and media and communications.

Teaching Religion and Film Gregory J. Watkins, 2008-08-22 In a culture increasingly focused on visual media, students have learned not only to embrace multimedia presentations in the classroom but to expect them. Such expectations are perhaps more prevalent in a field as dynamic and cross-disciplinary as religious studies, but the practice nevertheless poses some difficult educational issues: the use of movies in academic coursework has far outpaced the scholarship on teaching religion and film. What does it mean to utilize film in religious studies, and what are the best ways to do it? In Teaching Religion and Film, an interdisciplinary team of scholars thinks about the theoretical and pedagogical concerns involved with the intersection of film and religion in the classroom. They examine the use of film to teach specific religious traditions, religious theories, and perspectives on fundamental human values. Some instructors already teach some version of a film and religion course, and many have integrated film as an ancillary to achieving central course goals. This collection of essays helps them understand the field better and draws the sharp distinction between merely watching movies in the classroom and comprehending film in an informed and critical way.

Film Editing: History, Theory and Practice Don Fair Service, 2001 This comprehensive examination of the film editor's craft traces the development of editing from the primitive forms of early cinema through the upheavals caused by the advent of sound. Don Fair Service explores the challenges to convention that began in the 1960s and which continue to the present day. New digital technologies and the dominance of the moving image have produced a radical rewriting of the rules of audio-visual address.

This detailed study outlines a fascinating history and presents the how s and why s of film editing and its complexities in our modern age

Cinema Treasures Ross Melnick, Andreas Fuchs, 2004 More than 100 years after the first movie delighted audiences movie theaters remain the last great community centers and one of the few amusements any family can afford While countless books have been devoted to films and their stars none have attempted a truly definitive history of those magical venues that have transported moviegoers since the beginning of the last century In this stunningly illustrated book film industry insiders Ross Melnick and Andreas Fuchs take readers from the nickelodeon to the megaplex and show how changes in moviemaking and political social and technological forces e g war depression the baby boom the VCR have influenced the way we see movies Archival photographs from archives like the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and movie theater ephemera postcards period ads matchbooks and even a barf bag sourced from private collections complement Melnick s informative and engaging history Also included throughout the book are Fuchs profiles detailing 25 classic movie theaters that have been restored and renovated and which continue to operate today Each of these two page spreads is illustrated with marvelous modern photographs many taken by top architectural photographers The result is a fabulous look at one way in which Americans continue to come together as a nation A timeline throughout places the developments described in a broader historical context We ve had a number of beautiful books about the great movie palaces and even some individual volumes that pay tribute to surviving theaters around the country This is the first book I can recall that focuses on the survivors from coast to coast and puts them into historical context Sumptuously produced in an oversized format on heavy coated paper stock this beautiful book offers a lively history of movie theaters in America an impressive array of photos and memorabilia and a heartening survey of the landmarks in our midst from the majestic Fox Tucson Theatre in Tucson Arizona to the charming jewel box that is the Avon in Stamford Connecticut I don t know why but I never tire of gazing at black they evoke the era of moviemaking and moviegoing I care about the most and this book is packed with them Cinema Treasures is indeed a treasure and a perfect gift item for the holiday season Leonard MaltinHumble or grandiose stand alone or strung together movie theaters are places where dreams are born Once upon a time they were treated with the respect they deserve In their heyday historian Ross Melnick and exhibitor Andreas Fuchs write in Cinema Treasures openings of new motion picture pleasure palaces that would have dazzled Kubla Khan received enormous attention in newspapers around the country On top of the publicity they generated their debuts were treated like the gala openings of new operas or exhibits with critics weighing in on everything from the interior and exterior design to the orchestra Handsomely produced and extensively illustrated Cinema Treasures is detailed without being dull and thoroughly at home with this often neglected subject matter Its title would have you believe it is a celebration of the golden age of movie theaters But this book is something completely different an examination of the history of movie exhibition which the authors accurately call a vastly under researched topic Los Angeles Times

Cinema's Sinister Psychiatrists Sharon Packer,

M.D.,2012-09-19 Film history is merged with psychiatric history seamlessly to show how and why bad depictions of mind doctors especially hypnotists occur in early film long before Hannibal Lecter burst upon the scene The German Expressionist Dr Caligari is not cinema's first psychotic charlatan but he launches the stereotype of screen psychiatrists who are sicker than their patients Many film psychiatrists function as political metaphors while many more reflect real life clinical controversies This book discusses films with diabolical drugging unethical experimentation involuntary incarceration sexual exploitation lobotomies shock schlock conspiracy theories and military medicine to show how fact informs fantasy and when fantasy trumps reality Traditional asylum thrillers changed after hospital stays shortened and laws protected people against involuntary commitment Except for six short golden years from 1957 to 1963 portrayals of bad psychiatrists far outnumber good ones and this book tells how and why that was

The Phoenix Picturehouse: 100 Years of Oxford Cinema Memories Deborah Allison, Hiu Man Chan, Daniela Treveri Gennari,2023-03-15 The Phoenix is one of only a handful of British cinemas to have remained active for the past 100 years This is the story of Oxford's oldest continuously operating cinema as told by its staff and customers Featuring first hand reminiscences dating back to the days of silent movies and illustrated with a fabulous collection of over 100 images many of which have never appeared in print until now The Phoenix Picturehouse presents a wide ranging account of a popular local institution whose changing fortunes exemplify a century of British cinema and cinemagoing history

Black and White Cinema Wheeler Winston Dixon,2015-11-06 From the glossy monochrome of the classic Hollywood romance to the gritty greyscale of the gangster picture to film noir's moody interplay of light and shadow black and white cinematography has been used to create a remarkably wide array of tones Yet today with black and white film stock nearly impossible to find these cinematographic techniques are virtually extinct and filmgoers' appreciation of them is similarly waning Black and White Cinema is the first study to consider the use of black and white as an art form in its own right providing a comprehensive and global overview of the era when it flourished from the 1900s to the 1960s Acclaimed film scholar Wheeler Winston Dixon introduces us to the masters of this art discussing the signature styles and technical innovations of award winning cinematographers like James Wong Howe Gregg Toland Freddie Francis and Sven Nykvist Giving us a unique glimpse behind the scenes Dixon also reveals the creative teams from lighting technicians to matte painters whose work profoundly shaped the look of black and white cinema More than just a study of film history this book is a rallying cry meant to inspire a love for the artistry of black and white film so that we might work to preserve this important part of our cinematic heritage Lavishly illustrated with more than forty on the set stills Black and White Cinema provides a vivid and illuminating look at a creatively vital era Encyclopedia of Indian Cinema Ashish Rajadhyaksha,Paul Willemen,2014-07-10 The largest film industry in the world after Hollywood is celebrated in this updated and expanded edition of a now classic work of reference Covering the full range of Indian film this new revised edition of the Encyclopedia of Indian Cinema includes vastly expanded coverage of mainstream productions from the 1970s to the 1990s and for the first time a comprehensive name index Illustrated throughout there is no comparable guide to the incredible vitality and diversity of historical and contemporary Indian film
