Landsman, 2005 The Psychology of Scientific Inquiry Aaro Toomela, 2019-11-05 This brief sets out on a course to distinguish three main kinds of thought that underlie scientific thinking Current science has not agreed on an understanding of what exactly the aim of science actually is how to understand scientific knowledge and how such knowledge can be achieved Furthermore no science today also explicitly admits the fact that knowledge can be constructed in different ways and therefore every scientist should be able to recognize the form of thought that undergirds their understanding of scientific theory In response to this this text seeks to answer the questions What is science What is scientific explanation What is causality and why it matters Science is a way to find new knowledge The way we think about the world constrains the aspects of it we can understand Scientists the author suggests should engage in a metacognitive perspective on scientific theory that reflects not only what exists in the world but also the way the scientist thinks about the world Same Sex John Corvino,1999 Same Sex presents a comprehensive anthology on homosexuality exploring historical conceptions of homosexuality homosexual identity and a variety of public policy issues Contemporary Research on Sex Work Jeffrey T. Lips,2020-04-10 Are sex and gender really two different things How malleable is gender identity Do both gender and sex have to be conceptualized as binaries as having two distinct but complementary categories Should we emphasize gender differences or is that the wrong question When should we call a gender difference small Are women really nonaggressive or does that label stem from stereotyping How does subtle or modern sexism work on its targets Scholarship on these and other gender related questions has exploded in recent years Hilary Lips synthesizes that research for students in an accessible and readable way Concepts on sex and gender are presented with the social context in which they were developed As in previous editions Lips takes a multicultural approach discussing the gender experiences of people from a wide range of races cultures socioeconomic statuses and gender and sexual identities She emphasizes empirical research but takes a critical approach to that research
