Looking for Longleaf Lawrence S. Earley,2005-10-12 Covering 92 million acres from Virginia to Texas the longleaf pine ecosystem was in its prime one of the most extensive and biologically diverse ecosystems in North America Today these magnificent forests have declined to a fraction of their original extent threatening such species as the gopher tortoise the red cockaded woodpecker and the Venus fly trap Conservationists have proclaimed longleaf restoration a major goal but has it come too late In Looking for Longleaf Lawrence S Earley explores the history of these forests and the astonishing biodiversity of the longleaf ecosystem drawing on extensive research and telling the story through first person travel accounts and interviews with foresters ecologists biologists botanists and landowners For centuries these vast grass covered forests provided pasture for large cattle herds in addition to serving as the world s greatest source of naval stores They sustained the exploitative turpentine and lumber industries until nearly all of the virgin longleaf had vanished Looking for Longleaf demonstrates how in the twentieth century forest managers and ecologists struggled to understand the special demands of longleaf and to halt its overall decline The compelling story Earley tells here offers hope that with continued human commitment the longleaf pine might not just survive but once again thrive
