Lost and Found Traditions ,1988-10-01 The Early Years of Native American Art History Janet Catherine Berlo,1992 This collection of essays deals with the development of Native American art history as a discipline rather than with particular art works or artists It focuses on the early anthropologists museum curators dealers and collectors and on the multiple levels of understanding and misunderstanding a Lost and Found Traditions Ralph Coe,1986-05-01

American Folk Art Kristin G. Congdon,Kara Kelley Hallmark,2012-03-19 Folk art is as varied as it is indicative of person and place informed by innovation and grounded in cultural context The variety and versatility of 300 American folk artists is captured in this collection of informative and thoroughly engaging essays American Folk Art A Regional Reference offers a collection of fascinating essays on the life and work of 300 individual artists Some of the men and women profiled in these two volumes are well known while others are important practitioners who have yet to receive the notice they merit Because many of the artists in both categories have a clear identity with their land and culture the work is organized by geographical region and includes an essay on each region to help make connections visible There is also an introductory essay on U S folk art as a whole Those writing about folk art to date tend to view each artist as either traditional or innovative One of the major contributions of this work is that it demonstrates that folk artists more often exhibit both traits they are grounded in their cultural context and creative in the way they make work their own Such insights expand the study of folk art even as they readjust readers understanding of who folk artists are The Death of Authentic Primitive Art Shelly Errington,2023-09-01

In this lucid witty and forceful book Shelly Errington argues that Primitive Art was invented as a new type of art object at the beginning of the twentieth century but that now at the century s end it has died a double but contradictory death Authenticity and primitivism both attacked by cultural critics have died as concepts At the same time the penetration of nation states the tourist industry and transnational corporations into regions that formerly produced these artifacts has severely reduced supplies of primitive art bringing about a second death Errington argues that the construction of the primitive in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and the kinds of objects chosen to exemplify it must be understood as a product of discourses of progress from the nineteenth century European narrative of technological progress to the twentieth century narrative of modernism to the late twentieth century narrative of the triumph of the free market In Part One she charts a provocative argument ranging through the worlds of museums art theorists mail order catalogs boutiques tourism and world events tracing a loosely historical account of the transformations of meanings of primitive art in this century In Part Two she explores an eclectic collection of public sites in Mexico and Indonesia a national museum of anthropology a cultural theme park an airport and a ninth century Buddhist monument newly refurbished to show how the idea of the primitive can be used in the interests of promoting nationalism and economic development Errington s dissection of discourses about progress and primitivism in the contemporary world is both a lively introduction to anthropological studies
