Marshall, 2001 Recently a growing number of Christians have actively promoted the concept of restorative justice and attempted to develop programs for dealing with crime based on restorative principles But is this approach truly consistent with the teaching of Scripture To date very little has been done to test this claim Beyond Retribution fills a gap by plumbing the New Testament on the topics of crime justice and punishment Christopher Marshall first explores the problems involved in applying ethical teachings from the New Testament to mainstream society He then surveys the extent to which the New Testament addresses criminal justice issues looking in particular at the concept of the justice of God in the teachings of Paul and Jesus He also examines the topic of punishment reviewing the debate in social thinking over the ethics and purpose of punishment including capital punishment and he advocates a new concept of restorative punishment The result of this engaging work is a biblically based challenge to imitate the way of Christ in dealing with both victims and offenders Publisher Traditional Christian Ethics David W. Gorman,2018-07-26 The Gospel of John would seem to be both the spiritual Gospel and a Gospel that promotes Christian mission Some interpreters however have found John to be the product of a sectarian community that promotes a very narrow view of Christian mission and advocates neither love of neighbor nor love of enemy In this book for both the academy and the church Michael Gorman argues that John has a profound spirituality that is robustly missional and that it can be summarized in the paradoxical phrase Abide and go from John 15 Disciples participate in the divine love and life and therefore in the life giving mission of God manifested in the ministry death and resurrection of Jesus As God's children disciples become more and more like this missional God as they become like his Son by the work of the Spirit This spirituality argues Gorman can be called missional theosis The Nonviolent Messiah Simon J.
