The Local Historian, 1989 Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain's landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved mysteries include an agricultural labourer who left secrets behind in Somerset when he migrated to Manchester a working class woman who bafflingly lost ten of her fourteen children in infancy a miner who purportedly went to live with the Red Indians and a merchant prince of the Empire who was rumoured to have two wives This book shows how a variety of sources including birth marriage and death certificates censuses newspaper reports passports recipe books trade directories diaries and passenger lists were all used to uncover more and how much can be detected by setting the characters from your family tree in their proper historical backgrounds This book is an updated edition of Ruth Symes previous book titled Stories From Your Family Tree Researching Ancestors Within Living Memory 2008 Tracing the History of Your House Nick

Barratt,2006-02-02 The second expanded edition of the bestselling guide by TV s Nick Barratt The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State Roger J. P. Kain,Elizabeth Baigent,1992 Throughout history the control of land has been the basis of political power Cadastral maps cartographic records of property ownership played an important role in the rise of modern Europe as tools for the consolidation and extension of land based national power The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State A History of Properly Mapping illustrated with 127 maps traces the development and application of rural property mapping in Europe and European colonies from the Renaissance through the nineteenth century The authors go beyond traditional cartographic research approaching the maps as political instruments rather than as simple geographical or historical tools The result is an unprecedented examination of the political and economic forces behind the production of maps and advances in cartography demonstrating how the seemingly neutral science of cartography became a political instrument for national interests Beginning with a review of the roots of cadastral mapping in the Roman Empire the authors concentrate on the use of cadastral maps in the Netherlands France England the Nordic countries the German lands the territories of the Austrian Habsburgs and the European colonies During the seventeenth century governments began to use maps to secure economic and political bases by the nineteenth century these maps had become tools for aggressive governmental control of land as tax bases natural resources and national territories The culmination of extensive bibliographic and archival research made possible by the authors considerable linguistic skills this work draws from source materials in ten languages and spanning five centuries It will remain the definitive source on the subject for years to come The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State was awarded the 1991 Kenneth Nebenzahl Prize for the best new manuscript in the history of cartography British Archives Janet Foster,Julia Sheppard,1995-09-27 Since it was first published in 1982 British Archives has established itself as the premier reference work to holdings of archives and manuscript collections throughout the UK The 3rd edition has been extensively revised and enlarged with more than 150 new entries further widening the range of the book Entries are structured to show the archives of the organisation as distinct from deposited collections and significant non manuscript material and additional details of fax number and conservation provision are included for the first time All the existing entries have been significantly updated together with the select bibliography and

Researching Local History Stuart A.

Raymond, 2022-09-08 How has the place we live in changed developed and grown over the centuries That is the basic question local historians seek to answer The answer is to be found in the sources of information that previous generations have left us The records of parish county and diocesan administration of the courts of the national government and of private estates all have something to tell us about the history of the locality we are interested in So do old newspapers and other publications All of these sources are readily available but many have been little used Local historians come from a wide diversity of backgrounds But whether you are a student researching a dissertation a family historian interested in the wider background history of your family a teacher a librarian an archivist an academic or are merely interested in the history of your own area this book is for you If you want to research local history you need a detailed account of the myriad sources readily available This book provides a comprehensive overview of those sources and its guidance will enable you to explore and exploit their vast range It poses the questions which local historians ask and identifies the specific sources likely to answer those questions
