Composing for the Revolution Joshua H. Howard,2020-10-31 In Composing for the Revolution Nie Er and China's Sonic Nationalism Joshua Howard explores the role the songwriter Nie Er played in the 1930s proletarian arts movement and the process by which he became a nationalist icon Composed only months before his untimely death in 1935 Nie Er's last song the March of the Volunteers captured the rising anti Japanese sentiment and was selected as China's national anthem with the establishment of the People's Republic Nie was quickly canonized after his death and later recast into the People's Musician during the 1950s effectively becoming a national monument Howard engages two historical paradigms that have dominated the study of twentieth century China revolution and modernity He argues that Nie Er active in the leftist artistic community and critical of capitalism availed himself of media technology especially the emerging sound cinema to create a modern revolutionary and nationalist music This thesis stands as a powerful corrective to a growing literature on the construction of a Chinese modernity which has privileged the mass consumer culture of Shanghai and consciously sought to displace the focus on China's revolutionary experience Composing for the Revolution also provides insight into understudied aspects of China's nationalism its sonic and musical dimensions Howard's analyses highlights Nie's extensive writings on the political function of music examination of the musical techniques and lyrics of compositions within the context of left wing cinema and also the transmission of his songs through film social movements and commemoration Nie Er shared multiple and overlapping identities based on regionalism nationalism and left wing internationalism His march songs inspired by Soviet mass songs combined Western musical structure and aesthetic with elements of Chinese folk music The songs ideological message promoted class nationalism but his March of the Volunteers elevated his music to a universal status thereby transcending the nation Traversing the life and legacy of Nie Er Howard offers readers a profound insight into the meanings of nationalism and memory in contemporary China Composing for the Revolution underscores the value of careful reading of sources and the author's willingness to approach a subject from multiple perspectives

Martin Pugh,2000 Annotation This book is the first comprehensive analysis of the campaign for women's suffrage to appear for over thirty years It challenges the conventional chronology of the subject by arguing that the Victorian suffragists did not undergo a decline during the 1890s but on the contrary had effectively won the argument about votes for women by 1900 This view is supported by evidence of the ineffectiveness of Anti Suffragism and especially the difficulties it encountered in trying to reconcile female Antis who were often feminists with male Antis who opposed all forms of emancipation The author adds a new dimension to the argument by discussing the beneficial impact on the British campaign of women's enfranchisement in New Zealand in 1893 and in Australia in 1902 and he shows how crucial to the shift towards suffragist support in parliament were Conservative moves in favour of suffragism in the 1890s The March of the Women also offers a fresh evaluation of the Edwardian militant campaign At grass roots level divisions over tactics mattered less than among the London leadership and suffragette groups were less rigidly divided It places the Pankhursts and the WSPU in a fresh light by examining their success in raising funds and in tapping the support of the British Establishment at the same time attacking it and its values while at the other end of the spectrum non militants were making an important contribution to the cause by capitalising on working class and Labour support for women's suffrage ASCAP Index of Performed Compositions
