Jenlink,2014-03-18 What makes a moral person moral Who decides what morality means What makes leadership practice moral In today s schools what stands as moral leadership These are questions that reflect the complexity integral to the calculus of human morality especially in a world that is defined daily by its variant meanings of morality its acts of immorality The school as an educational setting is or should be a decidedly moral center of the society it is the natural intersect between the family and the multi dimensional nature of public life Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy addresses these questions situating the reader in a conversation that examines the meaning and nature of moral leadership through the lens of moral literacy and the dispositional aims of moral leadership in educational settings The contributing authors extend an argument that the work of leader educators and practitioners alike must continuously be re articulated around the dispositional aims aligned with a moral democratic education Educators must be concerned with developing the moral intellectual and aesthetic dimensions of the educational leader as a moral person

Handbook of Research on the Education of School Leaders , Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition Patrick M. Jenlink,2014-04-09 Teacher identity is shaped by recognition or its absence often by misrecognition of others Recognition as a teacher or the strong and complex identification with one s professional culture and community is necessary for a positive sense of self Increasingly teachers are entering educational settings where difference connotes not equal better worse or having more less power over resources Differences between discourses of identity are braided at many points with a discourse of racism both interpersonal and structural Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition examines the nature of identity and recognition as social cultural and political constructs In particular the contributing authors to the book present discussions of the professional work necessary in teacher preparation programs concerned with preparing teachers for the complexities of teaching in schools that mirror an increasingly diverse society. Importantly, the authors illuminate many of the often problematic structures of schooling and the cultural politics that work to define one's identity, drawing into specific relief the nature of the struggle for recognition that all face who choose to enter teaching as a profession.

The Contemporary Superintendent Lars G. Bjork, Theodore J. Kowalski, 2005-06-28 A strong superintendent is critical to the success of an entire school district and this exciting new resource details the issues surrounding the state policies that appoint superintendents.

The Political Dynamics of School Choice L. Fusarelli, 2003-05-15 Lance D. Fusarelli examines the relationship between the charter school and voucher issues. To what degree does political support for charter schools from a coalition of teacher associations, school board groups, superintendents, and voucher advocates slow or even stop the forces for vouchers? Or do these coalitions, which successfully pushed charter school legislation through the legislature, actually fuel the fires of privatization? Charter schools legislation has enjoyed bipartisan support precisely because the threat of vouchers is so great. And contrary to the strategy of voucher opponents, the spread of charter schools increases rather than alleviates the push for vouchers.

The EdD and the Scholarly Practitioner Jill Alexa Perry, 2016-06-01 The purpose of this book is to highlight the efforts of the members of the Carnegie Project on the Education Doctorate (CPED) to prepare Scholarly Practitioners in the field of education leadership. The volume is edited by Jill Alexa Perry, Executive Director of CPED, a consortium of 86 schools of education in the US, Canada, and New Zealand. CPED is a collaboration of faculty working together since 2007 to re-envision professional practice preparation in education. Contributing authors include faculty and graduates from CPED-influenced programs. Faculty members highlight the need to rethink and strengthen all aspects of doctoral-level preparation for practitioners: the expanded and enhanced role of research inquiry and the dissertation in practice and discuss the implications these changes have on university schools of education. Students and graduates who face pressing educational issues in their daily lives reflect on the impact their EdD program has had on their professional practice.

Reculturing Schools as Professional Learning Communities Jane Bumpers Huffman, Kristine Kiefer Hipp, 2003 This important work documents and examines evidence of efforts taking place in rural, urban, and suburban Pre-K-12 schools that are actively engaged in creating professional learning communities (PLCs). Literature is reviewed that defines and identifies the distinguishing dimensions of PLCs. A five-year federally funded research study is explained, including the methodology and demographics of the six study schools and a synthesis of the 64 interviews. A PLC organizer (PLCO) is introduced, which realigns with Shirley Hord's original 1997 research. The organizer provides the framework to explain the five PLC dimensions and related critical attributes. The PLCO also merges Fullan's model Phases of Change (1985), which includes initiation, implementation and institutionalization The authors provide extensive evidence of the progressive development of a PLC from initiation to implementation using exemplars and non exemplars from interviews that either hinder or facilitate creating and sustaining PLCs A new assessment tool the Professional Learning Community Assessment PLCA is also presented and can be used for diagnosis and evaluation of schools as they work toward school reform efforts Readers are also presented with information that connects professional learning community work to a new approach to school improvement Five case studies are included that can be used in schools and university classrooms for the purpose of engaging educators in reflection open dialogue problem finding and problem solving This first hand documented information provides readers with unique issues as they wrestle with the challenges of transforming schools into organizations that meet diverse students needs Lessons learned from this problem based learning can easily transfer to the readers own experiences and schools The authors conclude by highlighting significant findings reviewing the most recent related research that addresses sustaining such efforts and offering suggestions for school leaders to
