Death in Tangier Neal Chadwick, 2019-01-08 Thriller by Neal Chadwick The size of this book corresponds to 128 paperback pages The German student Elsa travels to Tangier after her painful parental divorce to gain some distance There she meets 38 year old Robert an attractive yet somewhat opaque man of seemingly Danish origin with whom she falls in love and into whose villa she soon moves into At first she unconditionally believes him and entrusts him with many things from her depressing past but when she realizes that Robert uses make up utensils and has several passports she begins to think about the character of Robert s business A little later Robert goes on one of his so called business trips to Spain and France and Elsa stays behind in the villa together with the Arab valet It turns out that Robert is a professional contract killer a terrible discovery made by Elsa Robert can no longer let her live

The First King of Hollywood Tracey Goessel, 2015-10-01 Theatre Library Association s Wall Award Finalist Silent film superstar Douglas Fairbanks was an absolute charmer Irrepressibly vivacious he spent his life leaping over and into things from his early Broadway successes to his marriage to the great screen actress Mary Pickford to the way he made Hollywood his very own town The inventor of the swashbuckler he wasn t only an actor he all but directed and produced his movies and in founding United Artists with Pickford Charlie Chaplin and D W Griffith he challenged the studio system But listing his accomplishments is one thing and telling his story another Tracey Goessel has made the latter her life's work and with exclusive access to Fairbanks's love letters to Pickford she brilliantly illuminates how Fairbanks conquered not just the entertainment world but the heart of perhaps the most famous woman in the world at the time When Mary Pickford died she was an alcoholic self-imprisoned in her mansion nearly alone and largely forgotten But she left behind a small box in it worn and refolded were her letters from Douglas Fairbanks Pickford and Fairbanks had ruled Hollywood as its first king and queen for a glorious decade But the letters began long before when they were both married to others when revealing the affair would have caused a great scandal Now these letters form the centerpiece of the first truly definitive biography of Hollywood's first king the man who did his own stunts and built his own studio and formed a company that allowed artists to distribute their own works outside the studio system But Goessel's research uncovered more that Fairbanks's first film appearance was two years earlier than had been assumed that his stories of how he got into theater and then into films were fabricated that the Pickford Fairbanks Studios had a specially constructed underground trench so that Fairbanks could jog in the nude that Fairbanks himself insisted racist references be removed from his films intertitles and the true cause of Fairbanks's death Fairbanks was the top male star of his generation the maker of some of the greatest films of his era The Thief of Bagdad Robin Hood The Mark of Zorro He was fun witty engaging creative athletic and a force to be reckoned with He shaped our idea of the Hollywood hero and Hollywood has never been the same since His story like his movies is full of passion bravado romance and desire Here at last is his definitive biography based on extensive and brand new research into every aspect of his career and written with fine understanding wit and verve

A Cultural History

of Race in the Middle Ages Thomas Hahn, 2023-06-01 This volume presents a comprehensive and collaborative survey of how people individually and within collective entities thought about experienced and enacted racializing differences

Addressing events, texts, and images from the 5th to the 16th centuries, these essays by ten eminent scholars provide broad multi-disciplinary analyses of materials whose origins range from the British Isles, Western Iberia, and North Africa across Western and Eastern Europe to the Middle East. These diverse communities possessed no single word equivalent to modern race, a term raza for genetic, religious, cultural, or territorial difference that emerges only at the end of the medieval period.

Chapter by chapter, this volume nonetheless demonstrates the manifold beliefs, practices, institutions, and images that conveyed and enforced difference for the benefit of particular groups and to the detriment of others. Addressing the varying historiographical self-consciousness concerning race among medievalist scholars themselves, the separate analyses make use of paradigms drawn from social and political history, religious, environmental, literary, ethnic, and gender studies, the history of art, and of science and critical race theory. Chapters identify the eruption of racial discourses aroused by political or religious polemic centered upon conversion within and among Jewish, Christian, and Islamic communions and inspired by imagined or sustained contact with alien peoples. Authors draw their evidence from Hebrew, Latin, Arabic, and a profusion of European vernaculars and provide searching examinations of visual artefacts ranging from religious service books to maps, mosaics, and manuscript illuminations.
