Natural History Of Stanley Park:

The Natural History of Stanley Park Angela Chen, Valentin Schaefer, Vancouver Natural History Society, 1988

Inventing Stanley Park : an Environmental History, 2017 In early December 2006 a powerful windstorm ripped through Vancouver's Stanley Park. The storm transformed the city's most treasured landmark into a tangle of splintered trees and shattered a decades old vision of the park as timeless virgin wilderness. In Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj traces how this tension between popular expectations of idealized nature and the volatility of complex ecosystems helped shape the landscape of one of the world's most famous urban parks. This beautifully illustrated book not only depicts the natural and cultural forces that shaped the park's landscape it also examines the roots of our complex relationship with nature.

Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj, 2013-05-15 In early December 2006 a powerful windstorm ripped through Vancouver's Stanley Park. The storm transformed the city's most treasured landmark into a tangle of splintered trees and shattered a decades old vision of the park as timeless virgin wilderness. In Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj traces how the tension between popular expectations of idealized nature and the volatility of complex ecosystems helped transform the landscape of one of the world's most famous urban parks. This beautifully illustrated book not only depicts the natural and cultural forces that shaped the park's landscape it also examines the roots of our complex relationship with nature. Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj, 2013 In the early hours of 15 December 2006 a powerful windstorm ripped through Vancouver. The city's residents awoke to discover Stanley Park their most treasured landmark transformed into a tangle of splintered fallen trees. Their anguish revealed more than just an attachment to their memories of the park it marked the end of a romanticized vision of timeless natural space. In Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj traces how this tension between popular expectations of idealized wilderness and the volatility of complex ecosystems helped shape one of the world's most famous urban parks. Using an environmental history approach Kheraj not only describes the natural and cultural forces that moulded the park's landscape he also reveals the roots of our complex relationship with nature. Released to coincide with Stanley Park's 125th anniversary this book offers a revealing meditation on the interrelationship between nature, culture, parks policy and public memory. Sean Kheraj is an assistant professor in the Department of History at York University. Legacy of Trees Nina Shoroplova, 2020-06-09 An engaging informative and visually stunning tour of the numerous native introduced and ornamental tree species found in Vancouver's Stanley Park combining a wealth of botanical knowledge with a fascinating social history of the city's most celebrated landmark. Measuring 405 hectares 1 001 acres in the heart of downtown Vancouver Stanley Park is home to more than 180 000 trees. Ranging from centuries old Douglas firs to ornamental Japanese cherry trees the trees of Stanley Park have come to symbolize the ancient roots and diverse nature of the city itself. For years Nina Shoroplova has wandered through Vancouver's urban forest and marvelled at the multitude of tree species that flourish there. In Legacy of Trees Shoroplova tours Stanley Park's seawall and beaches wetlands and trails pathways and lawns in every season and every type of weather revealing the history and botanical properties of each tree species Unlike many urban parks which are entirely cultivated the area now called Stanley Park was an ancient forest before Canada's third largest city grew around it Tracing the park's Indigenous roots through its colonial history to its present incarnation as the jewel of Vancouver visited by eight million locals and tourists annually Legacy of Trees is a beautiful tribute to the trees that shape Stanley Park's evolving narrative The History of the County Palatine and Duchy of Lancaster Edward Baines, 1893

Undressed Toronto Dale Barbour, 2021-10-01 Undressed Toronto looks at the life of the swimming hole and considers how Toronto turned boys skinny dipping into comforting anti-modernist folk figures By digging into the vibrant social life of these spaces Barbour challenges narratives that pollution and industrialization in the nineteenth century destroyed the relationship between Torontonians and their rivers and waterfront Instead we find that these areas were co-opted and transformed into recreation spaces often with the acceptance of indulgent city officials While we take the beach for granted today it was a novel form of public space in the nineteenth century and Torontonians had to decide how it would work in their city To create a public beach bathing needed to be transformed from the predominantly nude male privilege that it had been in the mid-nineteenth century into an activity that women and men could participate in together That transformation required negotiating and establishing rules for how people would dress and behave when they bathed and setting aside or creating distinct environments for bathing Undressed Toronto challenges assumptions about class the urban environment and the presentation of the naked body It explores anxieties about modernity and masculinity and the weight of nostalgia in public perceptions and municipal regulation of public bathing in five Toronto environments that showcase distinct moments in the transition from vernacular bathing to the public beach the city's central waterfront Toronto Island the Don River the Humber River and Sunnyside Beach on Toronto's western shoreline Urban Cascadia and the Pursuit of Environmental Justice Nik Janos, Corina McKendry, 2021-10-26 How histories of environmental inequalities and settler colonialism undercut a famously green region In Portland's harbor environmental justice groups challenge the EPA for a more thorough cleanup of the Willamette River Near Olympia the Puyallup assert their tribal sovereignty and treaty rights to fish Seattle housing activists demand that Amazon pay to address the affordability crisis it helped create Urban Cascadia the infrastructure social networks built environments and non-human animals and plants that are interconnected in the increasingly urbanized bioregion that surrounds Portland Seattle and Vancouver enjoys a reputation for progressive ambitions and forward thinking green urbanism Yet legacies of settler colonialism and environmental inequalities contradict these ambitions even as people strive to achieve those progressive ideals In this edited volume historians geographers urbanists and other scholars critically examine these contradictions to better understand the capitalist urbanization of nature the creation of social and environmental inequalities and the movements to fight for social and environmental justice Neither a story of green disillusion nor one of green boosterism Urban Cascadia and the Pursuit of Environmental Justice reveals how the region can address broader issues of environmental justice Indigenous sovereignty and the politics of environmental change

Philip Timms' Vancouver Fred Thirkell, Philip T. Timms, Bob Scullion, 2006 In Philip Timms Vancouver the city's golden age has been captured with spirit and style by one of British Columbia's foremost photographers Philip Timms was a man of many accomplishments but one of the most notable was his photographic record of Vancouver and the Lower Mainland created between 1900 and 1910 As Vancouver evolved from a colonial outpost to a modern centre of industry and tourism Timms sought to preserve views of the maturing city and its people from landmark buildings to street scenes to children and families James B Stanton a former curator of history at the Vancouver Museum wrote All of Timms photographs have a certain recognizable quality about them much of the kindness and gentleness of the man himself comes through His shots are candid and uncluttered and capture dramatically the feeling and mood of the time Fortunately Vancouver's adolescence coincided with the golden age of postcards when billions of them were being sent exchanged and hoarded all over the world By 1910 numerous photographers were producing postcards in the Vancouver area but Philip Timms stood well above the others This sampling of Timms best work is full of life people in action on the streets in the parks on the waterfront and on ships
