the process of repairing human damage to ecosystems It involves reintroducing missing plants and animals rebuilding soils eliminating hazardous substances ripping up roads and returning natural processes such as fire and flooding to places that thrive on their regular occurrence Thousands of restoration projects take place in North America every year In Nature by Design Eric Higgs argues that profound philosophical and cultural shifts accompany these projects He explores the ethical and philosophical bases of restoration and the question of what constitutes good ecological restoration Higgs explains how and why the restoration movement came about where it fits into the array of approaches to human relationships with the land and how it might be used to secure a sustainable future Some environmental philosophers and activists worry that restoration will dilute preservation and conservation efforts and lead to an even deeper technological attitude toward nature They ask whether even well conceived restoration projects are in fact just expressions of human will Higgs prefaces his responses to such concerns by distinguishing among several types of ecological restoration He also describes a growing gulf between professionals and amateurs Higgs finds much merit in criticism about technological restoration projects which can cause more damage than they undo These projects often ignore the fact that changing one thing in a complex system can change the whole system For restoration projects to be successful Higgs argues people at the community level must be engaged These focal restorations bring communities together helping volunteers develop a dedication to place and encouraging democracy

Edmund Zavitz 1875 1968 rescued Ontario from the ravages of increasingly more powerful floods erosion and deadly fires Wastelands were talking over many hectares of once flourishing farmlands and towns Sites like the Oak Ridges Moraine were well on their way to becoming a dust bowl and all because of extensive deforestation Zavitz held the positions of chief forester of Ontario deputy minister of forests and director of reforestation His first pilot reforestation project was in 1905 and since then Zavitz has educated the public and politicians about the need to protect Ontario forests By the mid 1940s conservation authorities provincial nurseries forestry stations and bylaws protecting trees were in place Land was being restored Just a month before his death the one billionth tree was planted by Premier John Robarts Some two billion more would follow As a result of Zavitz s work the Niagara Escarpment once a wasteland is now a UNESCO World Biosphere Recognition of the ongoing need to plant trees to protect our future continues as the legacy of Edmund Zavitz

The Nature of Empires and the Empires of Nature Karl S. Hele, 2013-09-28 Drawing on themes from John MacKenzie s Empires of Nature and the Nature of Empires 1997 this book explores from Indigenous or Indigenous influenced perspectives the power of nature and the attempts by empires United States Canada and Britain to control it It also examines contemporary threats to First Nations communities from ongoing political environmental and social issues and the efforts to confront and eliminate these threats to peoples and the environment It becomes apparent that empire despite its manifestations of power cannot control or discipline humans and nature Essays suggest new ways of looking at the Great Lakes watershed and the peoples and empires contained within it

Non-native Species and Their Role in the Environment Radu Cornel Guiaşu, 2016-08-01 The young field of invasion biology initially a branch of ecology and conservation biology has greatly expanded particularly in the last two and a half decades or so As a result the potential negative effects of introduced species have been widely advertised and sometimes perhaps overemphasized This book attempts to restore some balance to the current debate over the role of non native species by offering a broader perspective and taking a longer term evolutionary look at these species and their impact in their new environments The relatively arbitrary nature of terms such as native and non native and the rather inconsistent ways in which such terms are applied to biological species as well as the subjective boundaries of so called native ranges are analyzed The role of non native species in their new environments can be considerably more complex than the anti introduced species information would often suggest Thus the more positive and nuanced perspective on introduced species and their impact offered in this book is much needed and long overdue
