The Righting of Passage A. David Napier,2004-04-19 Today much theory in the social sciences assumes that the acceptance of experience as inevitably unruly means that it is characterized by constant change and even by chaos In such a world we are told the unordered qualities of daily living create so much uncertainty that identity itself becomes unstable But this view David Napier argues begs a fundamental question if contemporary life is as flexible and unstructured as for example postmodernists maintain and we in turn are products of such a world how might any of us order our thinking enough to recognize what is meaningful in life let alone describe our experiences in ways that might have meaning for others If we are truly the products of modernity Napier says we must either accept our inability to structure and shape our own sensations or alternately argue for some form of humanism that sees a struggling existential self living unsettled within its unstructured environment Were either circumstance universally the case the world would of course be a rather different place for there would be no shared literature called postmodern and there would be no one to dissect such experience for us no authors with coherent identities no theories that could be communicated no books bought or read no university departments dedicated to the industry of chaos In short there would be no ordered space for interpersonal understanding in such a world This is the premise that informs The Righting of Passage In this challenging book Napier offers a novel argument that accounts for diffuse and flexible notions of the self while also illustrating how a coherent communicating self persists amid such apparent instability This he does by arguing something entirely counterintuitive to both modernist and postmodernist positions namely that modernity s increasing separation of embodiment from meaning not only slows down human transformation but attenuates human growth by encouraging us to perceive risk as largely pathological Today the combined forces of stress management depth psychology therapeutic writing dislocated meaning and of institutional conformity work together to produce a reduction not a proliferation of change in human life Transformations of the Inner Self in Ancient Religions Jan Assmann, Guy Stroumsa, 2018-11-13 This collection of papers from two workshops held in Heidelberg Germany in July 1996 and Jerusalem Israel in October 1997 is concerned with anthropological rather than theological aspects of the Near Eastern and Mediterranean religions ranging from the primary religions of the archaic period and their complex developments in Egypt and Mesopotamia to the soteriological movements and secondary religions that emerged in Late Antiquity The first part of the book focuses on Confession and Conversion while the second part is devoted to the topic of Guilt Sin and Rituals of Purification The primary purpose of this volume is to convey a sense of the dynamics and dialectical relationships between the various Near Eastern and Mediterranean religions from the archaic period to Late Engaging Evil William C. Olsen, Thomas J. Csordas, 2019-05-03 Anthropologists have expressed wariness about Antiquity the concept of evil even in discussions of morality and ethics in part because the concept carries its own cultural baggage and theological implications in Euro American societies Addressing the problem of evil as a distinctly human phenomenon and a category of ethnographic analysis this volume shows the usefulness of engaging evil as a descriptor of empirical reality where concepts such as violence criminality and hatred fall short of capturing the darkest side of human existence Focus On: 100 Most Popular English Emigrants to the United States Wikipedia contributors, Cultic and Further Orders: Semiotics of a Kabbalistic Culture Maurizio Mottolese, 2022-01-31 This book starts from the assumption that semiotics of culture and social anthropological studies can offer useful tools to understand large segments and lasting aspects of the kabbalistic tradition It attempts to study from this perspective the Sephardi Kabbalah by examining 16th century emblematic commentaries that collect rearrange and carry on the earlier kabbalistic interpretation of the rabbinic ritual system In this unusual light much kabbalistic culture appears as an ongoing semiotic intensification of deep structures governing the discourse and practice of the Jews so that for instance institutional cultic orders are integrated by other forms of order in imagination thought writing and experience Ritual in Its Own Right Don Handelman, Galina Lindquist, 2005 First

The description is presented in a clear style in a framework that will be comprehensible to all linguists and linguistically oriented anthropologists Belonging in Shimla, North India Jonathan Miles-Watson, 2020-10-01 This book explores the material religion of contemporary Shimla a vibrant postcolonial city famed for its colonial heritage set against the backdrop of the North Western Himalayas Jonathan Miles Watson demonstrates that this landscape is able to peacefully reconcile the apparent tensions of faith heritage and identity in a way that unseats traditional theories of religion politics and heritage It presents a mystery that is written in space through time the key to unlocking this mystery lies in clear view at the city's heart in the contemporary material religion that surrounds nominally Christian sacred sites Although the material religion centres on landscapes that are identifiable as Christian the book demonstrates that Hindus atheists and Sikhs all have a role to play in the mutually constitutive relations that lie at the centre of these knots of sacred entanglement This book builds upon over a decade of research to present an ethnographic account of devotional practices that speaks to contemporary developments in both the anthropology of Christianity and material religion Through this exploration the book answers the mystery of Shimla s postcolonial harmony while complicating established theories in the anthropology of religion postcolonial studies mythography heritage studies and material culture Strength Beyond Structure Mirjam De Bruijn, Rijk Van Dijk, Jan Bart Gewald, 2007 Drawing on a wide range of historical and anthropological case studies from various parts of Africa this anthology provides an understanding of the importance of agency in processes of social transformation especially in the context of crisis and structural constraint Rethinking Relation-Substance Dualism Aurélie Névot, 2024-01-16 This book analyses anthropological debates on relationism referring to methodological and theoretical issues and sets out to reconsider these discussions with regards to the notion of substance generally associated with the body Reflecting on the philosophical origins and implications of these two concepts the author aims to bring them to the heart of contemporary anthropological discourse and addresses the erasure or blurring of substance in favour of relation The argument put forward is that the conceptual pairing of substance relation should be substituted for the nature culture dualism that has been dominant in structural anthropology The chapters engage with the work of scholars such as Philippe Descola Eduardo Viveiros de Castro and Wang Mingming as part of a decentring and questioning of the tradition in which anthropology is rooted The book also considers the role that the anthropology of China plays in the re-evaluation of the relationship between relation and substance The concept of submutance is introduced with Chinese ethnographic material to explore the possibility of moving beyond the relation substance dualism of Western heritage This is valuable reading for scholars interested in the theory and history of anthropology Art Effects Carlos Fausto, 2020-08 In Art Effects Brazilian anthropologist Carlos Fausto explores the agency of indigenous artifacts and images in order to offer a new understanding of the pragmatics and ontology of ritual contexts Cattle Poetics Jean-Baptiste Eczet, 2021-09-17 Loving cows then killing them The relation with cattle in Mursi country is shaped by the dichotomy between the value given to it during life and the death imposed upon it The killing of cattle may be brief and inflicted with few words but it is preceded by a series of intense aesthetic practices such as body painting and adornments colour poetics poems and oratory art This book investigates the link between the nurturing and killing of cattle with Mursi daily life and finds that these rituals cut across pastoralism social organisation and politics in forming the very fabric of Mursi society
