Myth and Masculinity in the Japanese Cinema Isolde Standish, 2013-11-05 This study argues that in Japanese popular cinema the tragic hero narrative is an archetypal plot structure upon which male genres such as the war retro and yakuza films are based Two central questions in relation to these post war Japanese film genres and historical consciousness are addressed What is the relationship between history myth and memory And how are individual subjectivities defined in relation to the past The book examines the role of the tragic hero narrative as a figurative structure through which the Japanese people could interpret the events of World War II and defeat offering spectators an avenue of exculpation from a foreign imposed sense of guilt Also considered is the fantasy world of the nagare mono drifter or yakuza film It is suggested that one of the reasons for the great popularity of these films in the 1960s and 1970s lay in their ability to offer men meanings that could help them understand the contradictions between the reality of their everyday experiences and the ideological construction of masculinity Feminism, Film, Fascism

Susan E. Linville, 2010-01-01 German society's inability and or refusal to come to terms with its Nazi past has been analyzed in many cultural works including the well known books Society without the Father and The Inability to Mourn In this pathfinding study Susan Linville challenges the accepted wisdom of these books by focusing on a cultural realm in which mourning for the Nazi past and opposing the patriarchal and authoritarian nature of postwar German culture are central concerns namely women's feminist auto biographical films of the 1970s and 1980s After a broad survey of feminist theory Linville analyzes five important films that reflect back on the Third Reich through the experiences of women of different ages Marianne Rosenbaum's Peppermint Peace Helma Sanders-Brahms's Germany Pale Mother Jutta Brückner's Hunger Years Margarethe von Trotta's Marianne and Juliane and Jeanine Meerapfel's Malou By juxtaposing these films with the accepted theories on German culture Linville offers a fresh appraisal not only of the films importance but especially of their challenge to misogynist interpretations of the German failure to grieve for the horrors of its Nazi past Representing the "good

German" in Literature and Culture After 1945 Pól Ó Dochartaigh, Christiane Schönfeld, 2013 Essays analyzing postwar literary cultural and historical representations of good Germans during the Second World War and the Nazi period In the aftermath of the Second World War both the allied occupying powers and the nascent German authorities sought Germans whose record during the war and the Nazi period could serve as a counterpoint to the notion of Germans as evil That search has never really stopped In the past few years we have witnessed a burgeoning of cultural representations of this other kind of Third Reich citizen the good German as opposed to the committed Nazi or genocidal maniac Such representations have highlighted individuals choices in favor of dissenting behavior moral truth or at the very least civil disobedience The good German's counterhegemonic practice cannot negate or contradict the barbaric reality of Hitler's Germany but reflects a value system based on humanity and an other ideal community This volume of new essays explores postwar and recent representations of good Germans during the Third Reich analyzing the logic of moral behavior cultural and moral relativism and social conformity found in them It thus draws together discussions of the function and reception of Good Germans in Germany and abroad Contributors Eoin Bourke Manuel Bragança Maeve Cooke Kevin De Ornellas Sabine Egger Joachim Fischer Coman Hamilton Jon Hughes Karina von Lindeiner Strösky Alexandra Ludwig Pól Ó Dochartaigh Christiane Schönfeld Matthias Uecker Pól Ó Dochartaigh is Professor of German and Dean of the Faculty of Arts at the University of Ulster Northern Ireland Christiane Schönfeld is Senior Lecturer in German and Head of the Department of German Studies at Mary

Immaculate College University of Limerick Camp Fabio Cleto,1999 The complete guide to c an anthology of the best writing on its history and current theory in cultural studies and lesbian and gay studies "Getting History Right" Mark Wolfgram,2011 How do individuals societies and nations deal with their difficult pasts Getting History Right examines this question in a comparative context by looking at an authoritarian East Germany and a pluralistic democratic West Germany Eschewing a narrow focus on elites this work draws extensively on societal level discussions of the past in popular culture such as film television radio and newspapers It examines how societal level discussions of the past shaped individual perceptions and interpretations of the past and how individual perceptions and struggles over the meaning of the past shaped societal level discussions These struggles over meaning and getting history right are not only shaped by political power but are also a source of symbolic power To understand political life scholars must embrace not only material political power but also the symbolic and cultural roots of power The research presented here makes extensive use of public opinion data cinema attendance and television viewer data as well as other sources to look at the multiple meanings that East and West Germans assigned to the Holocaust and World War II across time Rather than culture merely being an extension of political power this work argues that culture and the boundaries of the cultural matrix shape the use of political power by different social actors Getting history right is not only a reflection of political power it is a source of power itself Lethal Repetition Richard Dyer,2019-07-25 Serial killing is an extremely rare phenomenon in reality that is none theless remarkably widespread in the cultural imagination Moreover despite its rarity it is also taken to be an expression of characteristic aspects of humanity masculinity or our times Richard Dyer investigates this paradox focusing on the notion at its heart seriality He considers the aesthetics of the repetition of nastiness and how this relates to the perceptions and anxieties that images of serial killing highlight in the societies that produce them Shifting the focus away from the US which is often seen as the home of the serial killer Lethal Repetition instead examines serial killing in European culture and cinema ranging from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean and from Britain to Romania Spanning all brows of cinema including avant garde art mainstream and trash Dyer provides case studies on Jack the Ripper the equation of Nazism with serial killing and the Italian giallo film to explore what this marginal and uncommon crime is being made to mean on European screens Projecting the Holocaust into the Present Lawrence Baron,2005-11-01 Most Holocaust scholars and survivors contend that the event was so catastrophic and unprecedented that it defies authentic representation in feature films Yet it is precisely the extremity of the Final Solution and the issues it raised that have fueled the cinematic imagination since the end of World War II Recognizing that movies reach a greater audience than eyewitness historical or literary accounts Lawrence Baron argues that they mirror changing public perceptions of the Holocaust over time and place After tracing the evolution of the most commonly employed genres and themes in earlier Holocaust motion pictures he focuses on how films from the 1990s made the Holocaust relevant for contemporary audiences While genres like biographical films and love stories about doomed Jewish Gentile couples remained popular they now cast Jews or non Jewish victims like homosexuals in lead roles more often than was the case in the past Baron attributes the recent proliferation of Holocaust comedies and children s movies to the search for more figurative and age appropriate genres for conveying the significance of the Holocaust to generations born after it happened He contends that thematic shifts to stories about neo Nazis rescuers survivors and their children constitute an expression of the continuing impact the Holocaust exerts on the present The book concludes with a survey of recent films like Nowhere in Africa and The Pianist

Interrogating Trauma Mick Broderick, Antonio Traverso, 2013-09-27 Throughout the past century traumatic experiences have been re enacted frequently by evolving media and art forms Now there is a significant body of theory across academic disciplines focused on the representation of cataclysmic European and US historical events However less critical attention has been devoted to the representation of havoc outside the West even though depictions of Third World disasters saturate contemporary media and art around the globe This book considers traumatic histories internationally in a broad range of creative arts and visual media representations Deploying diverse applications of the conventional theories of trauma it examines the theoretical limitations at the same time as considering alternative methodologies Interrogating Trauma is concerned with the examination of the concept of trauma and how it is often unproblematically used to theorise the cultural representation of disaster and atrocity It offers a theorisation of trauma in order to reappraise the relationship between cultural representation and the socio historical processes which are marked by violence conflict and suffering This book was published as a special issue of Continuum Journal of Media and Cultural
