Policing Canadian Society:

Policing Canadian Society Dennis Forcese, 1998 Appropriate as the main text for level 200 300 Sociology of Policing courses or as a supplementary text in criminal justice courses The author provides a general description illustration and commentary on policing throughout Canada The types of issues covered include police recruitment and training police accountability use of force and misconduct policing and the media unions and police community relations Urban Policing in Canada Maurice A. Martin, 1995 A retired Canadian Forces officer and former executive of the Canadian Police College argues that it s time to rethink the functions of urban policing in light of ongoing transformations in society as more people live in cities and crime rates rise He examines the status of the occupation of police officer analyzes the occupation s competence to achieve its capacities and assesses its professional attributes Finally he makes a case for the professionalization of Canada s urban police Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Police Dennis Forcese, 2000-11 These essays address issues like police regionalization the role of police unions the use of police tactical units and the role of women in policing Police Powers in Canada University of Alberta. Centre for Constitutional Studies, 1994-01-01 The television spectacles of Oka and the Rodney King affair served to focus public disaffection with the police a disaffection that has been growing for several years In Canada confidence in the police is at an all time low At the same time crime rates continue to rise Canada now has the dubious distinction of having the second highest crime rate in the Western world How did this state of affairs come about What do we want from our police How do we achieve policing that is consistent with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms The essays in this volume set out to explore these questions In their introduction the editors point out that constitutional order is tied to the exercise of power by law enforcement agencies and that if relations between the police and civil society continue to erode the exercise of force will rise a dangerous prospect for democratic societies The Wicked Problems of Police Reform in Canada Laura Huey, Lorna Ferguson, Jennifer L. Schulenberg, 2022-08-12 This book looks at police reform in Canada arguing that no significant and sustainable reform can occur until steps are taken to answer the question of What exactly do we want police to do Adding challenge to this is that setting boundaries on what we expect the police to do requires grappling with the complex social problems we ask them to resolve In public policy language these are wicked problems social or cultural issues frequently seen as intractable Authors Huey Ferguson and Schulenberg all policing scholars draw on a unique collection of data to explore these issues over 20 years of research 2000 2021 ranging from in depth interviews surveys and field observations to document analysis and systematic social observation Pooling this data generates a national level picture of changes in the policing operational environment over these decades This book focuses on four particular wicked problems mental health substance misuse homelessness missing persons with causes and potential preventative treatments that lie primarily outside the criminal justice system and yet continue to be treated as policing problems Bringing about changes in public policing requires changes in public policy and these are precisely the types of wicked problems that need innovative policy solutions This book is suitable for a wide range of audiences within and outside Canada including law enforcement and community leaders scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing students of criminal justice organizations and management and citizen consumers of information about policing

Policing in Israel Tal Jonathan-Zamir, David Weisburd, Badi Hasisi, 2015-10-05 It is hoped that through this series it will be possible to accelerate the process of building knowledge about policing and help bridge the gap between the two worlds the world of police research and police practice This is an invitation to police scholars and practitioners across the world to come and join in this venture Dilip K Das PhD

The Mounted Police and Prairie Society, 1873-1919 University of Regina. Canadian Plains Research Center, 1998 This collection of essays presents a variety of scholarly explorations of the nature and role of the Mounties in the Prairie Provinces from the formation of the North West Mounted Police in 1873 74 to its transformation into the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in 1919 20 The essays are grouped into five broad themes relations with First Nations law enforcement social issues including relations with minority groups and labour movements characteristics of the police force and crisis and change police immigrant relations response to labour unrest and the origins of domestic intelligence and counter subversion An epilogue presents the case for the dramatic change of the force after 1919 20 and the new force's use of the positive image created by the old force

The Canadian Criminal Justice System Nick Larsen, 1995 The administration of justice is an area of social policy that defies attempts to achieve a balance between order and the protection of the public and respect for individual rights The media contain daily accounts of the failure of the criminal justice system to repress crime It is within this social and legal context that this work is situated In addition to including a range of articles in the standard areas of policing courts and corrections recent articles deal with such controversial issues as aboriginal justice the recruitment of visible minorities by Canadian police forces and the role of women in the Canadian criminal justice system The collection concludes with a critical assessment of the retributive model that currently serves as the philosophical underpinnings of the Canadian criminal justice system

The Rise of Comparative Policing Jacques de Maillard, Sebastian Roché, 2021-08-26 This book argues that policing should be studied in a truly comparative manner as a way of identifying more accurately the diverse features of police organisations and the trends which affect contemporary policing Studying policing comparatively is also a way to develop more sophisticated theories on the relations between police state and society aiming at higher degree of generalization In particular broadening the empirical basis often limited to Western countries favours the formulation of more encompassing theories The comparative analysis then is used to refine meso or macro theories on various aspects of policing The book covers the challenges of comparative research in diverse areas of policing studies with innovative tools and approaches to allow for the development of that subfield of policing It is a significant new contribution to policing studies and will be a great resource for academics researchers and advanced students of Public Policy Sociology Political Science and Law The chapters in this book were originally published in Policing and Society Policing and Minority Communities James F.
