Policing For A New South Africa:

Policing for a New South Africa Mike Brogden, Clifford D. Shearing, 2005-08-04 The state police force of South Africa has acquired massive notoriety since its formation Its officers have developed a reputation for routinely provoking violence and torturing suspects As the key bastion of apartheid it is in urgent need of change In Policing for a New South Africa Mike Brogden and Clifford Shearing evaluate the options for change They critically analyse orthodox policing ideas imported from the West and contrast them with the indigenous model of independent policing from the townships of South Africa itself Together they offer significant possibilities for the future Importantly they suggest that rather than South Africans import ideas wholesale from the West the latter countries in the light of the failures of their own police systems have much to learn from South Africa

Policing for a New South Africa Mike Brogden, Clifford D. Shearing, 2005-08-04 Brogden is an international expert on police accountability and colonial police systems see below Shearing is a member of the Police Board of South Africa

Policing Developing Democracies Mercedes S. Hinton, Tim Newburn, 2008-09-25 There are enormous challenges in establishing policing systems in young democracies Such societies typically have a host of unresolved pressing social economic and political questions that impinge on policing and the prospects for reform There are a series of hugely important questions arising in this context to do with the emergence of the new security agenda the problems of transnational crime and international terrorism the rule of law and the role of the police security services and the military This is a field that is not only of growing academic interest but is now the focus of a very significant police reform industry Development agencies and entrepreneurs are involved around the globe in attempts to establish democratic police reforms in countries with little or no history of such activity Consequently there is a growing literature in this field but as yet no single volume that brings together the central developments This book gathers together scholars from political science international relations and criminology to focus on the issues raised by policing within developing democracies examining countries in Eastern Europe Asia South America and Africa

Securing South Africa's Democracy G. Cawthra, 1997-07-16 This book examines the defence and security challenges facing the new South Africa in the context of development and nation building priorities The transformation of security policy during the transition from apartheid and since the April 1994 elections is examined Challenges facing the defence force and the police service are examined and the relationships between defence development and domestic and external security are explored in an integrated way which points to a policy framework for security in the developing world

Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS By means of a historical analysis of South Africa this book introduces a new concept police frontierism which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police policing and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research Drawing on a wealth of research this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary Focusing on cases of high density police operations public order policing and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence as well as police work and police militarization

Policing the Global South Danielle Watson, Sara N. Amin, Wendell C. Wallace, Oluwagbenga (Michael) Akinlabi, Juan Carlos Ruiz-Vásquez, 2022-11-11 Policing the Global South provides scholarship which further transnationalises and democratises ideas about policing practices and philosophies highlighting renovations in approaches to policing studies and injecting innovative perspectives into the study of policing from scholars positioned on the periphery Criminological knowledge depolarisation underscores a conscious effort by scholars from the Global South to increase intellectual knowledge focused on developing context specific responses to issues not aligned to Northern ideological positions and specific to the non Northern context Such shifts draw attention to the expanse of spaces beyond Northern centres rife with challenges unlike any specific to those experienced or conceptualised by scholars from the Global North with an applied Northern criminological lens Applying a postcolonial lens to empirical knowledge from country specific cases in former colonies in Africa Asia the Caribbean the Pacific and Latin America this book examines how policing issues not aligned to Northern ideological positions and specific to non Northern contexts are addressed The primary purpose is to share innovations in the field of policing service provision threats to security crime responses justice and international trends developed in postcolonial developing country contexts Given the aim of the book and the contributors own research on issues of policing across the globe it discusses themes including but not limited to the colonial legacies and their impact on policing how plural regulatory systems and partnerships are navigated by the police the linkages between access to justice community perceptions and police legitimacy innovations and challenges in organisational reform crime prevention and community partnerships and the expanding roles of police organisations in the Global South While each chapter presents a policing issue in a country within a specific part of the Global South the book highlights how important it is to frame responses based on contextual realities informed by an awareness of the past and present with a goal of informing the future Delivering a much needed introduction to those specialising in policing in developing countries this book is invaluable reading for academics and students of criminology criminal justice governance policy and IR as well as professionals in policing organizations across the globe

Policing and Human Rights Julia Hornberger, 2011-10-21 Policing and Human Rights analyses the implementation of human rights standards tracing them from the nodal points of their production in Geneva through the board rooms of national police management and training facilities to the streets of downtown

Johannesburg This book deals with how the unprecedented influence of human rights combined with the inability by police officers to live up to international standards has created a range of policing and human rights vernaculars hybrid discourses that have appropriated transmogrified and undercut human rights Understood as an attempt by police officers as much as by the police as a whole to recover a position from which to act and to judge these vernaculars reveal the compromised ways in which human rights are and are not implemented Tracing how in South Africa human rights have given rise to new forms of popular justice informal private policing and provisional security arrangements Policing and Human Rights delivers an important analysis of how the dissemination and implementation of human rights intersects with the post colonial and post transformation circumstances that characterise many countries in the South Community Policing Dominique Wisler,Ihekwoaba D. Onwudiwe,2009-06-10 Community oriented policing COP is the ideology and policy model espoused in the mission statements of nearly all policing forces throughout the world However the COP philosophy is interpreted differently by different countries and police forces resulting in practices that may in fact run far afield of the community based themes of partnership Challenges of Policing Democracies Dilip Das,Marenin Otwin,2012-10-12 In this text the editors analyze the diverse situations that police forces operate under and the challenges that they face in different kinds of democracies This cross cultural comparison of various systems highlights the universal observation that police are a anomaly in a democracy and explores how various influences for example large scale social violence a zeal for crime fighting and vulnerability to temptation often find police incapable of behaving in a democratic manner Challenges of Policing Democracies goes beyond just showing the similarities and differences of the policing challenges democratic societies face it also examines the responses and remedies adopted by police in various countries at different levels of democratic achievement and how every society struggles with the challenges of preserving democratic values without sacrificing the effectiveness of policing Policing Post-Conflict Cities Alice Hills,2013-07-04 How and why does order emerge after conflict What does it mean in the context of the twenty first century post colonial city From Kabul Kigali and Kinshasa to Baghdad and Basra people abandoned by the state make their own rules With security increasingly ghettoised survival becomes a matter of manipulation and hustling In this book Alice Hills discusses the interface between order and security While analysts and donors emphasise security Hills argues that order is much more meaningful for people s lives Focusing on the police as both providers of order and a measure of its success the book shows that order depends more on what has gone before than on reconstruction efforts and that tension is inevitable as donors attempt to reform brutal local policing Policing Post Conflict Cities provides a powerful critique of the failure of liberal orthodoxy to understand the meaning of order Community Policing and Peacekeeping Peter Grabosky,2009-06-25 In modern industrial societies the demand for policing services frequently exceeds the current and foreseeable availability of public policing resources Conversely developing nations often suffer from an inability to provide a basic level of security for their citizens Community Policing and

Peacekeeping offers a fresh overview of the challenge The Handbook of Law and Society Austin Sarat, Patricia Ewick, 2015-04-08 Bringing a timely synthesis to the field The Handbook of Law and Society presents a comprehensive overview of key research findings theoretical developments and methodological controversies in the field of law and society Provides illuminating insights into societal issues that pose ongoing real world legal problems Offers accessible succinct overviews with in depth coverage of each topic including its evolution current state and directions for future research Addresses a wide range of emergent topics in law and society and revisits perennial questions about law in a global world including the widening gap between codified laws and law in action problems in the implementation of legal decisions law s constitutive role in shaping society the importance of law in everyday life ways legal institutions both embrace and resist change the impact of new media and technologies on law intersections of law and identity law s relationship to social consensus and conflict and many more Features contributions from 38 international expert scholars working in diverse fields at the intersections of legal studies and social sciences Unique in its contributions to this rapidly expanding and important new multi disciplinary field of study Policing Change, Changing Police Otwin Marenin, 2018-10-24 First published in 1996 In keeping with the other volumes in the Current Issues in Criminal justice series this anthology is a prime example of joining readability and scholarship Editor Otwin Marenin has thoughtfully commissioned and compiled an excellent group of essays on the role of police in changing societies by a very knowledgeable group of scholars Moreover Marenin has added substantially to the collection through his own insightful contributions Enhancing Police Service Delivery James F. Albrecht, Garth den Heyer, 2021-02-16 Contemporary police service delivery and performance are complex phenomena Law enforcement particularly at the local level must therefore face the additional challenges of globalization cybercrime counter terrorism and calls for reform at a time when extreme budgetary constraints are being implemented Policing operations encompass multiple critical tasks and responsibilities not routinely measured and evaluated such as response to incidents involving medical assistance homelessness mental illness community engagement and neighborhood problem solving endeavors This volume aims to provide government criminal justice and policing administrators policy makers and criminal justice scholars and researchers with comprehensive analyses of the critical issues impacting the challenges inherent in providing effectual public safety security and service all from a global perspective It takes into account popular criticism extreme budgetary constraints and the relatively novel and overwhelming challenges of terrorism and cybercrime The book merges study and practice to identify avenues to best serve community interests ensure organizational success and enhance public confidence in policing and in rule of law Police Integrity in South Africa Sanja Kutnjak Ivkovich, Adri Sauerma, 2020-04-29 Policing in South Africa has gained notoriety through its extensive history of oppressive law enforcement In 1994 as the country s apartheid system was replaced with a democratic order the new government faced the significant challenge of transforming the South African police force into a democratic police agency the South African Police Service SAPS that would provide unbiased policing to all the country's people. More than two decades since the initiation of the reforms, it appears that the SAPS has rapidly developed a reputation as a police agency beset by challenges to its integrity. This book offers a unique perspective by providing in-depth analyses of police integrity in South Africa. It is a case study that systematically and empirically explores the contours of police integrity in a young democracy. Using the organizational theory of police integrity, the book analyzes the complex set of historical, legal, political, social, and economic circumstances shaping police integrity. A discussion of the theoretical framework is accompanied by the results of a nationwide survey of nearly 900 SAPS officers probing their familiarity with official rules, their expectations of discipline within the SAPS, and their willingness to report misconduct. The book also examines the influence of the respondents' race, gender, and supervisory status on police integrity. Written in a clear and direct style, this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, policing, sociology, political science, as well as to police administrators interested in expanding their knowledge about police integrity and enhancing it in their organizations.

Democracy, Society and the Governance of Security Jennifer Wood, Benoît Dupont, 2006-02-23. The promotion of security is no longer a state monopoly. It is dispersed and takes place through the practices of states, corporations, non-governmental actors, and community-based organizations. But what do we know about the ways in which security is thought about and promoted in this pluralized field of delivery? Are democratic values being advanced and protected or threatened and compromised? Wood and Dupont bring together a team of renowned scholars to shed light on our understanding of the arrangements for contemporary security governance. Offering a friendly dialogue between those who argue that democratic transformation rests in the development of strong state institutions and those who propose a more de-centered agenda, the scholars in this volume bring cutting-edge theoretical analyses to bear on empirical examples. This volume will appeal to researchers in the fields of criminology, political science, sociology, and security studies.

Plural Policing Trevor Jones, Tim Newburn, 2006. Policing is changing rapidly and radically. A growing body of research is concerned with the development of plural policing provided by a range of public, private, and municipal bodies. This book will provide the most up-to-date work of reference for scholars in this field.

Urbanization, Policing, and Security Gary Cordner, Dilip K. Das, AnnMarie Cordner, 2009-12-16. In terms of raw numbers, the amount of world urban dwellers has increased four-fold, skyrocketing from 740 million in 1950 to almost 3.3 billion in 2007. This ongoing urbanization will continue to create major security challenges in most countries. Based on contributions from academics and practitioners from countries as diverse as Nigeria, Pakistan, and South Africa, this book provides a comprehensive overview of the security challenges posed by rapid urbanization.

Racism and Public Policy Y. Bangura, R. Stavenhagen, 2005-04-05. In a time when racism is on the rise as a source of conflict and social justice has been increasingly demanded by the civic society, this collection stands as a timely reminder that to ignore the racial factor in the globalization forces is as mistaken as eliminating class analysis. The essays published here supplement the literature of comparative race relations from the standpoint of the theory of institutional racism and its effect on public policies such as immigration.

citizenship security and policing Policing Marital Violence in Singapore Ganapathy Narayanan, 2008 Why have years of police reform in Singapore not produced significant changes in improving the policing of marital violence is the fundamental question raised by this volume Carefully exploring the police response to marital violence in Singapore while paying due attention to the particular culture and historical context in place the author reframes the questions about the problem of intimate violence The book goes into the ramifications for the criminal justice system particularly into the issues of policing safety and protection of victims from such violence A careful documentation of the reform process but also the resistance encountered within the police organisation especially by the rank and file police
