Policing Europe Bill Heberton, Terry Thomas, 1995-03-20 Developments in European police co operation have become sharply focused in the last few years Policing Europe critically examines the historical development of forms of co operation and their traditional justifications terrorism illegal immigration drug trafficking and other cross border crime It is argued that a full understanding of the new policing of Europe needs to take account of the linking of such justifications with the more diffuse debate around removal of border controls and free movement of people The book suggests that a new European policework is emerging and examines the implications of this phenomenon

Policing European Metropolises Elke Devroe, Adam Edwards, Paul Ponsaers, 2017-02-03 Understanding the politics of security in city regions is increasingly important for the study of contemporary policing This book argues that national and international governing arrangements are being outflanked by various transnational threats including the cross border terrorism of the attacks on Paris in 2015 and Brussels in 2016 trafficking in people narcotics and armaments cybercrime the deregulation of global financial services and environmental crime Metropolises are the focal points of the transnational networks through which policing problems are exported and imported across national borders as they provide much of the demand for illicit markets and are the principal engines generating other policing challenges including political protest and civil unrest This edited collection examines whether and how governing arrangements rooted in older systems of national sovereignty are adapting to these transnational challenges and considers problems of and for policing in city regions in the European Union and its single market Bringing together experts from across the continent Policing European Metropolises develops a sociology of urban policing in Europe and a unique methodology for comparing the experiences of different metropolises in the same country This book will be of value to police researchers in Europe and abroad as well as postgraduate students with an interest in policing and urban policy Leading Policing in Europe Bryn Caless, Steve Tong, 2016-06-01 Little is known about those at the command end of policing in Europe Over the last two years Bryn Caless and Steve Tong have had unique access to those at the top of Europe's police forces obtaining detailed comments from more than a hundred strategic police leaders in 22 countries and presenting for the first time information about how they are selected for high office how they are held to account and what their views are on current and future challenges in policing Building on research conducted in the UK this is a timely and unparalleled insight into a little known elite in the law enforcement world Policing Cooperation Across Borders Saskia Hufnagel, 2016-04-22 This book provides new insights into police cooperation from a comparative socio legal perspective It presents a broad analysis of comparable police cooperation strategies in two systems the EU and Australia The evolution of regulatory trends and cooperation models is analysed for both systems and possible transferable strategies identified Drawing on interviews with practitioners in the EU and Australia this book highlights a number of areas where the EU can be compared to a federal system and addresses the advantages and disadvantages of being a Union or a federation of states with a view to police cooperation practice Particular topics addressed are the evolution of legal frameworks regulating police cooperation informal cooperation strategies Joint Investigation Teams Europol and regional cooperation These instruments foster police cooperation but could be improved with a view to cooperation practice by learning from regulatory techniques and practitioner experiences of the respective other system Comparative Policing from a Legal Perspective Monica den Boer, Public police forces are a regular phenomenon in most jurisdictions around the world yet their highly divergent legal context draws surprisingly little attention Bringing together a wide range of police experts from all around the world this book provides an overview of traditional and emerging fields of public policing New material and findings are presented with an international comparative perspective it is a must read for students of policing security and law and professionals in related fields Policing European Metropolises Elke Devroe, Adam Edwards, Paul Ponsaers, 2017-02-03 Understanding the politics of security in city regions is increasingly important for the study of contemporary policing This book argues that national and international governing arrangements are being outflanked by various transnational threats including the cross border terrorism of the attacks on Paris in 2015 and Brussels in 2016 trafficking in people narcotics and armaments cybercrime the deregulation of global financial services and environmental crime Metropolises are the focal points of the transnational networks through which policing problems are exported and imported across national borders as they provide much of the demand for illicit markets and are the principal engines generating other policing challenges including political protest and civil unrest This edited collection examines whether and how governing arrangements rooted in older systems of national sovereignty are adapting to these transnational challenges and considers problems of and for policing in city regions in the European Union and its single market Bringing together experts from across the continent Policing European Metropolises develops a sociology of urban policing in Europe and a unique methodology for comparing the experiences of different metropolises in the same country This book will be of value to police researchers in Europe and abroad as well as postgraduate students with an interest in policing and urban policy
