Applicable Standard: PCMH Standard 5: Care Coordination and Care Transitions; Element B: Referral Tracking and Follow-Up.
Description: The Practice coordinates referrals for patients including referrals to all medical specialists, mental health and substance abuse specialists and all other services.

Policy:

It is the policy of the Practice to document and monitor all referrals using an electronic system. The patient's provider is notified of all unfilled referrals in a timely manner.

It is the policy of the Practice to document results and monitor all results or other communication from providers to whom the patient is referred. All referrals are monitored for the successful completion of the referral.

Scope:

This procedure applies to all office personnel.

Procedure:

The Practice tracks referrals to specialists, including medical, mental health, and substance abuse specialists, using an electronic reporting system. Referrals tracked are those determined by the patient's provider to be important for a patient's treatment or as indicated by evidence-based guidelines.

The Practice uses available data from Physician Compare Website, health plans and Iowa Medical Society on the performance of the clinicians and the practice before initiating a referral with the specialist. The Practice establishes an informal agreement with a subset of specialist based on this criterion.

The Practice has an agreement with two behavioral health specialists:

Dr.XXXXX and Dr. YYYYYY (locations)

The Practice tracks the following factors for referrals:

- Date of initiation of referral
- Originating provider
- Reason for the referral
- Timing of the expected receipt of the communication from the referral, or relative urgency of the referral based on the clinical circumstance. Per current protocol, the urgency is

Non-Representational Theory & Health Gavin J. Andrews, 2018-02-13 Non representational theory is an academic approach that animates the active world its taking place It shows how material sensory and affective processes combine with conscious thought and agency in the making of everyday life This book offers an agenda for health geography providing the first comprehensive overview of what a more than representational health geography looks like It outlines the basis of a new ontological understanding of health and explores the key qualities of movement space that are critical to how health emerges within the assemblages that enable it It shows how non representational events and concerns are key to human happiness and wellbeing to the experience of health and disease to activities that add to or detract from health and to health care work not to mention to the broader initiatives and operation of health institutions and health sciences This book bridges the gap between non representational theory and health research and provides the groundwork for future developments in the field It will be of interest to students researchers and professionals alike working in health geography and a range of other disciplines Cities and Social Change Ronan Paddison, Eugene McCann, 2014-06-17 This textbook of essays by leading critical urbanists is a compelling introduction to an important field of study it interrogates contemporary conflicts and contradictions inherent in the social experience of living in cities that are undergoing neoliberal restructuring and grapples with profound questions and challenging policy considerations about diversity equity and justice A stimulant to debate in any undergraduate urban studies classroom this book will inspire a new generation of urban social scholars Alison Bain York University Stages a lively encounter with different understandings of urban production and experience and does so by bringing together an exciting group of scholars working across a diversity of theoretical and geographical contexts The book focuses on some of the central conceptual and political challenges of contemporary cities including inequality and poverty justice and democracy and everyday life and urban imaginaries providing a critical platform through which to ask how we might work towards alternative forms of urban living Colin McFarlane Durham University What is the city What is the nature of living in the city This new textbook provides students with an in depth understanding of the central issues associated with the city and how living in a city impacts its inhabitants Theoretically informed and thematically rich the book is edited by leading scholars in the field and contains an eminent international cast of contributors and contributions It provides a critical analysis of the key thinkers themes and paradigms dealing with the relationship between the built environment and urban life It includes illustrative case studies questions for discussion further reading and web links Examining the contradictions conflicts and complexities of city living the book is an essential resource for students looking to get to grip with the different theoretical and substantive approaches that make up the diverse and rich study of the city and urban life Spatial Analysis in Health Geography Pavlos Kanaroglou, Eric Delmelle, 2016-03-09 Presenting current research on spatial epidemiology this book covers topics such as exposure chronic disease infectious disease accessibility to health care settings and new methods in Geographical Information Science and Systems For epidemiologists and for the management and administration of health care settings it is critical to understand the spatial dynamics of disease For instance it is crucial that hospital administrators develop an understanding of the flow of patients over time especially during an outbreak of a particular disease so they can plan for appropriate levels of staffing and to carry out adaptive prevention measures Furthermore understanding where and why a disease occurs at a certain geographic location is vital for decision makers to formulate policy to increase the accessibility to health services either by prevention or adding new facilities Spatial epidemiology relies increasingly on new methodologies such as clustering algorithms visualization and space time modelling the domain of Geographic Information Science Implementation of those techniques appears at an increasing pace in commercial Geographic Information Systems alongside more traditional techniques that are already part of such systems This book provides the latest methods in GI Science and their use in health related problems

Geographies and Moralities Roger Lee, David M. Smith, 2011-07-22 This topical book addresses contemporary concern with the interconnections between geography and morality Covers both the geographical context of morality and moralities in geographical methods and practices Contains up to date case studies based on original research Deals with controversial issues such as problems of globalization European integration human rights in Nigeria territorial conflict in Israel and land reform in post apartheid South Africa The editors are well published leading international authorities The contributors are drawn from Australia Eastern Europe Israel South Africa the UK and the US

Health and Inequality Sarah Curtis, 2004 By relating theoretical arguments to specific landscapes Sarah Curtis develops the basis for a geographical analysis of health problems and proposes a range of strategies for reducing disadvantage and societal inequalities

Long-Term Care: Matching Resources and Needs David Challis, 2018-01-18 Improving equity and efficiency in the long term care of older people is an international concern with governments attempting to ensure that policies and practice develop so that resources are used to best effect This requires good quality evidence founded on sound theory This volume honours the outstanding contribution of Bleddyn Davies to this field bringing together perspectives of scholars and practitioners from many countries including the UK Australia Hong Kong Japan Sweden and the USA Contemporary policy dilemmas are considered leavened by professional anecdote A chapter from Davies himself reflecting on the origins of the PSSRU Personal Social Services Research Unit concludes the volume that also features a full listing of his books and monographs which will prove invaluable to those seeking to engage with his contribution to the field This volume will greatly interest academics in social policy social work gerontology and social care as well as professionals in the field

Primary Health Care: People, Practice, Place Valorie A. Crooks, Gavin J. Andrews, 2016-04-08 Health care is constantly undergoing change and refinement resulting from the adoption of new practices and technologies the changing nature of societies and populations and also shifts in the very places from which care is delivered Primary Health Care People Practice Place draws together significant contributions from established experts across a variety of disciplines to focus on such changes in primary health care not only because it is the most basic and integral form of health service delivery but also because it is an area to which geographers have made significant contributions and to which other scholars have engaged in thinking geographically about its core concepts and issues Including perspectives from both consumers and producers it moves beyond geographical accounts of the context of health service provision through its explicit focus on the practice of primary health care With arguments well supported by empirical research this book will appeal not only to scholars across a range of social and health sciences but also to professionals involved in health services
