Heavy Traffic Daniel Madar, 2011-11-01 Canada and the United States exchange the world's highest level of bilateral trade valued at 1.4 billion a day Two thirds of this trade travels on trucks Heavy Traffic examines the way in which the regulatory reform of American and Canadian trucking coupled with free trade has internationalized this vital industry Before deregulation restrictive entry rules had fostered two separate national highway transportation markets and most international traffic had to be exchanged at the border When the United States deregulated first the imbalance between its opened market and Canada's still restricted one produced a surprisingly difficult bilateral dispute American deregulation was motivated by domestic incentives but the subsequent Canadian deregulation blended domestic incentives with transborder rate comparisons and concerns about trade competitiveness Daniel Madar shows that deregulation created a de facto regime of free trade in trucking services Removing regulatory barriers has enabled Canadian and American carriers to follow the expansion of transborder traffic that began with the Canada US Free Trade Agreement and continues with NAFTA The services available with deregulated trucking have also supported sweeping changes in industrial logistics As transborder traffic has surged the two countries carriers from billion dollar corporations to family firms have exploited the latitude provided by deregulation This book is a valuable contribution to our understanding of the policy processes and economic conditions that led to trucking deregulation As a study in public policy formation and the international effects of reform it will be of interest to students and scholars of political economy international relations and transportation

Responses to Governance John C. Dixon, 2003-04-30 Dixon and his colleagues provide a behaviorist perspective on governance Their concern is with the governed's responses to those who seek to govern them their governors and the counter responses that they induce from the governors They take as axiomatic that the governed are not a homogenized and amorphous them in the them/us dichotomy reduced to what Carlyle called a dead logic formula thereby for the purpose of this analysis leave begging all the relevant questions The governed are not a disembodied abstraction they are an aggregate of men and women of flesh and blood In a corporation they are corporate directors whose governors are those who own or perhaps have a stake in that corporation corporate managers whose governors are the corporate directors corporate employees whose governors are the corporate managers In a society they are individuals or groups of individuals perhaps in corporations located within its jurisdiction whose governors are the members of societal political and administrative elites At the global level they are individuals or groups of individuals in countries and corporations within the jurisdiction of international governmental organizations and international regimes whose governors are those who seek to control those global governance mechanisms Whether the governed s response to their governors processs is one of compliance or antagonism and how the governors response to any antagoism has implications for governance capacity good governance and governability A provocative study that will be of interest to students and scholars of political theory international relations and management and organizational theory as well as those who are concerned with issues of goverance at all levels corporate societal and global Strategy and Partnership in Cities and Regions NA NA,2016-04-30 Policy makers in Pittsburgh Birmingham and Rotterdam are confronted with rapidly changing social and economic environments Public and private sector organizations in the three cities are increasingly addressing regional issues strategically and are joining together in partnerships to promote competitiveness and economic growth This book covers the complexities of modern governance under such circumstances the diversity and patterning of public private partnerships and networks and the changing economic development strategies of city governments and organizations Strategy and Partnership in Cities and Regions B. Nie,2003 Civic Engagement in Food System Governance Alan R. Hunt,2015-10-05 The local food movement is one of the most active of current civil engagement social movements This work presents primary evidence from over 900 documents interviews and participant observations and provides the first descriptive history of local food movement national policy achievements in the US from 1976 to 2013 and in the UK from 1991 to 2013 together with reviews of both the American and British local food movements It provides a US UK comparative context significantly updating earlier comparisons of American British and European farm and rural policies The comparative perspective shows that over time more effective strategies for national policy change required social movement building strategies such as collaborative policy coalitions capacity building for smaller organizations and policy entrepreneurship for joining together separate rural farming food and health interests In contrast narrowly defined single issue campaigns often undermined long term policy change even if short term wins emerged By profiling interviews of American and English movement leaders policymakers and funders the book demonstrates that democratic participation in food policy is best supported when funders incentivize groups to work together and overcome their differences
