From Another Angle Margaret Himley, Patricia F. Carini, 2000-03 This volume represents the first effort to present and teach the descriptive processes philosophy and values developed at the Prospect Archives and Center for Education and Research in North Bennington Vermont Through story and essay it introduces a disciplined collaborative method for understanding children as thinkers and learners called the descriptive review of the child Developed through the Prospect Center under the leadership of Patricia F Carini the descriptive review is a mode of inquiry that draws on the rich detailed knowledge teachers and parents have of children and on their ability to describe those children in full and balanced ways so that they become visible as complex persons with particular strengths interests and capacities In an educational climate that calls increasingly for standardization this book is a timely resource for educators parents and administrators who value individual human capacity

Teaching to Learn Kim Senior, Bianca Hill, 2016-11-04 This graphic novel is about pedagogy It is not a work of fiction Rather this is a representation of the critical encounters between two teacher educators twelve pre service teachers and thirteen Year 8 and Year 9 secondary students as they consider what it means to learn to teach Situated in a government high school over a one year period high school students were asked to take on the role of mentors to a cohort of primary and secondary pre service teachers as issues of teaching learning and curriculum assessment were explored The graphic novel is drawn from actual data fragments from journals letters emails photographs drawings and field notes from an ethnographic research project The reader is brought into a classroom and acquainted with the often tangled and fragmented nature of living pedagogy In this way the discourses of identity and power practices of schooling and the wonder of praxis are made visible and open to scrutiny It brings to life stories of learning to teach and learning to learn

Teaching Politics Beyond the Book Robert W. Glover, Daniel Tagliarina, 2012-11-22 To teach political issues such as political struggle, justice, interstate conflict, etc., educators rely mostly on textbooks and lectures. However, many other forms of narrative exist that can elevate our understanding of such issues. This innovative work seeks new ways to foster learning beyond the textbook and lecture model by using creative and new media, including graphic novels, animated films, hip hop music, Twitter, and more. Discussing the opportunities these media offer to teach and engage students about politics, the work presents concrete ways on how to use them along with teaching and assessment strategies all tested in the classroom The contributors are dedicated educators from various types of institutions whose essays span a variety of political topics and examine how non traditional texts can promote critical thinking and intellectual growth among students in colleges and universities The first of its kind to discuss a wide range of alternative texts and media the book will be a valuable resource to anyone seeking to develop innovative curricula and engage their students in the study of politics
