

American Political Thought Pages 1-63

- What was the charge made against John Winthrop? What tension does he address in his response, and how does he view this tension? Tell whether this is important, and why.
- How does John Winthrop explain his authority as a magistrate and the authority of the elders? How does he explain liberty? What does he argue for, and what assumptions does he make?
 - His message was suffused with Scripture, which was the sine qua non of all of life, faith and practice.
 - Winthrop expresses his opinion regarding people's inequality. He states that, in all times, some must be rich and powerful and some - poor and mean. Winthrop agrees with God's decision to divide people into poor and rich and accepts inequality.
- Explain the title of Roger Williams' "The Bloody Tenet" and tell his main argument in this reading. Summarize in two main points the 12 basic principles that Williams outlines. How does he distinguish between state power and church power? Explain his assumptions.
 - as a response to an ongoing debate with Massachusetts Bay Colony minister, John Cotton, about the separation of church and state & toleration of all religions
 - Williams refused to follow any specific religion, although he still accepted the basic tenets of Christianity.
 - Roger Williams, through both word and action, advocated for free exercise of religion at a moment where Church and State were often indistinguishable from one another. William believed in the idea that religion was a matter of individual conscience, not to be regulated or supported by a government.
- What 3 forms of the state does John Wise describe, and what does he say about mixed governments? What does he say about the Law of Nature and its relationship to the forms of government?
- What does John Wise conclude, and has he offered a persuasive argument? Why or why not?
- How does Jonathan Mayhew interpret consent of the people? What is the basis of his argument, and what analogy does he use?
