Learning about politics and life as a citizen is part of the transition to adulthood During this stage young people in most Western democracies are introduced to political processes and issues as well as a range of political activities including voting and participation in social movements But young people make this transition differently The articles in this Book explore a range of ways that young people participate politically and also discuss those who are not active citizens The collection arose from a meeting of Australian experts in Youth Studies who came together to discuss and debate issues related to youth political participation Collectively it provides a compendium of our current state of knowledge about this topic While specific attention is directed to young people's introduction to enrolment and voting discussions include broader questions such as what does it mean to be political and what role do various social institutions play in the political learning process Articles include discussions of the legal requirements in Australia regarding enrolment and voting whether there is such a thing as a youth vote and the social psychological dimensions of youth confidence in voting Topics related to the role of the family the school the media and the internet are included Other important issues such as gender differences youth disenchantment and disadvantaged youth receive much needed attention      Civic Education and Youth Political Participation, 2009-01-01

Why does it appear that many young people are disengaging from democracy and political participation For many governments politicians academics social commentators and researchers this is a serious and challenging problem Consequently widespread interest exists on how to engage young people in politics and democracy Civic education has re-emerged as a possible answer to this question though not necessarily in the form in which it may be currently known This book examines research into issues about the engagement of young people in politics and democracy and examines research on civic education applications and programs which may address concerns about youth political participation Murray Print and Henry Milner are professors from the University of Sydney and the Universite de Montreal respectively They have brought together a group of leading researchers exploring the relationship between political participation and civic education to examine this relationship in greater depth Youth and Political Participation Glenn H. Utter, 2011-09-12 This comprehensive reference examines the history and importance of youth participation in politics suggests reasons for their disengagement and discusses efforts to increase the interest of young voters in the political process a process in which they could be a controlling factor Surveys indicate that those under the age of 30 consistently score the lowest on factual questions about politics and young people are the least likely to engage in political activity online despite being the age group most likely to use the Internet Many political researchers and activists are justifiably concerned linking the low level of political participation among American youth to the overall health of our democratic system Youth and Political Participation A Reference Handbook sheds light on this important subject identifying and discussing factors that have influenced youth political participation in the past and those that play a role today including the mass media political parties interest groups and individual attitudes toward political engagement The book also provides historical perspective by addressing the early years of the Republic the protest politics of the 1960s the campaign for the 18 year old vote and the results of the 26th Amendment granting that right Young People, Citizenship and Political Participation Mark Chou, Jean-Paul Gagnon, Catherine Hartung, Lesley J. Pruitt, 2017-03-17 Prominent studies and opinion polls often claim that young people are disengaged from political institutions distrustful of politicians and disillusioned about democracy Young People Citizenship and Political Participation challenges these political stereotypes by asking whether young people have been contributing to or rectifying our civic deficit In particular it examines the role of civics education in addressing the so called crisis of democracy Turning away from conventional suggestions often advocated by politicians and educators that offer civics education as the solution the book advances an alternate approach to civics one that acknowledges the increasingly diverse ways in which young people are both engaging and disengaging politically Youth Political Participation in Greece: A Multiple Methods Perspective Stefania Kalogeraki, Maria Kousis, 2022-10-22 The overarching aim of this edited volume is to investigate different modes patterns and determinants of youth political participation in Greece since the economic crisis by incorporating a variety of quantitative and qualitative methods The chapters examine different forms of youth political participation from institutionalized such as voting or membership in political parties to non institutionalized such as signing petitions protesting through demonstrations or occupations and political consumerism Moreover the chapters shed light on diverse aspects of youth political participation such as the interlinkages between occupational precarity and political behaviour the spatial portrait of youth political engagement in rural suburban and urban Greek contexts the engendered aspects of political involvement the pivotal role of protest events in youth political socialization and in mobilization in contentious political actions the different impacts of priming inequality on youth s political beliefs depending on different modes of thinking as well as the key features of youth related and youth led non state organisations operating in Greece The aforementioned aspects are examined at the micro meso or and macro level through distinct methodological approaches including panel survey experimental survey biographical interviews in depth interviews and action organization analysis carried out in the context of the EURYKA European Commission project

Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn,Sarah Pickard,2023-02-02 Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people s support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives

Youth political participation Tomaž Deželan,Cristina Bacalso,Anna Lodeserto,2023-01-09 Young people s participation is crucial for shaping and transforming democracies Youth political participation is taking place within a context of democratic transformation including a global decline in the state of democracy shrinking space for civil society polarisation of the political and social space economic crisis and precarity rapid digitalisation the impact of the Covid 19 pandemic and most recently war In this setting we are witnessing a lack of trust in political institutions an increasing disengagement from the political system and a decline in youth participation in institutional politics This Youth Knowledge book reminds us that while the context might be changing young people s participation is crucial for shaping and transforming democracies Moving beyond the traditional binary of conventional and nonconventional the authors ask the question How are young people engaging with democracies in transformation seeking to understand the ways in which young people are defining their own participation This volume includes eight chapters ranging from the mapping of young people s involvement in environmental justice movements and climate strikes dissent and radical kindness political participation of young refugees in Europe as well as explorations of the understanding of the concepts of liberal democracy youth voice and European citizenship as well as the importance and role of values and the context In addition to the chapters four personal essays written by young people themselves give a glimpse into the ways young people are engaging in political participation to shape their schools communities and Europe but also the broader systems on which our current politics is built Young people s political participation citizenship and relationship with democracy remain a complex topic for youth research policy and practice While this publication does not claim to answer all the questions or represent the realities of all young people across Europe it gives a glimpse into the landscape of youth engagement in a changing world highlighting realities trends and main issues

Political Engagement of the Young in Europe Peter Thijssen,Jessy Siongers,Jeroen Van Laer,Jacques Haers,Sara Mels,2015-12-14 Although many scholars are convinced of the apparent civic disengagement of youth others suggest that civic participation of young people is stable and increasingly expressed through non institutionalized forms of practicing politics This book makes a key contribution to this discussion by asking whether the decline or shift paradigm is sufficient in understanding political participation of the youth It argues that we need to move beyond this framework and develop a renewed reflection on the meaning of civic and political engagement It asks crucial questions such as How can the young be educated into assuming civic and political responsibility Why and how do young people engage in social and political action How do the principal mediating institutions education media and the family contribute to new or different forms of youth

civic engagement This text contains contributions from acknowledged specialists such as Constance Flanagan Mark Elchardus Marc Hooghe and Bert Klandermans and will be of key interest to students and scholars of youth and young citizens civic political involvement European politics youth studies sociology political participation and electoral behaviour

Youth Identity, Politics and Change in Contemporary Kurdistan Shivan Fazil, Bahar Baser, 2021-09-01 Today's youth are challenging the older political class around the world and are forming new political generations Examples from South Africa and elsewhere where peace processes were deemed to be successful show signs of youth disapproval of the current post conflict conditions Moreover the Arab Spring witnessed numerous youth movements emerge in authoritarian and illiberal contexts This book was prepared in light of these discussions and aims to contribute to these ongoing debates on youth politics by presenting the situation of youth in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq KRI as a case study It will be the first book that specifically focuses on the Iraqi Kurdish youth and their political social and economic participation in Kurdistan The contemporary history of the KRI is marked by conflict war and ethnic cleansing under Saddam Hussein and the tyranny of the Ba'ath regime significantly affecting the political situation of the Kurds in the Middle East Most of the recent academic literature has focused on the broader picture or in other words the macro politics of the Kurdish conundrum within Iraq and beyond There is little scholarship about the Kurdish population and their socio economic conditions after 2003 and almost none about the younger generation of Kurds who came of age during autonomous Kurdish rule This is a generation that unlike their forebears has no direct memory of the decades long campaigns of repression Studying and examining the rise of this generation of Kurdish young millennials Generation 2000 who came of age in the aftermath of the United States invasion of Iraq offers a unique approach to understand the dynamics in a region that underwent a substantial socio political transformation after 2003 as well as the impact of these developments on the youth population Pursuing different themes and lines of inquiry the contributors of the book analyze the challenges and opportunities for young men and women to fulfil their needs and desires and contribute to the ongoing quest for nationhood and nation building In this book our aim is to bring together a variety of perspectives from local and foreign academics who have been working on pressing issues in Kurdistan and beyond The chapters focus on an array of themes particularly including political participation political situation and change religiosity and extremism Taken together the chapters provide us with an introduction to youth politics in Kurdistan This book is just the first attempt to open academic and nonacademic debate on this subject at a time when protests around youth related issues are becoming a more prevalent method of political engagement in the region Our hope is that more research follows and supplements what has not been addressed in this book especially through the introduction of first hand youth perspectives to the core of this analysis and giving them a voice in nonviolent platforms

Youth Activism and Contentious Politics in Egypt Nadine Sika, 2017-08-24 During the Arab uprisings of late 2010 and early 2011 nine regimes throughout North Africa and the Middle East were confronted by major demonstrations and contentious events When the uprisings began in Egypt it became evident that youth movements were going to play a large part in the uprisings themselves as well as the ensuing political and social changes In this book Nadine Sika demonstrates how youth movements initiated contestation and how the regime in Egypt reacted through a display of authoritarian resilience creating opportunities threats to and constraints on the ability of youth movements to mobilize and to network On the other hand she explores how youth movement s repertoires can cause a regime to adapt upgrade or downgrade its authoritarian tools in an attempt to control co opt or disempower the movement highlighting how a regime s perception of a threat can propel it towards either defensive or offensive strategies

Youth Studies and Generations Vitor Sérgio Ferreira, 2020-03-25 There is currently much discourse about generations in the public sphere A sequence of letters conflates generations and age cohorts born in the last few decades generation X Y or Z as well as multiple categories are used to describe today s young people as a generation that is distinct from its predecessors Despite the popularity of generational labels in media politics or even academia the use of generation as a conceptual tool in youth studies has been controversial This Special Issue allows readers to better understand the key issues regarding the use of generation as a theoretical concept and or as a social category in the field of youth studies shedding light on the controversies trends and cautions that go through it

Understanding Political Involvement Among Disadvantaged Adolescents Suzanne Pritzker, 2009 Following substantial concern in recent years about youth disengagement from the political arena 2008 Presidential election data indicate that youth political participation is now on the rise However low income and some ethnic minority youth are substantially less likely to participate and to hold positive attitudes about politics and government than their wealthier and or White counterparts This suggests a possible disconnect between ethnic minority or economically disadvantaged youth and the larger U S society and may signal potential life long disassociation from civic processes Using four years of 12th grade data from Monitoring the Future A Continuing Study of American Youth this dissertation sought to assess differential impacts of economic status and racial ethnic identification on adolescent political development to inform civic interventions that seek to counter this possible disconnect Bivariate analyses tested previous findings of racial and socio economic differences in political attitudes and behaviors Confirmatory factor analyses assessed whether adolescents of different socio economic status or races ethnicities similarly interpret political attitude and behavioral measures Finally structural equation modeling analyses tested whether socio economic status or race ethnicity moderate paths between political attitudes and behaviors Results indicated that low income Black and Hispanic adolescents held more negative political attitudes and lower levels of political behavior While adolescents of different socio economic status interpreted attitudinal and behavioral items and constructs similarly important differences were identified across racial ethnic groups Specifically Black adolescents interpreted political attitudes differently than other adolescents suggesting caution in interpreting cross group analyses of adolescent attitudes and perceptions towards government Finally path analyses indicated that White adolescents and adolescents across socio economic status who are interested in government and hold political preferences and beliefs were more likely to engage in non traditional political activities while these attitudes did not predict electoral behavior For these subgroups positive views of how government acts predict electoral activity while negative views of how government behaves predict non traditional political activity These paths were not all significant for Black Hispanic and Asian adolescents however suggesting that adolescent paths between political attitudes and behaviors may operate differently across races ethnicities Implications of these findings for youth development practice future research and civic education and civic development policy are presented

Tangled Roots: Social and Psychological Factors in the Genesis of Terrorism J. Victoroff, 2006-11-14 The book is organized to assist readers in finding the topics that interest them the most What do we really know about the contributing causes of terrorism Are all forms of terrorism created equal or are there important differences in terrorisms that one must know about to customize effective counter strategies Does poverty cause terrorism Are terrorists typically crazy vengeful misled or simply making an entirely sensible choice Why would people blow themselves and others up Is the war on terrorism even a useful idea Is it being fought wisely or are much better ideas staring policy makers in the face Do leaders of targeted nations wilfully neglect the best solutions Most of the lessons in this book concern the basic human ingredients that combust to produce violent extremism Thus regardless of the mutations that occur in substate terrorism the timeless scholarship here will hopefully be somewhat helpful even to our grandchildren
