The Economics of Defence Industry Thomas-Durell Young, 2023-10-17 This book on the economics of defence industry assesses a series of historical and contemporary case studies that consistently demonstrate the need for governments to recognise and thereafter factor the financial needs of a narrow industrial sector that is capital intensive technologically advanced and that requires a highly skilled labour force Since the end of the cold war Western governments have systematically reduced financial support to their domestic defence industry and have seemingly ignored planning and funding industrial mobilisation In all cases government policy has been to encourage industries to consolidate capacity to become financially viable in a sector that has seen diminished demand The 2022 Russian invasion of Ukraine has caused Western governments to reassess their previous assumptions Efforts to increase industrial capacity have been met with the iron laws of economics whereby businesses need to show return on investments The chapters in this volume posit that efforts to rationalise industrial capacity and innovation to meet short term financial efficiencies inevitably results in limited expensive and long delays in increased production in times of international crisis This book serves as an essential guide for academics researchers and students interested in defence economics industrial economics international relations and industrial policy The chapters in this book were originally published in various issues of Defense Security Analysis

The Political Economy of Defence Ron Matthews, 2019-05-09 A contemporary and comprehensive analysis of national and supranational defence governance in an uncertain and increasingly dangerous world This book will appeal to policymakers analysts graduate students and academics interested in defence economics political economy public economics and public policy

The Economics of the Global Defence Industry Keith Hartley, Jean Belin, 2019-11-08 This book makes an original contribution to our knowledge of the world s major defence industries Experts from a wide range of different countries from the major economies of North America and Western Europe to developing economies and some unique cases such as China India Singapore South Africa and North Korea describe and analyse the structure conduct and performance of the defence industry in that country Each chapter opens with statistics on a key nation s defence spending its spending on defence R D and on procurement over the period 1980 to 2017 allowing for an analysis of industry changes following the end of the Cold War After the facts of each industry the authors describe and analyse the structure conduct and performance of the industry The analysis of structure includes discussions of entry conditions domestic monopoly oligopoly structures and opportunities for competition The section on conduct analyses price non price competition including private and state funded R D and performance incorporates profitability imports and exports together with spin offs and technical progress The conclusion explores the future prospects for each nation s defence industry Do defence industries have a future What might the future defence firm and industry look like in 50 years time This volume is a vital resource and reference for anyone interested in defence economics industrial economics international relations strategic studies and public procurement The Political Economy of Aerospace Industries Keith Hartley, 2014-11-28 Keith Hartley uses examples from most of the world's significant aerospace industries especially across the USA UK and Europe The emphasis on political economy reflects the continuing influence of government on the fortunes of the industry He presents Defence Industries in the 21st Century Çağlar Kurç, Richard A. Bitzinger, Stephanie G. Neuman, 2021-05-13 Defence Industries in the 21st Century explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors With the global defence industry and arms market likely to continue to expand and mature the ways in which this progression could influence international politics remain obscure In practice as the contents of this book show the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance This variance is the result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states One of the most important conclusions of the book is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states defence industrialisation policies as well as their success or failure While international factors create opportunities they also limit the options available to emerging economies Domestic factors also play an important role by shaping the policy choices of the states decision makers Exploring the balance between international and domestic factors and the ways in which they influence defence industrialisation in emerging states Defence Industries in the 21st Century will be of great interest to scholars of Defence Industries Arms Manufacturing and Defence Strategic and Security Studies more generally The chapters were originally published in Defence Studies Comparative Strategy and All Azimuth A Historical Phase Appreciation of Weapon Procurement Glen Segell, 1997 Handbook of Research on Military Expenditure on Economic and Political Resources Das, Ramesh Chandra, 2018-05-25 As many countries have increased their budgets to allow for newer technologies and a stronger military force defense spending has become a popular debate topic around the world As such it is vital to understand the interplay between the military expenditure and economic growth and development across countries The Handbook of Research on Military Expenditure on Economic and Political Resources is a critical scholarly publication that explores the interplay between the military expenditure and economic growth and development across countries Featuring coverage on a wide range of topics such as defense management economic growth and dynamic panel model this publication is geared towards academicians researchers and professionals seeking current research on the interplay between the military expenditure and economic growth and development across countries Essays on Civil-military Relations, Military-industrial Relations, Weapon Procurement, and International Relations Glen Segell, 1997 Handbook of the Economics and Political Economy of

Transition Paul Hare, Gerard Turley, 2013-05-02 Transition from central planning to a market economy involving large scale institutional change and reforms at all levels is often described as the greatest social science experiment in modern times. As more than two decades have passed since the fall of the Berlin Wall and the collapse of the Soviet Union, it is now an excellent time to take stock of how the transition process has turned out for the economies that have moved on from socialism and the command economy. This new handbook assembles a team of leading experts, many of whom were closely involved in the transition process as policymakers and policy advisors, to explore the major themes that have characterized the transition process. After identifying the nature of initial conditions and the strengths and weaknesses of institutions, the varying paths and reforms countries have taken are fully analyzed, from the shock therapy privatization or gradualism of the early years to the burning issues of the present, including global integration and sustainable growth. Topics covered include the socialist system, pre-transition economic reforms, institutions, the political economy of transition, performance and growth, enterprise restructuring, and people and transition. The country coverage is also extensive, from the former socialist countries of the USSR and the satellite states of Central and Eastern Europe to the Asian countries of China, Vietnam, and others. The rise of China as a key actor in the drama is chronicled, along with the emergence of a new, more confident, oil-rich Russia. The comparative prosperity of the Central European countries, such as Poland and the Czech Republic, is contrasted with the mixed fortunes of the former USSR, where some countries are stagnating while others boom. This Handbook of the Economics and Political Economy of Transition is the definitive guide to this new order of things in the former Communist world. The Modern Defense Industry Richard A. Bitzinger, 2009-10-15 Whether it's guns and ammunition or multidimensional anti-terrorism systems, the defense industry is dynamic, complex, and ubiquitous. It is also mysterious, powerful, and controversial, involving thousands of players worldwide, from suppliers and producers to government and military procurers to shadowy figures that trade in the black market. This comprehensive two-volume reference will explore, on a global scale, the various issues, concepts, problems, and controversies surrounding the rise of the modern defense industry. Unparalleled in its scope and insight, The Modern Defense Industry will prove invaluable to the industry's critics and champions alike. The phenomenon of a more or less permanent defense industry, especially one so wide in scale, breadth, air, sea, land, and space technology, and geography, is still relatively new. Until now, its implications for politics, economics, and technology have not been adequately discussed in an authoritative, accessible format for scholars and researchers, business people, journalists, policymakers, and interested laymen. The Modern Defense Industry addresses the period from 1945 to the present, covering the United States, Europe, Russia, China, Israel, and other important arms-producing and arms-procuring countries. Including essays by experts from around the world, a glossary, data on firms and governments, laws and policies, primary documents, case studies, and a host of other elements, this set will be a unique resource for anyone interested in the arms industry. It will also offer penetrating insights into topics like international relations and diplomacy, arms proliferation, and contemporary politics.

Volume I comprises chapters by experts in the field on topics like the relationship between the industry military and government how new modes of warfare are changing the industry the implications of globalization on the industry the black and gray areas of the arms trade and much more Volume II features an extensive A Z glossary of terms lists of defense firms and government agencies annotated primary documents lists of leading defense contractors and key weapons systems an analysis of key legislation and professional organizations The Modern Defense Industry sets the standard for state of the art overviews of an industry that has for better or worse come to infuse nearly every aspect of world affairs in the early twenty first century

EU Law and Military Industries Nathan Meershoek,2025-10-31 This book addresses how the EU can promote European strategic autonomy to overcome contemporary military challenges while respecting the sovereignty of its Member States At a time of rising military expenditure and growing European military cooperation the application of EU law to military procurement and EU defence spending are at the heart of debates on European integration Shortages in equipment and dependency on US military industries in the context of Russia s war against Ukraine have highlighted the need for European strategic autonomy The book considers both the regulation of military procurement and the increasing amount of EU funding instruments for military industries Providing a comprehensive overview of the EU s involvement the book critically evaluates the compatibility of this involvement with the geopolitical and constitutional context in which they exist Concluding with innovative recommendations for future proof regulation of military procurement and the embedding of EU funding therein the book will provide practical guidance to promote the evolution of European integration while preserving its constitutional foundations and values The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of EU law and politics military industries and public procurement law

Technology Offsets in International Defence Procurement Kogila Balakrishnan,2018-08-14 Technology offsets a nonconventional international trade financing tool is used by governments buyers to obtain industrial and technological benefits from companies sellers as part of international procurement Offsets deals involve billions of dollars and this practice exists in around 80 countries around the world Though offsets is a popular practice in defence it is increasingly gaining popularity in civil sectors Offsets is often tainted by controversy and receives bad press What then makes offsets popular Governments claim that offsets delivers technology and knowledge transfer skills in high technology sectors and employment and offsets expands export opportunities through participation in OEM supply chains For companies offsets is mainly employed as a tool to obtain a competitive edge and win sales in international business In the past there have been mixed results of case studies on the impact of offsets successes and failures Considering the mismanagement of globalisation unfair trade agreements and current political and economic discontent there is a stronger need for governments and companies to use vehicles such as offsets to create a relationship of trust and commitment for sustainable development This book fills the gap in offsets and focuses on how to manage offsets more effectively by addressing issues of strategy policy and implementation technology management governance and risk

Technology Offsets in International Defence Procurement is designed for those studying international procurement international trade international business technology management defence policy and industrial policy This book will also be of interest to practitioners and policy makers in both government and industry      The Politics of Procurement Aaron Plamondon, 2010-07-01 In 1993 Canada's Liberal Party cancelled an order to replace the Sea King maritime helicopter The Liberals claimed the Tory plan was too expensive but the cancellation itself actually cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars The incident drew public attention to the waste in Canada's defence spending and to the under equipped state of its military Aaron Plamondon ties the bungled attempts to replace the Sea King before and since 1993 to the evolution of the weapons procurement process in Canada since Confederation He reveals that partisan politics rather than a desire to increase the military's capabilities has driven the nation's policy makers      North Korean Reform Robert L. Carlin, Joel Wit, 2013-03-07 In the past foreign policy and security concerns have trumped any efforts to reform the North Korean economy Today the linkage between security and economic policies is being reconsidered as part of a larger debate in the North Korean leadership that has already transformed the country in fundamental ways Despite renewed tensions with the United States North Korea has begun to implement important economic reforms Moreover underneath the cover of the ever present military first slogan in the controlled media a debate is taking place between reformers and conservatives over whether Pyongyang's bloated military industrial complex should be scaled back to help ensure the success of economic reform Not only do these developments reflect strong political forces in the North Korean leadership that support reform but they could also have profound implications for the future of Pyongyang's national security policy North Korea may decide that it will need a more favourable external security environment in order to secure greater access to international economic and financial assistance for its reform measures and ultimately downsizing its military Pyongyang could launch a new policy of engagement that would include greater flexibility in the Beijing Six Party Talks A second scenario is continued internal struggle over reform that could lead to an inability to act decisively on key security and foreign policy issues including at the nuclear talks Finally progress in reform may paradoxically strengthen conservatives leading to hopes in Pyongyang that it can improve the economy while simultaneously maintaining a large powerful military Whether Washington can do anything at this point to influence directly the emerging debate in Pyongyang is unclear but a renewed policy of engagement on its part could enhance the chances of success for North Korean advocates of reform      Defence Industrial Cooperation in the European Union Daniel Fiott, 2019-03-28 This book provides an empirical understanding of how EU level defence industrial cooperation functions in practice Using the Liberal Intergovernmental theoretical model the book argues that while national economic preferences are an essential factor of government interests they only explain part of the dynamic that leads to the development of defence industrial policy at EU level Moving beyond a simple adumbration of economic preferences it shows how the EU's institutional framework and corpus of law are used by governments to reaffirm their position as the ultimate

arbiter and promoter of national economic preferences in the defence industrial sector To this end the work asks why and how EU member state governments European defence firms and EU institutions developed EU level defence industrial policy between 2003 and 2009 The book also analyses significant policy developments including the establishment of a European Defence Agency and two EU Directives on equipment transfers and defence procurement This book will be of much interest to students of EU policy defence studies security studies and International Relations in general     Silent Partners Alex Souchen,Matthew S. Wiseman,2023-09-15 Canada s military industrial complex is deeply embedded in the fabric of the country Silent Partners reveals its origins and influence During the Cold War Canada s military industrial and political partnerships developed behind the scenes and without much public scrutiny Silent Partners explores Canada s history of leveraging military and defence expenditures to fund domestic industries bolster employment and support science and technology Military and defence spending have affected Canada in myriad ways from demography and geography to political economy and international relations in uneven patterns of prosperity and decline The contributions in this volume explore the environmental impacts of military activities and munitions production the ethical issues of human experimentation and military testing and the economic and political implications of procurement and arms exports Silent Partners is an illuminating examination of Canada s military industrial complex from a historical perspective     Weapons Procurement in Phase Considerations Glen Segell,1998     The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces Hugo Meijer,Marco Wyss,2018 This volume provides the first geographically and thematically comprehensive study of the evolution and current state of the national security and defence policies strategies doctrines capabilities and military operations as well as the alliances and security partnerships of European armed forces     Beyond the Regulatory Polity? Philipp Genschel,Markus Jachtenfuchs,2014 This volume explores the involvement of the European Union in the exercise of core state powers such as foreign and defense policy public finance public administration and the maintenance of law and order
