The Politics of National Character Balázs Trencsényi, 2012-02-22 The book is a comparative analysis of the ideological constructions of national specificity in Romania Bulgaria and Hungary Studying the growing infatuation with national essence it seeks to understand the radicalization of nationalism in East Central Europe in connection with the shift of the notions of historicity and temporality Trencsényi provides a contextual analysis of the symbolic resources and available ideological references that were used for creating these discourses in the respective countries While focusing on the interwar period when these conceptions became central to the political debate he also reconstructs the long term historical evolution of the discourse of national characterology Through this prism the work offers a contextual reconstruction of the main debates of these elites on national identity from the mid 19th century until 1945 In the light of the three case studies the volume contributes to discussions of the problem of modernism and anti modernism in twentieth century political thought posing the question of the intellectual responsibility of intellectuals in constructing radical ideological frameworks This book offers a broad intellectual panorama discerning the common regional features as well as the considerable divergence between these three cases while also placing them into a wider European intellectual framework of the emergence of radical nationalism

The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1906 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1863 Literature and Society NA Glicksberg,2013-11-11 1 Prolegomena The purpose of this book is to examine anew and from a number of different perspectives the highly complex and controversial relation between literature and society This is not meant to be a study in sociology or political science the analysis of literature its structure content function and effect is our primary concern What we shall try to find out is how the imaginative work is rooted in and grows out of the parent social body to what extent it is influenced in subject matter as well as form and technique by the dominant climate of ideas in a given historical period and to what degree and in what manner literature influences the society to which it is addressed The stream of literary influence is of course difficult to trace to its putative source for here we are not dealing as in science with isolated physical phenomena which can be fitted precisely within some cause and effect pattern The relationship between literature and society is far more subtle and complex than social scientists or cultural critics commonly assume
