Personal Identity Ellen Frankel Paul, Fred Dycus Miller, Jeffrey Paul, 2005 What is a person What makes me the same person today that I was yesterday or will be tomorrow Philosophers have long pondered these questions In Plato's Symposium Socrates observed that all of us are constantly undergoing change we experience physical changes to our bodies as well as changes in our manners customs opinions desires pleasures pains and fears Aristotle theorized that there must be some underlying substratum that remains the same even as we undergo these changes John Locke rejected Aristotle's view and reformulated the problem of personal identity in his own way is a person a physical organism that persists through time or is a person identified by the persistence of psychological states by memory These essays written by prominent philosophers and legal and economic theorists offer valuable insights into the nature of personal identity and its implications for morality and public policy

Personal Identity Georg Gasser, Matthias Stefan, 2012-11-15 We take it for granted that a person persists over time when we make plans we assume that we will carry them out when we punish someone for a crime we assume that she is the same person as the one who committed it Metaphysical questions underlying these assumptions point towards an area of deep existential and philosophical interest In this volume leading metaphysicians discuss key questions about personal identity including What are we How do we persist and Which conditions guarantee our identity over time They discuss whether personal identity is complex whereby it is analyzable in terms of simpler relations such as physical or psychological features or whether it is simple namely something that cannot be analyzed in terms of more fundamental relations Their essays offer an innovative discussion of this topic and will be of interest to a wide readership in metaphysics

Controversies and the Metaphysics of Mind Yaron M. Senderowicz, 2010

Since ancient times metaphysical theories have been shaped by the dialectical relations between metaphysical positions. The present book offers a new account of the role of controversies in the evolution of ideas in current metaphysics of mind. Part One develops a pragmatic theory of metaphysical controversies that combines Kantian themes and themes from current argumentation theory. The theory developed in this book underscores the role of a unique type of dialectical arguments which establish metaphysical positions as controversial relevant alternatives in the evolution of chains of debates in metaphysics. In Part Two and Part Three this theory is applied to chains of debates in present day metaphysics of mind which address the problems of consciousness and personal identity. One of the contentions defended in this book is that the intellectual history of metaphysics is not a process in which positions are replaced by opposite positions but rather a history of their status as relevant alternatives. The book analyzes in detail and demonstrates how progress in contemporary metaphysics of mind consists in a dialectical process through which challenges to extant positions lead to innovative alternatives that are intrinsically relevant to advancing the understanding of the issues under discussion.

Practical Identity and Narrative Agency Kim Atkins, Catriona Mackenzie, 2013-05-13. The essays collected in this volume address a range of issues that arise when the focus of philosophical reflection on identity is shifted from metaphysical to practical and evaluative concerns. They also explore the usefulness of the notion of narrative for articulating and responding to these issues. The chapters, written by an outstanding roster of international scholars, address a range of complex philosophical issues concerning the relationship between practical and metaphysical identity, the embodied dimensions of the first-personal perspective, the kind of reflexive agency involved in the self-constitution of one's practical identity, the relationship between practical identity and normativity and the temporal dimensions of identity and selfhood. In addressing these issues, contributors engage with debates in the literatures on personal identity, phenomenology, moral psychology, action theory, normative ethical theory and feminist philosophy.
