Realist Social Theory The Morphogenetic Approach:

Realist Social Theory Margaret S. Archer, 1995-10-19 Building on her seminal contribution to social theory in Culture and Agency Margaret Archer develops here her morphogenetic approach applying it to the problem of structure and agency. Since structure and agency constitute different levels of stratified social reality each possesses distinctive emergent properties which are real and causally efficacious but irreducible to one another. The problem therefore is shown to be how to link the two rather than conflate them as has been common practice whether in upwards conflation by the aggregation of individual acts downwards conflation through the structural orchestration of agents or more recently in central conflation which holds the two to be mutually constitutive and thus precludes any examination of their interplay by eliding them. Realist social theory the morphogenetic approach thus not only rejects methodological individualism and collectivism but argues that the debate between them has been replaced by a new one between elisionary theorizing such as Giddens' structuration theory and the emergentist theories based on a realist ontology of the social world. The morphogenetic approach is the sociological complement of transcendental realism and together they provide a basis for non conflatory theorizing which is also of direct utility to the practising social analyst.

Rethinking Social Theory Roger Sibeon, 2004-03-27 Identifies and explores unresolved controversies and ambiguities in present day sociological theorizing.

Realist Biography and European Policy Jeffrey David Turk, Adam Mrozowicki, 2013-12-11 Realist Biography and European Policy is the first concerted attempt to integrate the separate strands of critical realism as a developed philosophy for social science with biographical narrative methods as a concrete methodological approach. The main goal is to demonstrate that the combination of critical realism and biographical methods is not only possible but it is exceptionally well suited for the exploration of newly emerging research fields within European policy studies. This volume offers new insights to and is an indispensable reference for researchers in search of solid underpinnings for their own empirical research. Foreword by Miriam Kennet, Director of the Green Economics Institute, Founder and Editor of the International Journal of Green Economics. Contributors: Tatiana Bajuk, Senar Scientific Research Centre of the Slovenian Academy of Sciences and Arts, Institute of Slovenian Ethnology, Bob Carter, University of Leicester, Department of Sociology, Prue Chamberlayne, Open University, Faculty of Health and Social Care, Markieta Domecka, independent researcher, Norbert Kluge, coordinator and adviser for the European Works Council of ThyssenKrupp AG, Lyudmila Nurse, director of Oxford XXI, Elisabetta Perone, University of Naples Federico II, Valeria Pulignano, Centre for Sociological Research, KU Leuven, Antonella Span, University of Naples Federico II, Tom Wengraf, Middlesex University.

Maurice Mandelbaum and American Critical Realism Ian F. Verstegen, 2009-12-16 This is a unique and timely assessment of the work of American critical realist Maurice Mandelbaum and the relation of his thought to contemporary critical realism. Particular attention is paid to how his theories relate to those of Roy Bhaskar. This is essential reading for any student with an interest in critical realism or the history of philosophy.

History and the Study of Religion Stanley Stowers, 2024 How does one understand religion Can one explain religion How does one understand the craft and discipline of the historian How can one best bring together the study of religion with the craft and discipline of the historian I am a historian who works in the study of religion and believe that the present intellectual moment offers enormous in some ways unprecedented opportunities both in the study of religion and historiography But at the same time difficulties and dangers loom together with the opportunities My specialty and prime set of examples lie in the study of ancient Mediterranean religion if indeed there is something that can rightly be called Mediterranean religion or even called religion Many specialists in the study of religion and also many of those who study ancient cultures doubt or even reject outright religion as a cross historical category on the one hand and on the other anything common about religion across the ancient Mediterranean And some cognitive scientists who against religion specialists have argued for the centrality of gods to religion then agree with the skeptics that religion is not a coherent social object a social kind I will argue that long discredited forms of anti realism and untenable anthropocentrism haunt both groups Among other areas I work in Christianity and Judaism Do they belong to Mediterranean religion One can easily see how coming to an understanding of what religion is and what Mediterranean religion is form key questions I will argue that religion is a robust realistic entity a social kind and that ancient Mediterranean religion even with all of its great diversity operated with some key common principles It is no secret that Christianity and Judaism have presented themselves as unique and essentially untouched by an inferior and degenerate religiosity that characterized everyone else in the Mediterranean History looks different when one dispenses with such normatively heavy freight and situates the two within rather than outside of Mediterranean religion
