Rebuilding Trust HI 1995 96 House Of Lords Papers 1995 96:

Prospects for Codifying the Relationship Between Central and Local Government Great Britain: Parliament. House of Commons: Political and Constitutional Reform Committee, 2013-01-29 The Committee has produced its own code included in this report for relations between central and local government The code is intended to replace the estimated 1 293 duties imposed on local government today The Committee concludes that the balance of power between central and local government is skewed in favour of the centre and needs to be addressed The devolution of power to Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland has been successful and is an evolving process there is no apparent reason why local government in England is not capable of using similar powers Power and finance must go together if local government is to become an equal partner it should have own source of revenue Local authorities in England could also have a share of the existing income tax take and local councils freed to raise additional revenue with the consent of their electorates English local government lacks some of the most basic constitutional protections that are available to some of its counterparts in a number of other mature European democracies The Government should examine the possibilities of a stronger constitutional status for local government through an entrenched statutory code or a similar proposal A code for relations between central and local government enforced by statute could be beneficial to both tiers of government for several reasons First it could help set out exactly where powers do and should lie thereby increasing transparency for the electors Secondly it could help redress the overcentralisation of England Thirdly it could provide an economic boost that the country sorely needs

Le nuove dimensioni di un antico confronto Pamela Martino, 2014 Reviving Local Democracy Nirmala Rao, 2000 Reviving local democracy offers a vivid and persuasive critical examination of New Labour's programme for the modernisation of local government providing a balanced view of the democracy and participation debate Since 1997 the Blair government has sought to mobilise popular participation through local referenda new political structures electoral reform and the creation of powerful new elected mayors Through these mechanisms it is hoped that the lack of public interest and persistently low election turnouts will be overcome The book draws on a wide range of new survey data to relate the crisis of local politics and governance to wider changes in the political culture The author goes on to evaluate the government's proposals to reverse decline asking whether this programme of reform is likely to succeed With the aid of a series of recent surveys of both public and councillor opinion and the successful blending of historical and empirical analysis she offers an assessment of the realities which the democratic renewal project will have to confront in its implementation The book is topical and timely and highly accessible and will appeal to students those involved in local government and anyone concerned to see local government become more representative responsive and open to popular participation Transforming Local Governance Gerry Stoker, 2017-03-14 Drawing on the author's unrivalled experience and expertise in both research and policy making this important new book provides a systematic assessment of the changing nature of local governance in Britain and a conceptual framework for understanding the new governance of localities The author analyzes in detail what New Labour has been trying to do to local governance and management and assesses how and why it has achieved only a mixed record of change The book concludes by providing a vision of good local governance and an assessment of future challenges for research and reform The Challenge for Parliament Hansard Society Commission on Parliamentary Scrutiny, Nuffield Foundation, 2001 Parlamentarisk undersøgelse af hvordan det engelske parlament udfører sin opgave som kontrolinstans af regeringen Paying for Progress Fabian Society (Great Britain).
