Reinventing the Tripitaka Greg Wilkinson, Jiang Wu, 2017-09-20 The Chinese Buddhist canon is a systematic collection of all translated Buddhist scriptures and related literatures created in East Asia and has been regarded as one of the three treasures in Buddhist communities Despite its undisputed importance in the history of Buddhism research on this huge collection has remained largely the province of Buddhologists focusing on textual and bibliographical studies We thus aim to initiate methodological innovations to study the transformation of the canon by situating it in its modern context characterized by intricate interactions between East and West as well as among countries in East Asia During the modern period the Chinese Buddhist canon has been translated edited digitized and condensed as well as internationalized contested and ritualized The well known accomplishment of this modern transformation is the compilation of the Taisho Canon during the 1920s It has become a source of both doctrinal orthodoxy as well as creativity and its significance has greatly increased as Buddhist scholarship and devotionism has utilized the canon for various ends However it is still unclear what led to the creation of the modern editions of the Buddhist canon in East Asia This volume explores the most significant and interesting developments regarding the Chinese Buddhist canon in modern East Asia including canon formation textual studies historical analyses religious studies ritual invention and digital research tools and methods

Handbook of Research on Development and Religion Matthew Clarke, 2013-01-01 With eighty percent of the world s population professing religious faith religious belief is a common human characteristic This fascinating and highly unique Handbook brings together state of the art research on incorporating religion into development studies literature and research The expert contributors illustrate that as religious identity is integral to a community's culture exclusion of religious consideration will limit successful development interventions it is therefore necessary to conflate religion and development to enhance efforts to improve the lives of the poor Issues addressed include key tenets beliefs and histories of religions religious response to development concerns gender environment education microfinance humanitarian assistance and the role of faith based organisations and missionaries in the wider development context Practical case studies of countries across Africa Eastern Europe and the Pacific including Australia underpin the research providing evidence that the intersection between religion and development is neither new nor static By way of conclusion suggestions are prescribed for extensive further research in order to advance understanding of this nascent field This path breaking Handbook will prove a thought provoking and stimulating reference tool for academics researchers and students in international development international relations comparative religion and theology
