Urban Youth and School Pushout Eve Tuck,2012-03-15 Winner of the 2013 American Educational Studies Association s Critics Choice Award Recent efforts to reform urban high schools have been marked by the pursuit of ever increasing accountability policies most notably through the use of high stakes standardized testing mayoral control and secondary school exit exams Urban Youth and School Pushout excavates the unintended consequences of such policies on secondary school completion by focusing specifically on the use and over use of the GED credential Building on a tradition of critical theory and political economy of education author Eve Tuck offers a provocative analysis of how accountability tacitly and explicitly pushes out under performing students from the system By drawing on participatory action research as well as the work of indigenous scholars and theories this theoretically and empirically rich book illustrates urban public schooling as a dialectic of humiliating ironies and dangerous dignities Focusing on the experiences of youth who have been pushed out of their schools under the auspices of obtaining a GED Tuck reveals new insights on how urban youth view accountability schooling value the GED and yearn for multiple meaningful routes to graduation

School Choice Or Best Systems Margaret C Wang,Herbert J. Walberg,2001-03 This book addresses one of the most urgent questions in American society today one that is currently in the spotlight and hotly debated on all sides Who shall rule the schools parents or educators School Choice or Best Systems What Improves Education presents an overview of research and practical applications of innovative even radical school reforms being implemented across the United States These fall along a continuum ranging from parental choice to best systems At the one extreme are schools of choice which allow parents to choose and even govern schools for their children These include charter schools traditional private and parochial schools schools that are privately governed but publicly funded through vouchers and those that are funded by private scholarships provided by both corporations and wealthy individuals At the other extreme are centralized state or district systems based on reform initiatives and new systems of education that have been developed in response to views of citizens and legislators that schools can do much better These schools which specify uniform goals policies and programs for each school are highly innovative systems based on research or representing advanced thinking about what works and have attracted wide interest Important questions related to schools of choice and best systems are addressed How can we choose among schools of choice and best systems Among the various approaches within each of these alternatives How can we understand their guiding principles and operational practices What results do they produce How can we evaluate their claims In choosing among the alternatives how should issues of student achievement accountability costs feasibility and equity be factored in This volume brings together leading researchers and education leaders who have carried out the latest studies and advances in the field providing a forum for them to set forth the arguments and evidence that will be most helpful in making choices for tomorrow's schools. It does not provide a single right answer; values and preferences differ across parents, schools, districts, and states. However, there are benefits for all from seeing the rigorous research, challenging thinking, and alternate points of view this volume presents.

Resources in Education, 1995-10 English Learners Left Behind Kate Menken, 2008-01-01 This book explores how high stakes tests mandated by No Child Left Behind have become de facto language policy in U.S. schools, detailing how testing has shaped curriculum and instruction and the myriad ways that tests are now a defining force in the daily lives of English Language Learners and the educators who serve them.
