Regional Ministers Power And Influence In The Canadian Cabinet:

Cabinets and First Ministers Graham White, 2011-11-01 What place do first ministers and their cabinets have in democratic life in Canada Has cabinet become a prime ministerial focus group Do political staff and central agency bureaucrats enhance or diminish democracy Do private members have any say in the cabinet process Graham White renders a clear account of the development structure and operation of cabinet and the role of first ministers at the federal provincial and territorial levels He discusses how the processes that support cabinet are affected by the considerable power of the first minister and looks at the ways in which they permit the involvement of other elected members and the public Taking the view that characterizing our Westminster style government is an oversimplification White examines first ministers and cabinets in terms of accountability and transparency and proposes realistic improvements to this aspect of Canadian democracy

Canada: The State of the Federation 2015 John R. Allan, David L.A. Gordon, Kyle Hanniman, André Juneau, 2018-05-31 Renewing and expanding national infrastructure is critical to the wellbeing and productivity of Canadians and is one of the foremost challenges confronting our federal provincial and municipal governments Not only are the required investments dauntingly large for all three levels of government but so too is the required level of intergovernmental cooperation if our goals are to be realized The 2015 State of the Federation volume advances our understanding of these infrastructure challenges and identifies how best to resolve them The contributors to the volume provide historical or international comparative perspectives and utilize legal economic or administrative approaches to examine the nature and magnitude of the so called infrastructure deficit and the question of how best to finance the necessary investments The possible roles played by deficits and debt are considered together with options such as public private partnerships and asset recycling and a possible Aboriginal resource tax to finance the on reserve infrastructure needs of First Nations Considerable attention is also paid to pricing the use of infrastructure both to achieve efficiency in use and to avoid excess demand and an exaggerated perception of the required level of investment Other contributors examine the infrastructure investment decision processes at the federal and provincial levels and consider the optimal allocation of responsibility for infrastructure investments among the different levels of government and the related issue of the role of intergovernmental transfers to underwrite this allocation
