Here is a lucid, accessible, and inspiring guide to the six perfections, Buddhist teachings about six dimensions of human character that require perfecting: generosity, morality, tolerance, energy, meditation, and wisdom. Drawing on the Diamond Sutra, the Large Sutra on Perfect Wisdom, and other essential Mahayana texts, Dale Wright shows how these teachings were understood and practiced in classical Mahayana Buddhism and how they can be adapted to contemporary life in a global society. What would the perfection of generosity look like today, for example? What would it mean to give with neither ulterior motives nor naiveté? Devoting a separate chapter to each of the six perfections, Wright combines sophisticated analysis with real-life applications. Buddhists have always stressed self-cultivation, the uniquely human freedom that opens the possibility of shaping the kind of life we will live and the kind of person we will become. For those interested in ideals of human character and practices of self-cultivation, The Six Perfections offers invaluable guidance. Regret for the Past Xun Lu, 1998. The Theosophical Path Katherine Augusta Westcott Tingley, 1921. Meyer, 2017-05-15 The essays selected for this volume show how relations between past current and future generations have become a major subject of philosophical research since the 1970s The relations between people alive today with people who may exist in the future and people now deceased differ from relations between contemporaries and in ways that raise new conceptual logical and substantive questions Among the questions addressed in this volume are what is the status of people now deceased and people who may exist in the future Can the latter be harmed by the actions of people alive today What duties of justice do we have towards people with whom we can neither interact nor co operate and can people who are indirect victims of past injustices legitimately claim compensation Answers to these questions are relevant in a number of policy areas most notably in issues regarding reparations for historical injustice and responding to climate change and its consequences

Time pervades every aspect of people's lives We are all affected by remnants of our past assessments of our presents and forecasts of our futures Our thoughts feelings and behaviors over time inexorably intertwine and intermingle determining varied reactions such as affect and emotions as well as future behaviors The purpose of this volume is to bring together the diverse theory and research of an outstanding group of scholars whose work relates to people's judgements over time To date much theory and research on temporal variables within psychology has remained somewhat fragmented isolated and even provincial researchers in particular domains are either unaware of or are paying little attention to each other's work Integrating the theory and research into a single volume will bring about a greater awareness and appreciation of conceptual relations between seemingly disparate topics define and promote the state of scientific knowledge in these areas and set the agenda for future work The volume presents the two main ways of looking at judgments over time looking at how people's thoughts about the future and the past affect their present states and looking at the interplay over time among people's thoughts feelings and behaviors
